Also asked halt to friends' tax audits

Report Dean testimony will prove Nixon stalled probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Dean III told Senate investigators that President Nixon successfully stalled a 1972 congressional investigation of the Watergate bugging and requested that tax audits on some of his friends be halted, a summary of Dean's testimony revealed today.

The seven-page, single-spaced summary also showed Dean testified that Nixon said he had been informed that his 1968 campaign was bugged, and that Nixon asked for a list of troublesome reporters.

The summary of Dean's testimony to the Senate Watergate committee in secret session on Saturday is expected to be the basis of Dean's testimony when the public, nationally televised hearings resume Tuesday.

The summary first was disclosed late Tuesday by Paul Duke of NBC News.

In terse language, the summary said (the quotes are not necessarily Dean's):

"Dean met with the President after the indictments had been handed down. Haldeman was there. Nixon said that Haldeman had reported what a good job Dean had done. Nixon said that Hoover had told him that Nixon had been bugged in the 1968 campaign and Nixon said that some time in the future they would have to use it to their advantage.

"Nixon said Timmons should get on the Patman hearings and make sure it didn't get out of hand. Nixon told Dean he hoped Dean was keeping a list of press who were giving them trouble and they would take care of them after the election. Nixon said that the Democrats had always had effective use of IRS audits, but they had failed.

"Dean has documents where President Nixon requested that tax audits be turned off on friends of his. Haldeman was taking notes at this meeting. White House and CRP (Committee for the Re-Election of the President) blocked Patman hearings by bringing pressure on people to vote against subpoenaing witnesses."

The meeting of Dean, Nixon and then-White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman would have taken place after the September indictments of the original defendants in the June 17 bugging of the Democratic national offices in the Watergate complex.

At the time, Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, was beginning an investigation of Watergate. William E. Timmons was the White House congressional liaison. The Patman investigation ended inconclusively.

There was no elaboration in the summary about the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) audits, who Nixon's "friends" were who were being audited, or how and when Nixon's 1968 campaign had been bugged.

According to the summary, Dean was given the understanding that Nixon knew about an offer of executive clemency for convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. It said John D. Ehrlichman, then one of Nixon's top two aides, and White House special counsel Charles W. Colson apparently were involved in the offer.

"Ehrlichman reported that he had checked with the President and that Colson should tell Bittman (William Bittman, Hunt's attorney) that there would be clemency. Dean heard this from Colson. In the spring, Dean had discussion with the President about this," the summary said.

UPI also learned today Dean told the Senate investigators that Ehrlichman urged him to pressure the CIA into providing assistance, apparently for a cover-up of the Watergate, nine days after the break-in June 17, 1972.

But catching up on reading

Connally insists he's not unhappy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John B. Connally insisted today he is not unhappy in his role as an unpaid adviser to President Nixon, but conceded he is "catching up on my reading" and hopes to leave the White House by midsummer to return to his law practice.

The former Treasury secretary, in a 45-minute news conference sprinkled with humor, also said he believes the Phase IV economic program which will follow the present 60-day price freeze must include such tough measures as mandatory controls on inflation-prone industries.

Asked about reports that he believes Nixon is not making effective use of his time and advice, Connally responded:

"Obviously I'm not fully utilized in an advisory capacity....I'm available for consultation when I'm asked. That's all I'm here for. Obviously I have a lot of time when I could be doing something else. I'm catching up on my reading."

Connally denied published reports that he had urged Nixon to fire Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, but he pointedly refused to say if he had suggested to the President that Ziegler should be transferred to other work.

"I am not unhappy in this position," Connally said in response to a question. But when asked how long he planned to ramain at the White House he said, "As short a time as possible.

"I hope I can be gone by midsummer at the latest. I believe I've given about all the advice I should give."

Connally said he has no doubt that the Watergate scandal has damaged the Nixon administration but he insisted he has never discussed the Watergate or its subsequent cover-up with the President. He repeatedly turned aside questions from reporters on that matter.

A newsman reminded Connally that during his 16-month tenure as Treasury secretary he frequently praised the President for his discipline and organization. Connally was asked if he had reassessed that view in the light of recent events.

"You're on the perimeter of a discussion of Watergate," Connally replied. "I don't want to get into that."

Connally said Nixon's self-discipline "resulted in delegation of enormous authority to other people—that's the way he operates; that's the way he is. I don't think you're going to change him."

Berserk mom slays 2 of 9 children

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A pregnant mother of nine who was said to have resisted her family's attempts to put her in a mental home stabbed and decapitated two of her small children Tuesday on her front lawn, police said.

"I don't know what to do, but I think I'm losing my mind," screamed Mrs. Mary Anne Maloney, 38, as she plunged a knife into her 2-month-old daughter Lisa, witnesses said.

A child ran screaming down the street shouting "She's cutting up the baby, she's cutting up the baby" as Mrs. Maloney returned to the house to get her 1-year-old son, Russell, said a witness, Craig Dickey, 14.

Police found her in the front yard of the family's neatly landscaped two-story home, near the bodies of the two children. Both had been stabbed repeatedly and were "severely mutilated," with their heads cut off and boy's left arm severed, the coroner's office said.

When her husband, Kenneth, 43, arrived home to find the carnage, he shouted in anguish at onlookers "If anybody knows the agony of hell I do. I've put in my time in hell. I've tried to have that woman committed."

His oldest daughter, Debbie, 18, arrived shortly afterwards and had to be held away from him by police as she shouted "I told you to take her away long ago."

The Rev. Charles Dail, who said he had been a neighbor of the Maloneys for 11 years, said he also tried to have Mrs. Maloney taken to a mental institution but all efforts had failed because the law required her consent.

Mrs. Maloney was held at the county jail on murder charges.

Searing heat, smog to stay until Friday

Searing heat and smog continued today in a record-breaking heat wave that shattered the previous Pomona record for June 19 Tuesday.

The weatherman said a Santa Ana type condition is pushing temperatures up to 20 degrees above normal for June. Tuesday's 99-degree high shattered the previous June record of 96 degrees set in 1957.

The hot weather should continue through Thursday with some slight relief promised Friday. The National Weather Service Office in Riverside said temperatures should cool by about five degrees Friday.

The low temperatures are also about 10 degrees above normal. A low of 64 degrees is forecast for tonight.

Moderate smog is forecast today for Pomona Valley by both the Los Angeles and San Bernardino Air Pollution Control districts. The San Bernardino district forecast .25 parts per million today for areas of Chino and Upland. Upland had the highest ozone count in San Bernardino County Tuesday with a peak of .38 ppm.

The Los Angeles district forecast .30 ppm for Pomona today. The peak reading Tuesday in Pomona was .26 ppm.

Los Angeles also had a record-breaking weather day Tuesday with a high of 101 degrees. A high of 100 degrees was forecast there today.

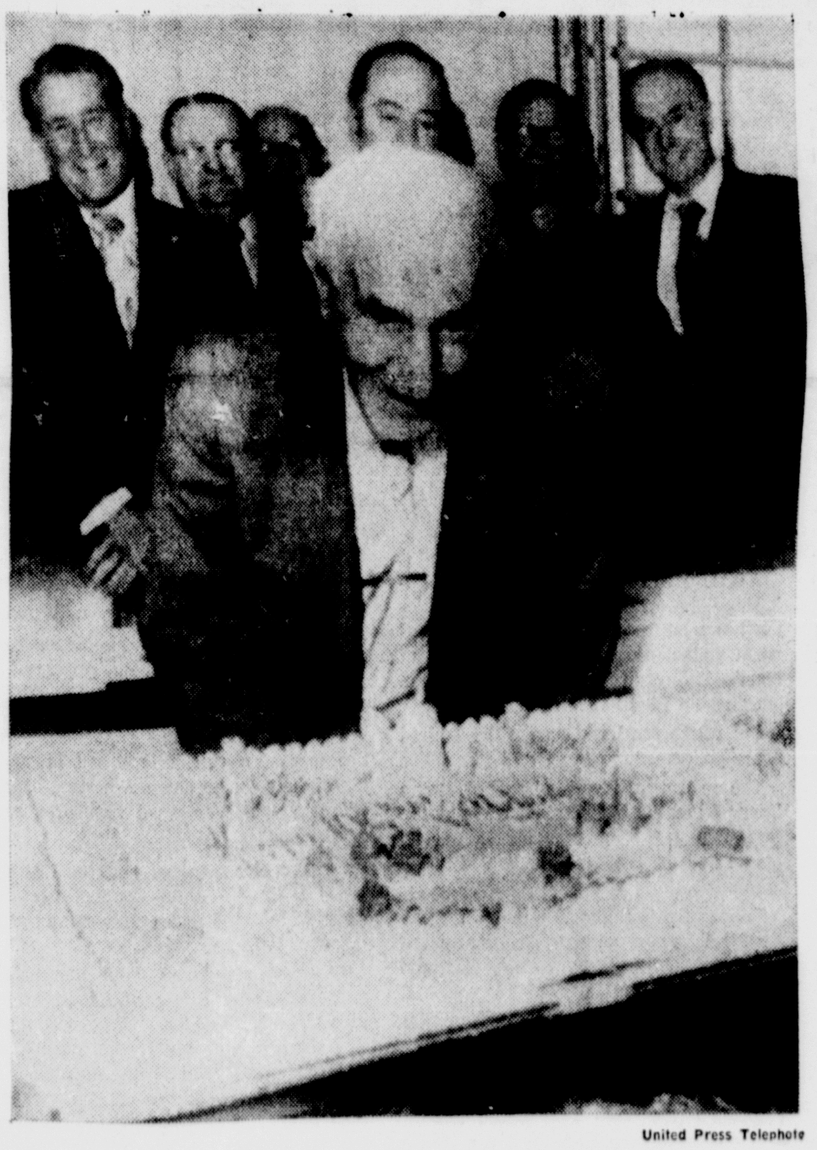

The deserts were hot and extremely dry, causing the U.S. Forest Service to issue its first extreme fire hazard warning of the season Tuesday. High temperatures peaked at 115 in low desert areas and ranged from 95 to 105 in the high deserts.

Beach area forecasts today were highs in the 80s and clear skies. More than 600,000 persons flocked to Southern California beaches Tuesday and beaches were expected to be croweded again today as people seek relief from the heat.

West End, Claremont and La Verne fire departments were kept busy Tuesday afternoon putting out grass fires caused by children playing with fireworks and matches, sparks from machinery and in some cases the extreme heat.

Chino Fire Department Art Koron cautioned residents of the extreme fire danger during the heat wave.

Sparks from a truck apparently set off a fire at the Theta Cable Co., in Ontario. The fire spread to rolls of cable and burned a telephone pole.

Chino girl dies when hit by car

CHINO — A 6-year-old Chino girl was killed Tuesday night when she darted out in front of a car in an attempt to catch up to her aunt, who had just crossed Riverside Drive near Fourth Street.

Linda Garcia of 5070 Riverside Drive was pronounced dead on arrival at Chino General Hospital shortly after the accident occurred at 8:17 p.m.

Police said the little girl had been to a restaurant with her aunt just before the accident. Apparently the aunt crossed the street before the little girl. The little girl dashed out into the street to try to catch up, saw a car coming and froze, police said.

The car driven by Belva Ruth Hottinger, 25, of 5914 Lincoln Ave., struck the little girl and dragged her underneath, police reports said. Police said Mrs. Hottinger did everything she could to avoid the collision, but was unsuccessful. Mrs. Hottinger was treated for shock at the hospital following the accident.

Police said the little girl lived across the street from the restaurant.

7-year-old Diamond Bar boy drowns

PARKER, Ariz. — A 7-year-old Diamond Bar boy died here Tuesday, shortly after being pulled by divers from the Colorado River.

U.S. Coast Guard officials said Michael Haase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael E. Haase of 24110 Decorah Road, was swimming at a resort 10 miles north of here on the California side of the river when the incident occurred.

Authorities said the boy had been jumping into the river while wearing a life jacket, but at some point had removed the jacket, jumped into the water and failed to surface.

Divers, who responded to a rescue call at 11:03 a.m., applied resuscitation at the scene. When the boy failed to respond, he was rushed to Parker Community Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Vesco contribution to Nixon campaign ruled a violation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Finance Committee for the Reelection of President Nixon was found guilty today on three counts of violating the campaign disclosure law because it did not report a $200,000 cash contribution from financier Robert L. Vesco.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr., imposed the maximum fine of $1,000 on each of the three counts after delivering the guilty verdict in the nonjury trial.

Hart said that the Vesco contribution was not reported and that no records were kept of it by the Finance Committee for the Re-election of the President as required by the Federal Campaign Act of 1971.

"This clearly was a contribution under the new act," Hart said, disagreeing with the Nixon re-election committee that because the money was pledged before the act went into effect on April 7, 1972, it did not have to be reported.

Suspect held in slaying of 2 college students

MAYWOOD, Ill. (UPI) — Police today charged Antonio Barrientes, about 21, with the ax and dagger slaying of a pair of college students whose bodies were discovered Tuesday on the grounds of a small private school where they had taken summer jobs.

Barrientes was charged with two counts of murder and one count of burglary in connection with the deaths of Robert C. Erfourth, 23, Lincoln Park, Mich., a spring graduate of Concordia Teachers College, and David P. Hammes, 20, Milwaukee, Wis., who was to be a senior in the fall.

Police questioned Barrientes and another suspect for several hours before charging Barrientes. The other suspect was released.

Maywood Police Chief Wilbert Samuel said one of the suspects admitted killing the students and implicated another man. However, Morton Friedman, chief of the criminal division of the state's attorney's office, said the second man was released because "there was no reason to believe he was involved."

Police said the suspect was traced through a license plate found near the grammar school.

Both victims were employed as night security guards at Concordia and were on duty Monday night, school officials said. They also worked as groundskeepers in exchange for coach house accomodations at Alcuin Montessori School.

Their bodies were found lying face down by a man who had come to the 2 ½ acre former private estate to meet with the school's principal. He told authorities he mistook the coach house for the principal's home.

Nixon, Brezhnev huddle over arms control pact

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, nearing the halfway point in their summit talks, considered the delicate problem of arms control today in the tightly guarded confines of this mountaintop retreat

Before the two leaders began their session, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev signed the fifth agreement of the summit meeting in Washington—an income tax treaty reflecting joint hopes for increased trade.

Nixon and Brezhnev both flew by helicopter to Camp David Tuesday night. They were said to be focusing on the search for a pact limiting offensive nuclear weapons as a companion agreement to the far-reaching defensive arms accord they reached in Moscow a year ago.

Officials on both sides said Nixon's bargaining with the general secretary of the Soviet Communist party would not culminate in an arms control agreement this week, but could spur progress in negotiations that have been underway for months in Geneva.

Couple of businessmen demonstrate one way to beat the gasoline shortage Tuesday as they pedal their way through Omaha traffic in a "people-powered vehicle (PPV), a three-wheeled machine now available at $379. Stan Olson, Omaha, left, and Jack McLintic, Des Moines, found they got unlimited miles per gallon and could go up to 35 m.p.h. if the wind were right.

Recreation banned

Pipe breaks, turns harbor into sewer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An underground sewage pipe burst Tuesday and flushed millions of gallons of raw sewage into the Los Angeles Harbor. Health authorities today banned swimmers, water skiers and scuba divers.

The City Sanitation Bureau said it could take several days to a week to halt the flow of sewage, running at 3 to 5 million gallons a day, but it could be weeks before the harbor is safe for water sports.

Tons of chlorine was rushed to the harbor to reduce the bacteria count. The sewer pipe break ocurred at 3 a.m. Tuesday, and within 12 hours the city had dumped 1,500 pounds of chlorine into the harbor—enough for 3,000 home swimming pools.

The county health department prohibited all water contact sports in the harbor because of the danger of disease from the vast quantities of bacteria present in the sewage. The county board of supervisors ratified the quarantine in an emergency meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The quarantine affects Cabrillo Beach, one of the city's biggest, which draws an average of 7,500 bathers on summer weekdays and up to 12,500 a day on weekends.

Ocean beaches outside the harbor were not affected.

The ban will remain in force until the water meets state bacteria count standards, and officials said that could be a matter of several weeks.

The pipeline break, described by one official as "one of our larger ones of the past 10 years," occurred in a line on Terminal Island just outside the pumping plant that propels incoming sewage to a treatment plant. The resultant flooding short circuited the pump motors. Incoming sewage backed up and had to be routed into the harbor.

Crews were trying to rig temporary pumps, but sewer maintenance supervisor Jack McCollum estimated it would take up to six days to end the overflow into the harbor.

A spokesman for the California Department of Fish and Game said "there is no fish problem at the moment and we don't anticipate any problem. But the longer it goes on, the greater chance we may have some fish losses."

John Murphy, assistant superintendent of sewer maintenance reported early today that first attempts to replace the pumps had failed and the outflow was continuing unabated.

Legislators reach accord

$9 billion state budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative budget negotiators have reached agreement on a proposed $9 billion-plus state budget, the largest of any state in the nation.

The spending proposal for the next fiscal year, which begins in 10 days, contains large pay hikes for state employes and the biggest increase in state school aid in history.

The budget also provides $82 million for reconstruction of the golden-domed Capitol-deemed to be hazardous in case of an earthquake — and construction of a new legislative office building and Senate and Assembly chambers. About $1 million is provided for building a governor's mansion.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, chairman of the two-house budget conference committee, said the exact size of the budget had not been computed.

But Senate Republican leader Fred W. Marler Jr. of Redding, a member of the committee, predicted it would be "substantially" larger than the $9.3 billion sought by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The committee began its work June 11 to resolve differences between the $9.4 billion budget bill passed by the Assembly and the $9.09 billion version adopted by the Senate.

The budget for the current year is $7.7 billion.

Collier and Marler said appropriation of $215 million in federal revenue sharing funds was restored to the budget.

Democrats in both houses had deleted the appropriation, contending Reagan wanted to use it indirectly for a tax rebate while it should go for education.

Collier said the committee would meet later to go over amendments and sign the conference committee report. The group has been meeting behind closed doors, which is permitted under legislative rules, to compete work on the budget.

Collier expected the legislature to send the measure to Reagan Thursday, six days after the constitutional deadline for passage.

The four Democrats and two Republicans on the committee could not reach agreement on the budget by last Friday's deadline. There is no penalty for failing to meet the cutoff date.

Reagan has 12 days to go over the budget bill before signing it. Marler predicted Reagan would reduce its size with his line-item veto during that period.

Police-Muslim gun battle kills two, wounds three

ATLANTA (UPI) — Two men were killed and three others wounded in a midtown gunbattle Tuesday that erupted when police interfered with a group of blacks trying to force a passersby to purchase a Black Muslim newspaper.

One of the dead and one of the injured were policemen.

The dead were identified as Patrolman Larry Barkwell, 33, who had been on the force four years, and Kenneth G. Dozier, one of at least five blacks involved in the gunbattle.

Police Sgt. Julius Derico Jr. was wounded, along with a security guard identified as Robert Watson, 32, and Johnny Lee Chambliss, 25.

Homicide detectives said Chambliss and Lee Anderson, 41, were charged with Barkwell's death.

At least six others were arrested and charged either with aggravated assault or violation of the Georgia Drug Abuse Control Act.

Police chief John Inman said "preliminary indications are that the Muslims were shoving newspapers in the faces of some pedestrians." The shooting apparently was touched off by a shoving match between four city policemen and five blacks trying to sell the Black Muslim newspaper.

"We're going to take appropriate action to protect pedestrians and law-biding citizens on the downtown streets. We will take whatever legal measures are necessary," Inman said.

Lt. B. L. Neikirk, head of the investigation, said he believed other persons would be arrested as a result of the midday shooting.

"We believe there may be some fugitives still at large and anticipate some arrests," Neikirk said. "It is very possible there may eventually be more than one person charged with the murder."

Barkwell, a four-year-veteran whose twin brother is a policeman in nearby Powder Springs, was one of four policemen who asked the blacks to stop harassing passerby on the busy street when, according to police chief John Inman, "it erupted into a shooting match."

Firestone union out on strike

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The United Rubber Workers Union called a strike early today against Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. after negotiations on a new contract broke down here.

A Firestone spokesman said the talks "were broken off by the union about 3 a.m. (EDT) today and a strike went into effect at 12 Firestone plant locations around the country."

Major roadblocks to a settlement were not divulged by the company, but its statement called union demands "unrealistic."

Biggest hike ever in '73 food prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new Agriculture Department survey predicts grocery prices this year will average about 12.5 per cent above 1972—the largest one-year increase in 26 years.

One department expert said Tuesday the gain would have been as much as 14 per cent if President Nixon had not put the current 60-day price freeze into effect.

It was the third time Agriculture Department economists had raised their estimate of this year's increase in food prices.

Last fall, economists predicted 1973 retail food prices would be up only 3.5 per cent from 1972. Early this year they raised the estimate to 6.5 per cent, and in May they hiked it again to 10 per cent.

The soaring prices, economists said, "reflected unprecedented domestic and foreign demand for commodities in the face of diminished stocks and uncertainty over the extent of increases in 1973 crop production."

The report said that if present demand and supply forecasts prove accurate, "little if any further price increases will be forthcoming after the 60-day ceiling period."

If weather conditions permit, the report said, farmers will harvest record crops this year with marketings up 5 per cent from 1972.

But department economists said the boom in livestock feed prices apparently has forced many livestock, dairy and poultry producers to cool off expansion plans and is "preventing much easing in prices in these markets."

4th suspect convicted in union killing

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Albert Pass, the highest United Mine Workers official yet charged in the case, was convicted of first degree murder Tuesday in the killings of union rebel Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski and his family. The prosecution promised to make "at least one more rest."

"We do not intend to stop with this conviction," said special prosecutor Richard Sprague. "It was obvious from the trial testimony someone in Washington gave the green light to Pass."

Pass, 54, Middlesboro, Ky., faces life imprisonment on three murder counts in the Dec. 31, 1969, shooting deaths of Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

Sprague previously charged that former UMW President W.A. "Tony" Boyle initiated a plot to murder Yablonski, who was killed three weeks after losing to Boyle in a union election. Sprague declined to name further suspects in a post-trial news conference Tuesday.

"Whatever action we take will speak for itself," he said.

Pass was accused of converting a $20,000 union organizing loan from Boyle into a murder fund by having the money kicked back from Tennessee and Kentucky coal miners in District 19, of which he had been financial secretary. He also represented the district on the UMW International Executive Board.

The conviction was delivered by a jury of seven men and five women after five hours of deliberation. The trial lasted 15 days, including two hours of defense testimony.

Pass, a stocky, balding man, stared with his head held high as each of the polled jurors said "guilty of murder in the first degree." As he was led from the nearly-empty courtroom he waved to several family members, including his wife and son.

"We haven't given up," Mrs. Beulah Mae Pass said. "We know he isn't guilty."

Defense attorney Harold Gondolman said he would appeal the verdict "by Friday."

Three other men, including former field organizer William J. Prater, have been convicted of first degree murder in the case. A woman and two men, one of them a former UMW local president, have confessed. None has been sentenced on state charges.

Prater, who wrote a confession the day after his March 26 conviction, was the key witness against Pass, his longtime colleague. Prater pleaded guilty to a federal charge of interfering with Yablonski's civil rights by having him killed and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Paternity suit for Rolling Stone

LONDON (UPI) — Mick Jagger, star of the Rolling Stones rock group, was charged by singer Marsha Hunt Tuesday with being the father of her 2-year-old daughter.

Miss Hunt, 26, once a member of the cast of the rock musical "Hair," now is with a group called "22." Jagger, who married Nicaraguan Bianca De Macias in 1971 and has one daughter by her, was not in court. His lawyer won an application for blood tests.

'Me Tarzan, you in spirit world'

NEW YORK (UPI) — On June 18, the family of the late Lex Barker, who played Tarzan in the movies, held a seance to communicate with him through British medium Margaret Staves. At that seance, Miss Staves deciphered a message Barker had written before his death last month.

Barker's widow, Zan, and his son, Alexander, are "satisfied that Miss Staves had made contact with Barker and had caught a glimpse of the message," which had been locked in a bank vault, Stuart Lichtenstein of the National Enquirer, sponsor of the seance, said Monday.

He will replace Gen. Donald V. Bennett, picked last week to command all U.S. Army forces in the Pacific.

House okays full rank for Rickover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House wants President Nixon to promote retired Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover to full admiral in recognition of his "singular contribution" to national defense.

2 Rosenberg sons file suit over book

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a book called "The Implosion Conspiracy" published this year, attorney Louis Nizer said Julius and Ethel Rosenberg "had no true love and affection" for their two sons and "tried to manipulate them for illegal purposes."

The sons of the Rosenbergs, Michael, 29, and Robert, 25, filed suit against Nizer Tuesday, charging he copied a good part of their own book, "Deathhouse Letters of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg," to "enhance the creddibility of false, fictitious and distorted writing." The Rosenbergs were convicted of giving atom bomb plans to the Russians and were executed in 1953.

Boy, 10, pickets construction job

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — "I think this is unfair," read the sign carried by Thomas J. Hotchkiss, 10, as he staged a one-man picket of a construction site.

The boy said Tuesday he had been paid $2.05 for eight, eight-hour days of work. "I expected at least $16 more than I received," he said.

A foreman at the project said he did not hire the boy, though Tommy was used to get soda and coffee for the hardhats. In fact, the foreman said, he chased the boy off the site several times.

Testimony leaked

Nixon wanted tax audits on friends halted--Dean

WASHINGTON (UPI — The Washington Post reported today that former White House counsel John W. Dean III has told the Senate Watergate committee under oath that he has documents showing President Nixon requested that tax audits being conducted on presidential friends be halted.

The Post said a written summary of Dean's testimony before the committee did not describe the documents or name any of the President's friends who might have benefitted from a halt to audits by the Internal Revenue service..

The newspaper said that the summary of Dean's remarks said "Nixon said that the Democrats had always had effective use of the IRS audits, but they (Republicans) had failed."

The White House said it would have no comment on any leaks in Dean's testimony until he actually appears before the committee Tuesday.

The summary of Dean's testimony was made after the fired White House counsel met with the Senate committee privately Saturday.

The summary also said, the Post reported, that Dean told investigators that the President was keeping a list of reporters who were giving the administration "trouble," and that the White House would "take care of them after the election." The quotes are from the summary, and are not necessarily Dean's exact words.

Nixon, Congress appear moving into era of detente

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After years of hostile confrontation, President Nixon and Congress are moving into an era of peaceful, although tenuous, coexistence.

Both sides have stepped back from the brink.

Congress, for its part, has started to reassert its badly eroded parity as an equal partner in government while, at the same time, accepting Nixon's determination to hold down government spending.

And Nixon, finally, has accepted Congress as an equal branch, expressing a new willingness to compromise with Capitol Hill and opening for the first time direct lines of communications.

The beginning of a new era was forcibly demonstrated in two unrelated events Tuesday:

—Nixon signed four bills which the administration as far back as March 9 labeled "budget busting" and which Nixon was determined to veto.

—Melvin R. Laird spoke to the Senate Republicans at their weekly Tuesday luncheon and assured them that the relationship between Capitol Hill and the White House would be new, different, and better.

The two events were a dramatic departure from the days when the Haldeman-Ehrlichman axis ruled the White House. Congress was sent legislation on a take it or have-it-vetoed basis, and even the most loyal administration backers were ignored.

Signed on Monday, although not announced until Tuesday, were four bills, three of which Nixon had previously vetoed as too costly.

The three bills extending a dozen health measures through June 30, 1974; authorizing $430 million for the economic development administration (EDA); and providing $620 million aid to airport development over two years were vetoed earlier. The fourth bill establishes a new veteran's cemetery system and increases burial benefits.

As late as March 9, John Ehrlichman, then Nixon's chief domestic strategist, called the airport, EDA, and cemetery bills part of a "budget busting" package, which he said Nixon was determined to block.

Ehrlichman labeled the three bills a "$9 billion herd of Trojan horses that are thundering our way from out of Congress, brightly painted and outfitted with very attractive accessories."

But in signing the bills, Nixon said he was entering into a "partnership of give and take" with Congress.

"Each measure differs somewhat from my own request, but each one also represents an effort by the Congress to strike a reasonable compromise with the administration," Nixon added. "While the authorization levels are higher than I believe desirable, they will not damage our overall fiscal position if the Congress now follows my recommendations in the appropriations process."

Nixon added, "so long as Congress follows a responsible course in the passage of future spending bills, I will cooperate in the spirit of partnership."

The real test of the detente is still to come.

The appropriations bills are just beginning to move through the House and have yet to reach the Senate.

Although the President's budget is set at $268.7 billion and Congress has a self-imposed ceiling of 268, the two sides hold different priorities.

Congress appears ready to cut defense and foreign aid programs and divert the money to domestic needs, especially health and education. Nixon may balk at the rearranging of spending.

In language more reminiscent of the cold war between the two branches, Nixon said "let there be no mistake about one fundamental point — if bills come to my desk which are irresponsible and would break open the federal budget, forcing more inflation upon the American people, I will veto them."

Homeowners vote to fight airport

By JOE FARLEY
P-B Staff Writer

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, recalling boarded up homes and plunging market values in neighborhoods surrounding Los Angeles International Airport, voted Tuesday night to officially oppose the proposed Chino Hills Aiprort.

"We're talking about an airport as big, if not bigger than, Los Angeles International. Flights originating from the airport will make a right turn directly over Diamond Bar," said Frank Skrah, chairman of the homeowners' ad hoc committee on the airport complex.

Skrah did not say what specific measures the group would take in oppsing the facility, but placed hope in the influence of a proposed Municipal Adivosory Council. The council, which would give the unincorported community power as a city planning commission, would be appointed by Supervisor Peter Schabarum and could have county level pull, Skrah aid.

In the meantime, he said, local residents can wait for an environmental impact report and hearing before the Federal Aviation Administration sometime in September when citizen protest will be considered.

The airport, planned for an area about four miles northeast of Yorba Linda at a 1,400 foot elevation, would initially serve approximately 12,042 commercial air passengers flights a month, Skrah's report states.

There would also be an estimated 2,125 air freight flights, about 200 transient, visitor or military flights and 1,500 flights from aircraft based at the facilty, he said. The monthly flight total, according to Skrah's FAA sources, would be 15,867 or about 190,400 per year.

The FAA has granted tentative airspace approval, with the final airspace sanction expected following presentation of the impact report on the facility in September.

The Chino Hills complex has also been opposed by Boards of Supervisors in San Bernardino and Orange counties and the cities of Brea, Corona, La Habra, Norco, Placentia, Riverside and Yorba Linda and the Orange County Airport Commission.

Car-truck crash hurts Ontarian

ONTARIO A 17-year-old Ontario youth escaped serious injury Tuesday afternoon when a tractor-trailer collided with a car in the intersection of Mountain Avenue and Fourth Street, police reported.

Jeffery Thomas Annis of 1546 N. Amber Court is in Pomona Valley Community Hospital this morning for observation after being treated at Montclair Doctor's Hospital for a head laceration suffered in the accident.

Police said Annis's car, making a left turn off of Mountain eastbound to Fourth Street, was struck broadside by a tractor-trailer truck driven by Harlin Hoyt, 58, of 9046 Monte Vista Ave., Montclair. The force of the impact caved in the right side of Annis's car about 18 inches, said police. The car was dragged more than 40 feet by the tractor. Hoyt was not injured.

For two Riverside men

Trial begins in throat-slashing case

POMONA — The trial of two Riverside men, accused of cutting the throats of a young man and his sister during a robbery in their parents' home here March 23, was scheduled to begin today in Pomona Superior Court.

The defendants are Keith Arnold Spears, 22, and James Franklin Hooker, 21. In addition to two counts of assault with intent to commit murder, Spears and Hooker are charged with four counts of robbery and burglary. They were being held in lieu of $50,000 bail.

The incidents occurred at 797 E. Harrison Ave., the home at that time of George and June Ryan. The house has since been sold. The two who had their throats cut are Gale Louise Ryan, 21, and her 24-year-old brother, Mark.

The victims said that two armed men forced their way into the house, tied them up and then ransacked the place after a girl knocked on the door and claimed to be taking a survey. Before leaving, the two victims' throats were cut as they lay tied on the floor of their parents' bedroom, a few feet from their parents. But Mark managed to free himself and run outside, which caused the intruders to flee. The suspects were arrested later that night.

Both victims recovered. Miss Ryan was the most seriously injured. Her wound required 97 stitches.

The trial is scheduled for a jury in the court of Judge August J. Goebel. It is expected to be lengthy. The defense has asked for a change of venue and Goebel was to rule on that motion, and other pretrial defense motions, today.

Prisoner freed in party disturbance; 3 arrested

UPLAND — Two Upland men and a 17-year-old youth were booked in West End Jail this morning for investigation of freeing a prisoner in custody of a police officer at 139 N. Ninth Ave. Friday night.

Arrested Monday on charges of lynching were Ron Rodriquez, 18, and Richard Martinez Lira, 20, both of 139 N. Ninth Ave., and a 17-year-old youth.

Police said the arrests stemmed from an incident Friday night when a police officer investigating a noisy party at the 9th Avnue address arrested a man for possession of marijuana. As Upland police officer Douglas Millmore was attempting to leave the residence with his prisoner, he was surrounded by an angry mob of approximately 50 partygoers. The mob began pushing and shoving Millmore, forcing him to let the prisoner go.

As a result of the incident Upland Police Department called surrounding police departments to aid in dispersing the partygoers. Before it was over, four police officers were stuck by bottles and rocks thrown by persons at the party. No injuries resulted.

Police said that Edward A. Nardy, 18, of 2505 Cypress Ave., Upland, was later arrested on a warrant signed by Millmore charging possession of marijuana. Several other persons were arrested following the Friday night incident on various disturbing the peace charges. All are awaiting arraignment in West Valley Municipal Court.

Handicapped youths in area away at camp

Handicapped children from the Pomona Valley are attending two summer resident camps operated by the Crippled Children's Society through June 30.

The camps, Camp Paivika and Camp Joan Mier, are funded entirely by contributions to Crippled Children's Seals and offer a full program of activities without charge to hundreds of disabled children and adults in Southern California during the summer.

Attending from the area are Theresa Floyd, 10, Pomona; Carrie Joy Stirhoff, 9, Rowland Heights; Caroline Gastello, 8, Steven Jackson, 7, Todd McIntosh, 11, and Deanna Jo Olson, 9, all of Hacienda Heights.

Camp Paivika is located in the mountains near Crestline and Camp Joan Mier is on the coast above Malibu. Five summer sessions of two weeks each are offered. Two scientists on sub died of carbon dioxide

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — A medical examiner said today that two scientists died of carbon dioxide poisoning while trapped in their tiny research submarine 360 feet on the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean.

"They just went unconscious and died," said Dr. A. J. Fernandez, the Monroe County medical examiner, who estimated the men had been dead 46 hours when he examined their bodies around 11 p.m. Tuesday. That would place the time of death 16 hours before the sub was brought to the surface.

A physician aboard the mother ship of the submarine, Dr. David Youngblood, earlier had blamed the deaths on "cold exposure."

Fernandez said after his three-hour examination of the bodies at Key Memorial Hospital that Al Stover, 51, Juno Beach, Fla., and Clayton Link, 31, Binghamton, N. Y., died about the same time.

Two other crewmen aboard the 21-foot submarine which got snared Sunday in the cables of an old destroyer off Sugar Loaf Key while studying marine life survived the 31-hour ordeal on the ocean floor.

Fernandez' estimated time of death was 11 hours before the survival deadline calculated Sunday by Link's father, Edwin A. Link, inventor of the sub. The elder Link had said the men probably would die if they weren't rescued before the sub's supply of a chemical called barralime, which absorbs carbon dioxide, ran out about noon Monday.

A drop in the temperature decreases the absorbancy of the chemical, making it less effective in combatting carbon dioxide buildup. The temperature in the rear cabin occupied by Link and Stover fell to 40-45 degrees during the sub's imprisonment and it was first thought the men died of the prolonged chill.

Youngblood said Tuesday that it would have been "tantamount to suicide" for the two men to swim out of their cabin and try to reach the surface on their own because "they were so deep and had built up such a high decompression time."

The bodies of the two men were removed from the cabin late Tuesday night after the sub underwent prolonged decompression and detoxification in hopes they still might have been alive.

The survivors, Dr. Robert Meek, 27, of Santa Barbara, Calif., an ichthyologist, and Archibald "Jock" Menzies, 30, Vero Beach, Fla., pilot of the sub, the Johnson-Sea-Link, were pronounced in good condition after slight decompression Monday. They were dropped off at an undisclosed spot before the Sea Diver docked Tuesday so they could rest and be with their families.

Meek and Memzies were in the forward cabin of the sub which got caught in the wreckage of a scuttled World War I destroyer while the men were studying fish life for the Smithsonian Institution Sunday.

Link, father of an 18-month-old son, and Stover, who had seven sons, were in the rear compartment, which has an egress hatch for scuba diving excursions.

The front, a viewing bubble, is made of plastic while the rear cabin is made of aluminum. That may have been the fatal difference. Aluminum loses heat faster than plastic and the temperature fell to 45 degrees on the ocean bottom.

Mischievous sons take dad's truck for ride

MONTCLAIR — What's a dad to do?

Three sons, ranging from 13 to 17 years old, took a Pomona father's pickup out for a ride Tuesday night.

Highway patrolmen stopped the vehicle in Montclair after a short, slow speed pursuit. The driver, 15, and his brother, 13, attempted to run but were caught a short distance away. A third brother, 17, did manage to elude capture.

Officers called the father and asked that he come to the scene. After waiting more than a half hour, the father was called again.

The dad had a good reason for not getting there. He was still trying to find transportation since the kids had taken his truck.

Officers then stored the vehicle and drove the youngsters home. The driver was cited.

Woman hurt as car flips on freeway

CHINO — A Los Angeles woman lost control of her car Tuesday on the Pomona Freeway when she reached over to grab her dog.

The sedan went into a broadside skid then rolled over twice, highway patrolmen said.

Barbara Noid, 25, was taken to Chino General Hospital with facial cuts and a possible concussion. She was later transferred to the San Bernardino County Hospital, officials said.

She was driving west on the freeway about 65 miles an hour when her dog started moving around inside the car, she said. The dog, which apparently escaped without injuries, was taken to an animal shelter for keeping.

Scout drowns in Lake Mohave

BULLHEAD CITY, Ariz. (UPI) — Edward Walker, 12, on an outing with a Boy Scout troop from his hometown of Cypress, Calif., drowned Tuesday while trying to swim across a cove in Lake Mohave.

The youngster, pronounced dead at a clinic in this Colorado River community, was with Boy Scout Troop 610 when he and a friend tried to swim across the first cove after eating lunch.

A spokesman for the National Park Service said Walker began calling for help about half way across and disappeared beneath the surface.

Adults on shore grabbed scuba gear and then pulled Walker to shore from some 30 feet of water, but attempts to revive him failed.

Counterfeit money found inside prison

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — The Secret Service can't put counterfeiters discovered here behind bars. The culprits are already there.

Officials at the California Men's Colony, a prison camp, revealed Monday they had discovered that counterfeit money and envelopes with bogus postage meter imprints were being made in the prison print shop.

Gas tax for transit wins vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation permitting the state to spend gasoline tax revenues for rapid transit moved to the Assembly today after narrowly winning passage from the Senate.

The proposed constitutional amendment (SCA15) by Sen. James R. Mills, D-San Diego, was approved Tuesday on a 27-12 vote, the bare minimum necessary.

The measure would have to be approved by voters, who rejected a similar proposal, Prop. 18, in 1970. Currently, gasoline taxes may be used only for construction of highways.

Mills estimated the measure would divert $50 million in gasoline taxes, about 95 per cent of the total collected, and would be matched by about $100 million or more in federal funds.

He said the state faces "grave problems" in meeting its transportation needs because of predictions of fuel shortages and proposals to restrict automobile travel.

However, Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, warned completion of the freeway system is "woefully behind schedule" and diversion of funds would further hamper the task.

"The gas pump is not a cash register but you can't make the people in the legislature realize that," Short declared.

Short said Mills' proposal would have the state "participate forever in the colossal flop" of rapid transit.

Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, said the state is $12 billion behind in completing its freeway system, adding "Let's not destroy it in our effort to find the appropriate alternative."

Mills said there would be sufficient funds for continued freeway construction because 95 per cent of the gas tax revenues would not be used by the measure.

He said his legislation contained a provision insuring that rual areas would not lose more than 3 per cent of the total they now receive from gas tax funds.

A similar constitutional amendment by Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, has passed the Assembly. But it does not contain the provision guaranteeing rural areas would suffer only a "minimal" loss of funds.

Ban on fetus experiments OK'd

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation prohibiting medical experiments on live, aborted fetuses has been approved by a Senate committee after a witness testified such experiments have been conducted at Stanford University.

The bill (SB1046) by Sen. David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles, was sent to the floor Tuesday on an 8-0 vote of the Judiciary Committee.

The measure also would make it a felony to attempt experimentally to cause human conception outside of the womb.

James Babcock, 21, a premedical student at the University of California, Berkeley, told the committee that at Stanford in the past, live fetuses have been placed in artificial wombs and "cruel acts" performed on them.

He said the experiments were designed to determine whether the fetuses would absorb oxygen under pressure. During the experiment, Babcock said the rib cages of the fetuses were cut and they were subjected to rapid decompression.

High winds fan brush fire on reservation

BANNING (UPI) — Pushed by winds off the desert, the second major brush fire in two weeks in Riverside County blossomed out of control on the Morongo Indian reservation 2 ½ miles northeast of Banning Tuesday.

A Division of Forestry spokesman said, "that sonofagun is taking off" as the Santa Ana winds hurled the blaze through 400 acres in an hour and a half. The spokesman said "we have no idea how far this is going to go."

The fire broke out at 6:30 P.M. and by 9 P.M. had consumed 600 acres. There were no reports of structure losses or injuries.

Units—including 11 hand crews, two trucks and six bulldozers — from Riverside County, San Bernardino, Banning, the Office of Emergency Services and conservation camps in the area set up a full fire camp. Four air tankers fighting the blaze shut down for the night.

Two weeks ago a brush fire blackened 2,112 acres on the Soboda Indian reservation southeast of San Jacinto.

Senate asks court backing on remap bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate, anticipating a threatened veto by Gov. Ronald Reagan, is asking the state Supreme Court to implement its incumbent-protecting reapportionment bill anyway.

In an unusual move, the Senate adopted by voice vote Tuesday a petition urging the high court to accept the plan as the "most equitable and desirable" method of realigning Senate political boundaries.

At the same time, Sen. John Harmer of Glendale, chief Republican reapportionment engineer, disclosed that Reagan had agreed in writing to sign the Senate plan if it were handed to him separately from the Assembly plan.

Both proposals are contained in a single bill awaiting action by Reagan, who has broadly hinted he would veto the all-or-nothing measure. He has deplored the Assembly plan as "blatant" gerrymandering and praised the Senate lines as "pretty good."

Leaders of both parties in the Assembly and Senate are concerned there is insufficient support to override a gubernatorial veto, something that hasn't occurred in nearly three decades.

The state Supreme Court, meantime, is pressing ahead with reapportioning the legislature. The court took jurisdiction of the issue when the lawmakers failed to perform the task in accordance with the population shift reflected in the 1970 census.

Without debate, the Senate adopted a Harmer-authored resolution asking the court to accept its plan. Such a direct appeal by either house of the legislature to the judiciary is considered rare.

In bold capital letters, the resolution declared Reagan told the Senate by letter on Tuesday he "approves" of the Senate proposal and would sign it "if it could be presented to him containing only the Senate plan."

Earlier, the Assembly, fearing Reagan would veto its reapportionment bill amended it into the Senate bill, making it an all inclusive and inseparable legislative and congressional measure. Reagan previously had voiced support for the Senate plan.

Bridal shop relents on refund for wrong gown

My son and his girl friend went to a Los Angeles bridal shop on Feb. 24 and laid away a wedding gown which cost $98.30. The down payment was $20. The receipt is in the name of my son's girl friend.

She called the store several times and was told to come in and be measured. Saturday we went to the store and were greeted by another lady. I gave her the receipt and she brought in a gown but it was not the one that had been laid away.

This lady told the bride-to-be that the only size she had in the other style was 16, which is too large.

Immediately I asked for the $20 refund. We were told there was nothing she could do as a new owner. I am enclosing a photostatic copy of the receipt. I would really appreciate it if you could help us. —Mrs. M. P., Chino.

The new store owner sent the refund check, made out to the bride-to-be, directly to Action Line and we forwarded it to her.

Although she was convinced that she was within her legal and moral rights in her original refusal to refund the money, the store owner wrote she was making the refund to defend the good name of her store.

My problem involves a catologue store in Chicago. In 1970 I had purchased several things from the store for which I paid cash at the time. In December 1971 my account was clear and free.

In March 1972 I wanted to send some drapes back to them, drapes which never had been hung, and asked them in a letter if I could get my money back for this merchandise because it came to $140.76. They guaranteed my money back so I sent the drapes back in April 1972.

In May 1972 I received a check of $4.30 for the postage I had paid for the returned goods.

Unfortunately this was the only money I ever received from them. They sent me letter on May 10, 1972, stating that an adjustment was being handled for me but I never received more than a standard letter asking for more information.

I must have written to the store at least 30 times over the past year. Some letters by certified mail, but I never received my money back.

In September 1972, I was so desperate that I ordered some more merchandise hoping that the amount would equal itself out. I owe them $129.39 now but they owe me $140.76. They keep send me bills but I feel I should not pay because they still owe me money.—R. B., La Verne.

In response to an Action Line letter, the customer relations manager sent us a copy of a letter to you showing that several adjustments have been made in your account.

You say the records are still not accurate but you are content to leave things as they are because the new figures come within $1 of allowing you to come out even.

I have been trying to get support for my children and myself.

My husband, who comes home two nights a week, has an apartment in Los Angeles and is living there with someone. He does not pay the house mortgage here, the utilities or other debts incurred.

Is there someone who can help me? I don't have money and can't work because I have two small children. My house is going into foreclosure. —M.C., Pomona.

The Legal Aid Office of San Gabriel Valley will be glad to consult with you although it cannot conduct legal procedures for you since it no longer handles domestic cases. A Legal Aid staff member mentioned $50 as a minimum fee a needy person can expect to be charged by an attorney in a nonsupport case.

The Lawyers Reference Service may also help you.

Two stores held up

Youths booked in mart robberies

POMONA — Three 17-year-old youths have been arrested in connection with two armed robberies of two 7-11 Markets here Tuesday night.

Two of the youths were arrested late Tuesday night and the third was taken into custody at 8 a.m. today. All were booked on suspicion of armed robbery and all remained unidentified because they are juveniles. Police said some of the loot from the holdups was recovered.

The first holdup was shortly after 10:30 at the 7-11 Market at 625 S. Dudley St. Henry Blair, 42, who works there, said one of the youths walked in first and was followed moments later by the second. They were at the counter when one youth tapped Blair on the head with the barrel of a rifle, announced a holdup and warned the five customers to remain still. The victims noticed the rifle had a telescopic sight.

After taking money from the cash register, the two fled outside and were hailed by a third youth driving a car. They sped away southbound on Dudley.

An hour later two youths armed with a rifle equipped with a telescopic sight entered the 7-11 Market at 1001 E. Grand Ave., and demanded the contents of the cash register. Then they forced the employe, Howard Hann, to carry two cases of beer outside to the parking lot.

They were met by a third youth and all drove away. This time, however, a resident of the neighborhood noticed the car and its license number and told police investigating the holdup.

About 30 minutes later, Police Sgt. Chet Thomas spotted a car matching the broadcast description southbound on Towne Avenue near Franklin Avenue. He stopped the driver at Phillips Boulevard and arrested him and the other youth inside. The third suspect, who was identified earlier, was picked up this morning.

Methods of taxation unfair, panel rules

POMONA — Community leaders from the Pomona Valley area apparently feel that local, state and federal methods of taxation are generally unfair and need to undergo major reforms.

This seems to be the consensus of 70 persons who took part in a workshop on tax reform Saturday at the Pomona City Hall, sponsored by "Citizens Concerned with Tax Justice."

John A. Vieg, professor emeritus of Pomona College, was chairman of the conference, and former Democratic Rep. Jerry Voorhis was in charge of arrangements.

Some of the conclusions the participants arrived at during the half-day session were that:

—There should be tighter state supervision of local tax assessment of real estate to prevent discrimination and to assure fair and equal treatment of all property.

—The business inventory tax should be phased out as rapidly as possible.

—Educational opportunity should be equalized for all children in the state whether they live in rich or poor districts.

—Capital gains should be taxed more heavily as one step toward making unearned income bear an equal burden with earned income.

Because of the interest developed in the topic by the conference, the group decided to hold subsequent meetings and workshops.

Ontario Airport satisfactorily rated by FAA

ONTARIO — The Ontario International Airport is the first airport served by commercial airlines in the Federal Aviation Administration's western region to be rated satisfactory in an airport certification surveillance inspection.

The inspection involved validation of the airport's operations manual, review and assessment of operations and maintenance procedures, and a check of the field.

Last February, the airport became the third commercial facility in Nevada, Arizona and California to be certified under a new federal program designed to standardize and improve operation safety requirements at the nation's 536 airports served by air carriers. The inspection was a follow-up to that certification.

These surveillance inspections will be conducted at all certified airports as part of a program to improve safety in air transportation, said Ernest G. McIntosh, FAA safety inspector.

Nonsilent Agnew is Nixon loyalist

At obvious risk to his 1976 prospects, Vice President Agnew thus far has come down on the side of loyalty to President Nixon in the ordeals of Watergate. He declines to separate himself by silence.

Curiously, the tugging and hauling over what Agnew should do his among conservatives who are supposed to be his constituency, rather than between them and more moderate Republicans.

Some party analysts presume that any gesture of disloyalty on Agnew's part would outrage the conservatives. They argue further that it is a perilous posture for any vice-president, even when his president is under siege. In 1968, Hubert Humphrey had a similar dilemma with President Johnson in the context of the Vietnam war.

But we have already discovered that a good many conservatives, rooted in a kind of purist fundamentalism, are more outspokenly critical of Mr. Nixon and some of his associates than is any other group.

The vice-president's newest speech in defense of the President is a fresh answer to these critics, especially those who are urging near-total silence upon him.

Whatever Agnew's reasoning, he could hardly be impressed by their recourse to the alleged "model" afforded by Calvin Coolidge in the ill-starred Harding era.

In at least one account, Vice President Coolidge is portrayed as keeping silent while President Warren Harding became "steadily implicated" in the famed Teapot Dome oil lease scandal which, among others, scarred his regime.

Well, first off, the oil scandal did not break until after Harding died in 1923. When it did, it never implicated Harding. While Harding lived, there was nothing for Coolidge to defend with regard to Teapot Dome.

Furthermore, his reputation as "Silent Cal" was not earned in his days as vice-president. He made many speeches as an adminstration representative. His most reliable biographer, Donald R. McCoy, adds:

"Coolidge was platitudinous, but he gave full support to the president in his speeches around the nation. And the solemn Yankee lent respectability to Harding's government and its policies."

Nor should it be forgotten that in the 1920s and for a considerable time thereafter, vice-presidents were even less influential than in the present age. Coolidge is pictured as no kind of force in Harding's administration. He was rarely consulted, says McCoy, "perhaps because he was so unassertive that he was easily overlooked . . ."

To the extent that he was quiet, McCoy concludes it was not be political design but because "his reserve was part of his nature." McCoy goes on:

"He also wanted to remain his own man. He wanted little involvement unless he had responsibility."

Not until October, 1923, two months after Harding's death, did a senate inquiry begin to uncover the Teapot Dome affair involving the late president's Interior secretary, Albert Fall. The real revelations came in 1924. Coolidge kept his standing not by silence but by responding to congressional prod and naming a special inquiry committee.

A gasoline tiger by the tail

There's seldom a solution to a problem that doesn't breed another problem. The current gasoline shortage is no exception.

In one approach to this problem, Congress is reportedly considering requiring the states to reduce speed limits on Interstate highways. Lower speeds would mean less fuel consumption.

But less fuel consumption would mean less fuel buying and in turn would mean fewer tax funds for highway maintenance and improvement, warns one state official.

The plan to reduce Interstate speed limits as a fuel conservation effort could hurt highway departments all over the country which depend on the fuel tax, says Ohio's transportation director, J. Phillip Richey. A little more than 4 cents of every 7 cents of this tax in Ohio goes to his department.

But there's "hope" for this problem. Also being considered is a hike in the federal gasoline tax. Possibly some of this extra revenue could go toward relief of state highway departments.

But even this "solution" raises a problem. If, as intended, a higher gasoline tax discourages automobile use, less automobile use would again mean less tax collection.

Any way you look at it, the motoring public is going to pay, in one way or another.

Autosuggestion?

General Motors' prestigious Cadillac Division has announced that its 1974 models will be two and one-half feet shorter than '73s and about eight inches narrower.

Ford has also indicated that one of its top-line models will be reduced 1.23 feet in length.

Meanwhile, U.S. Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, has proposed legislation which would put a graduated federal excise tax on "gas-guzzling" automobiles that provide less than 20 miles to the gallon.

Pres. Nixon endures Watergate

WASHINGTON — Personal friends who have visited President Nixon lately have found him more annoyed than dispirited over the Watergate revelations. What annoys him is the time Watergate has taken from his preparations for the summit meeting with Soviet pary leader Leonid Brezhnev.

The President believes he established an understanding with Brezhnev in Moscow last year. They now trust one another enough to proceed with meaningful negotiations, the President suggests.

After Nixon's return from Iceland, he appeared haggard. But he explains this wasn't from worry over Watergate but from lack of sleep in Iceland. He found it difficult to sleep in the land of the midnight sun because even the blinds couldn't shut out the brightness at night.

Friends who ask how they can help with the Watergate problem get only an appreciative shrug from the President but no specific suggestions. He will leave it to them, he says, to decide what statements they wish to make in his support.

The mention of John Mitchell or Bob Haldeman causes the President merely to shake his head, as if he doesn't know what to think of his two former close advisers. The President insists he had no advance knowledge of the Watergate break-in or the obstruction of justice. "Stupid," is the kindest word he has for the Waterbugging.

He recalls that he thought the best politics last year was to attend to the presidency, that he left the political tactics to "the boys."

But to all who ask, Richard Nixon makes one thing perfectly clear. He has no intention of resigning.

Fish tale

For guppy lovers at the highest reaches of government, the taxpayers provide pet fish and an aquarist to attend them.

The aforesaid aquarist, known less loftily as a fish-tank tender, is Floyd Crawford. His calling in life is to service some 40 fish tanks that the National Aquarium has loaned to senators, representatives and other pampered poobahs of government.

Some of the fanciest fish — Blue Moons, Angel Fish and Kissing Gouramis — have been consigned to Vice President Agnew's domain. It's not Agnew who is infatuated with Kissing Gouramis, we have been informed, but his aides.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler, who refers to his liberal critics as "bleeding hearts," appropriately keeps Bleeding Heart Tetras in his office aquarium. However, the efficient Ziegler won't permit his office routine to be interrupted by the care and feeding of his blushing fish. The visiting aquarist has strict instructions never to tend Ziegler's fish tank while the great man is in the office.

Perhaps the most menacing pet in the federal fishery is a miniature Black Shark on loan to George Gauzza, the Interior Department's boss of management operations.

But of all Washington's famous fish fanciers, none was more devoted than the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover, whose bulldog visage and staccato speech were the terror of crooks and Communists. But he was a softie when it came to his pet goldfish.

At the first chill of winter, he would deliver his special goldfish to the National Aquarium to be looked after during the cold. But as soon as the weather warmed, Hoover's personal bodyguard would appear to pick up the golden dandies. If one of his goldfish appeared ill, Hoover would order an aide to call the Aquarium for a diagnosis.

The aquarium is beseiged with calls from bigwigs about their fish problems. One may want a red fish to go with the office decor. Others want their fish tanks moved from one side of the room to another, a maneuver that requires four men. One congressional office called six times in a single day about the illness of some Siamese fighting fish.

Once, Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., demanded a salt water tank, in which he wanted to display clams, lobsters and other marine life native to his home state. The fish experts finally talked him out of it.

Every morning, Aquarist Floyd Crawford climbs into his official government truck and begins his rounds. On a typical day, he might drop off some food for Indiana Sen. Vance Hartke's Australian Rainbows, then clean out Hawaii Sen. Daniel Inouye's fish tank.

In answer to an anxious call from Ohio Rep. William Mishall's office, Crawford might examine the congressman's red Swordtails and pronounce them sick with ich. Then he might stop by Pennsylvania Rep. Joseph McDade's office and dip out a dead Angel Fish for a squeamish secretary.

Then he might drive downtown to inspect the quarium of the Interior Department's communications director, Robert Kelly, who is down to two fish and is complaining about it. Next, there are fish tanks at the U.S. Information Agency and General Services Administration that need tending.

There's one fish story the folks at the National Aquarium would rather not talk about. They supplied a government bigshot, whose name they don't or won't recall, with a tank full of African Rift Lake Cichlids. The official bred some little ones and then had the audacity to ask the Aquarium to purchase them from him.

Footnote: A spokesman claimed that the fish tank program is being phased out. The National Aquarium will not service tanks that change hands, he said, and will install no new ones.

Price freeze? It won't do a thing

President Nixon's price freeze is unlikely to work.

But neither probably would any other price control plan.

The problem is that inflation today is what the technicians call demand-pull, meaning it's a sellers' market. Demand is far greater than supply. Too many of us are overspending.

The opinion among economists this reporter has reason to trust on the basis of their past predictions is that nothing the government can do will stop this kind of inflation. Certainly not price controls nor 1,000 regulations. There will be black markets, the fuzzing prices, shifts in price definitions by sellers.

The consumer will pay more directly or indirectly. He will get less service with what he buys. He will get less of a product one way or another.

This present inflation is entirely different from cost-push types, where wages and such force prices up. Here, the only effective attack would be to slap hard at demand. But there is no practical way known of cutting down on demand at present.

Will the administration and Congress cut back heavily on government spending? That's highly unlikely. Will consumers stop buying? Certainly not by decree. Probably only when they see a slowdown coming and begin worrying about the future.

To make matters worse, there is a world-wide shortage of crucial foods — grains and meats, for example. There are scarcities too of basic metals such as copper, zinc and lead.

Neither the Nixon administration nor Congress has any appreciable control over these problems. The rationing of gasoline would have little effect on the overall cost-of-living gains.

All in all, the only thing possible with a demand-pull inflation, my particular economist friends say, is to ride it out. Anything else merely puts off the day of reckoning.

If predictions are correct and the U.S. economy is in for a slowdown the last three months of this year or early in 1974 (or if a slowdown comes earlier by chance) then prices will begin to ease, or at least the pressure on prices will let up and governmental action could become effective.

This, my technical friends say, is our only hope.

Unforgiveable sin

I just can't understand why anybody, no matter what party, race, religion, creed or nationality, would want to be "friends" with the government of the so-called People's Republic of China.

For all of that government's other sins, which you know as well as I are detestable, they could be forgiven, but the sin of polluting young people's minds with drugs, as far as I am concerned is unforgiveable.

Any government which plants and cultivates one million acres of opium and has many refinery plants to produce it and smuggle it into the United States doesn't rate existence in hell much less the diplomatic recognition of the United States of America.

Any human being should abhor such recognition in any form. A true American, a courageous American, would make himself heard loud and clear that he is against any kind of recognition to any nation which can commit such a dastardly act. Please help to do something about any kind of recognition to the government of the People's Republic of China. — Cleofas Martinez, Ontario.

Discrimination in pay

Discrimination! I read in your paper the other day that the new mayor and city council are reluctant to give the Pomona Police Dept. a 7½ per cent of living index, and yet they are giving pay increase as indicated by the cost the city administrator a 50 per cent increase in pay.

With the resignation of Ora Lampman they are now advertising for his successor and offering $45,000 a year for this position, which is a 50 per cent increase over the present salary. Incidentally, the governor of California only receives $49,100 a year in salary. — Dick Brownell, former mayor.

Gossip for today

Millions of Americans who would be horrified if you accused them of being on dope must none-the-less be classified as addicts—television addicts to be specific. And what's more, it has now been proven that kicking the TV habit is even more difficult than quitting smoking.

Just recently two hundred people volunteered to give up television viewing for one year. Out of that two hundred, one hundred eighty-four have already fallen by the wayside.

However, can one blame them? Life being what it is today, it takes a mighty strong character to resist the urge for just one more "Search for Tomorrow" or a couple of shots of "The Guiding Light." After all one should be patient and understanding with those who spend the "Days of their Lives" on the "Edge of Night."

INSIDE REPORT

FBI probes other federal law bodies

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Citing a secret agreement of two years ago that one federal law enforcement agency would not investigate another, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) strongly resisted before reluctantly investigating federal narcotics agents terrorizing two innocent families in Collinsville, Ill.

The agreement, never made public, was approved by then Atty. Gen. John Mitchell. It reflected the long-standing credo of J. Edgar Hoover that the FBI and other federal law enforcement agencies should be trusted to investigate themselves. But Deputy Atty, Gen. Joseph Sneed, acting as Attorney General in early May, discarded the agreement and assigned the FBI.

Nor will the investigation stop with the Collinsville incidents. The Justice Department's civil rights division, under the aggressive leadership of Assistant Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger, entered the case May 25 and intends to examine a bulging file of alleged excesses by narcotics agents. Thus, the FBI may fully investigate the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement Agency (DALE) and the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs (BNDD).

Report closely guarded secret

The federal narcotics agencies investigated themselves after DALE agents terrorized two Collinsville families mistaken for drug offenders the night of April 23. Their "investigation," however, probed the background of one victim of the bungled raid in order to undermine his credibility. The BNDD report is a closely guarded secret, denied even to Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

U.S. Atty. Donald Mackay in Springfield, Ill., was not satisfied with the BNDD report and requested FBI help. The FBI declined.

The matter was resolved in a high-level in a Justice Department meeting in early May. Acting Director William Ruckelshaus relayed the FBI's reluctance to probe a brother agency and cited the secret mutual non-investigation pact. Sneed overruled those objections, ordering the FBI into the case. Since then, the bureau has dug into the Collinsville incidents with traditional FBI persistence.

Bourbons and Watergate

The old Bourbons of the Illinois Republican party, showing they have learned nothing from the Watergate scandal, are pushing to give a seat on the Republican National Committee to the party's most famboyantly ostentatious fat cat: Chicago insurance tycoon W. Clement Stone.

Until recently, the frontrunner for the Illinois vacancy on the National Committee was the highly respected Rep. John Anderson, chairman of the House Republican caucus and a possible 1974 Senate candidate. But like the Bourbons of France, Illinois's conservative Republicans forget nothing and learn nothing. Some objected to Anderson's progressive policy positions: many more wanted to stick by the stone-age concept that party positions belong to men of great wealth.

The latter point was made in a letter to state committee members by David E. Brown of Winnetka, Ill., a state vice chairman, when Anderson seemed in the lead. Brown urged that the new national committeeman should be somebody "who has proven his medal (sic) in the business or professional world, who would be at ease with his peers in the financial circles."

Stone,, whose $2 million gift to President Nixon's 1972 campaign was the nation's biggest, suddenly emerged as candidate of the Bourbons and may actually be elected by the state committee. Some thoughtful Republicans fear that would prove the Illinois party has learned nothing from Watergate about the dangers of big-money politics.

All pretense at labor fraternalism was discarded by Al Barkan, the AFL-CIO's chief political operative, when he tongue-lashed factional foes in the labor movement during last month's closed-door session here of the AFLCIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) operating committee.

Barkan, national COPE director, bitterly protested that "a lot of filth and a lot of crap are being circulated around town" by Alan Baron, a left-wing Democratic activist. He next charged that William Dodds, political action chief of the United Auto Workers, is promoting "this kind of filth and crap" designed to portray Barkan as "a political Neanderthal and reactionary."

Barkan next turned to Joseph Beirne, president of the Communications Workers. While political action directors of AFL-CIO president. George Meany had opposed Beirne's appointment as a Democratic National Committee at-large member, then loudly denounced Beirne for making "untrue allegations" about John Perkins, Barkan's deputy. "The press keeps calling us the heavies," shouted Barkan, adding that he and Meany, not Beirne, deserve labor's praises.

W.E. pedal pushers take grand tour

LONG RIDE AHEAD

For Allen Morisset, 16, Mark Watson, 16, Russ Watson, 17, Scott Terry, 16, and Adrienne Hubrecht, 19, from left, standing beside their bicycles like this will soon be a luxury when they begin a 33-day trip that will take them from Las Vegas, Nev., to Orlando, Fla.

Cyclists plan ride across South

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — Pedaling a bicycle across the deserts of the western United States and through the South in summer's heat doesn't sound like an enticing experience.

Nevertheless that is exactly the trip three Montclair and two Ontario youths are planning to undertake starting Monday along with about 40 other youths in the "See America Bike-A-Thon," who will ride from Las Vegas, Nev. to Orlando, Fla. in 33 days.

Taking part in the trip will be Russ Watson, 17, and his brother Mark, 16, both students at Montclair High School, Adrienne Hubrecht, 19, a recent graduate of Montclair High, along with Allen Morisset and Scott Terry, both 15-year-old students at Chaffey High School in Ontario.

Each is paying $260 for food, lodging, a stay at Disney World in Florida and return trip by bus to Southern California.

"All our gear and clothing will be carried by support vehicles that will meet us when we stop each night," explained Russ Watson.

The route the riders will follow will take them through Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida where they will enjoy four days of "rest and relaxation" at Disney World.

All five of the local riders have been getting in condition on weekend trips to such places as Big Bear and Lake Arrowhead and down to the ocean, but admit that two or three days is the longest they've been out at one time.

To make sure that the participants are up to the trek, each has been interviewed by the trip organizers in Las Vegas. Watson explained that a vehicle with medical personnel will follow the rides in case anyone runs into some type of trouble.

Despite the physical demands of such a trip, all five — including Miss Hubrecht, who will be one of only about three girls making the ride — had no trouble getting the trip approved by their parents.

Morisset went so far as to jokingly claim his parents were looking forward to his extended absence.

When asked if they aren't at least a little apprehensive over such things as a 113-mile one-day ride between Tucumcari, N.M., and Amarillo, Tex., in the heat of early July, they smile and courageously explain, "we know what we're doing."

Chino industrial area improvement district clears first hurdles

CHINO — After a public hearing in which only two affected firms took official stands — one in favor; the other, opposed—the City Council gave city staff the go ahead Tuesday night for legal and engineering details and analysis of cost for an assessment district to provide improvements in the city's southern industrial district.

Art Hilardes, representing John Hilardes who owns property at Yorba and Schaefer avenues, voiced opposition to that property being assessed for participation in the district which would provide the street improvements, storm drains, street lights, water lines and sewer lines. On the other hand, Southern Pacific Land Co., the principal contributor with 73.5 per cent of the land area involved and an estimated $937,500 contributions to the district, took a strong stand in favor of such a district.

"The purpose and intent of tonight's meeting, in addition to informing those who will tentatively participate in the district, is to also instruct staff as to how to proceed with the establishment of the assessment district," explained Bob Fast, city manager.

Fast stated that if staff were told to move on to the next stage, exact costs would be established per participant, and design of the improvements would be detailed.

Boundaries outlined

George MimMack, president of the engineering firm handling the project, pointed out the boundaries of the district as Schaefer to Eucalyptus avenues; and Central and Monte Vista and Ramona avenues.

MimMack stated the district "both lends itself to construction and engineering expertise. It is not only useful, but necessary, in creating a full system for the area. . . It is a logical district to meet the needs of the largest portion of the (industrial) property owners and to a great extent the desires of the city in the way of improvements.

"I feel this district is entirely defendable. The improvements are necessary and logical. . . They would be less expensive if done in consort with neighbors rather than alone," he noted.

Legal basis proposed

F. Mackenzie Brown, an attorney with offices in Newport Beach and Los Angeles, discussed the immediate legal questions affecting such a district. He recommended that the district be formed under the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913.

"There are two advantages to this: It allows any public works contract to be let by cash contracts which results in better bids for construction at the appropriate time," commented Brown.

The attorney also pointed out that the sale of bonds would be simplified under the 1913 Act, making bonds available and ready for delivery within two months. The mortgage lien, or assessment, would not be a debt of the city, but upon the property owners of the district. Repayment could be stretched out to a 10 to 15 year term at a maximum interest rate of seven per cent.

Once the city determined the extent and scope of improvements, addditional legal advice could be given, he said.

Outline of expenses

MimMack gave cost estimates for various parcels: $44,700 to $49,170 for 50 acres with street improvements, water lines, drainage, incidentals and contingency; Kelsey-Hayes 10 acres at Edison and Monte Vista, street lighting, minor drainage, $8,400 to $9,240; Artwood Industries' five acres, street lights and drainage, $3,500 to $4,200; Freightliner, 20 acres plus another undeveloped 20 acres, street lights and drainage, $24,160 to $25,600.

Jack Reeves, general manager of Southern Pacific Land Co. revealed that his company was currently laying underground utility lines as directed by the Public Utilities Commission. That expense is being met solely by Southern Pacific and is not included in the improvements within the district.

"I do wish to impress that we do assume the major portion of the obligation (in the district's assessment). We do not wish to have others do so except as it benefits them directly. . . The surrounding properties were included in order to complete the improvements," said Reeves.

Engineers questioned

Don Kennard, manager of Kelsey-Hayes Axle Plant, queried engineers about the drainage afforded on Monte Vista Avenue for runoff from the railroad drill tracks and Schaefer Avenue; and the necessity of street lights on Edison where undeveloped land existed. On this latter, he clarified that he neither favored nor opposed lighting for undeveloped property at this juncture.

"I will have to stand upon what my company decides. The corporation offices are in Detroit. I have been in communication with them, but they have not forwarded a postion as of yet," said Kennard.

Frank Bailey, manager of the corporate industrial engineering division of Freightliner at Portland, Ore., and Joseph Harth, manager of the Pomona store now in the process of building and moving to Chino, said they'd take a "wait and see" posture.

Mayor Bob McLeod stated the "development is in the best interests of the City of Chino. It is an asset and has dollar value."

He then called for a motion on the matter. Councilman Ed Lynch moved to accept the project with an amendment for street lights to be placed adjacent to developed property; and for staff to proceed with legal and engineering steps to conduct a protest hearing.

OIA records passenger use hike in May

ONTARIO — What goes up must come down.

That is evident at Ontario International Airport where 93,843 persons departed or arrived last month on scheduled and non-scheduled flights.

This is an 11,000 -increase over the previous May when 82,259 passengers were counted.

Passengers last month included 82,765 on scheduled flights, 10,566 on scheduled commuters, 491 on non scheduled flights, and 21 on alternate operations.

The May count boosted the total passengers so far this year to 431,716, a 12 per cent gain over the 383,169 passengers reported the same period last year.

The airport is served by nine air carriers and one commuter airline which provide daily service to 23 cities.

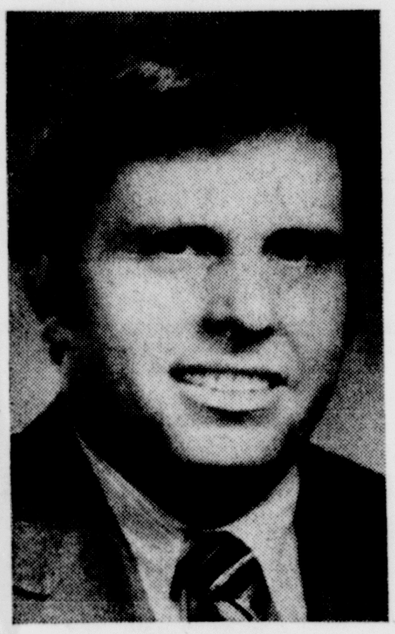

Despite the passenger increase, fewer flight operations were reported last month compared to the previous May — 12,256.

Officials define an operation as any landing or take-off of an aircraft.

Flights last month included: air carrier, 2,963; alternates, 3; air taxi, 1,786; military, 1,090; and general aviation, 6,217.

The May operations boost the total so far this year to 61,141, a 3.8 per cent gain from the 58,885 recorded the same period last year.

The amount of air cargo handled last month dropped from the previous May — 491,793 pounds compared to 506,932 pounds.

Flea market scheduled by Burn Service

CHINO — A flea market will be sponsored by the West End Firefighter's Burn Service July 23 at the corner of Central and Edison Avenues to raise money to purchase ice for rescue vehicles.

Ice has often been called the "miracle drug" for treating burn patients. The money raised at the market will be used to provide ice-making machines for all West End headquarter fire stations this year.

The ice would be placed aboard fire rescue vehicles whenever they were called on to treat burn patients. Ice, according to Don Morton, president of the Burn Service Group, would be packed around the patients burns, greatly lessening chances of swelling and infection resulting from the burns.

During the day's market events, some of the most up-to-date firefighting equipment used by West End firemen will be on display. Firemen will compete in tug-o-war and "make or break" contests that will see them racing to beat their competitors in coupling and uncoupling several hundred feet of hose.

The program will begin at 8 a.m.

Any one interested in participating in the flea market may contact the Burn Service at P.O. Box 724, Upland, 91768 or call 984-5638 or 628-8086 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Market spaces are available at $5 each. Participants are urged to contact the State Board of Equalization in Ontario for their resale numbers.

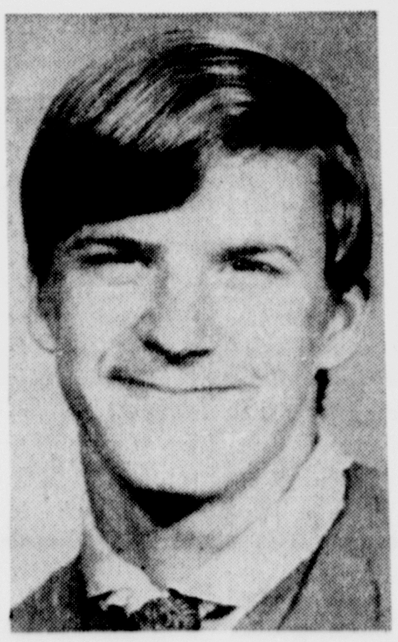

Morton said donations of 50 cents per adult and 25 cents for children would be asked from visitors to the market.

More thought for defense

North had the minimum values for his jump to six no-trump, but as he said later his values were all in aces and kings.

South won the heart lead in dummy so as to be able to try a spade finesse at trick two. It worked. South ran off all the spades and discarded two clubs from dummy. West jettisoned a heart.

After the nice behavior of the spade suit, South could count to 11 top tricks and there were plenty of ways to collect a 12th.

He didn't think hearts would break, but he cashed his king and queen to put a little pressure on East.

East wasn't bothered. He just chucked two clubs.

Then South went after diamonds. Diamonds didn't break any more than hearts had, but it didn't bother South at all. West discarded a blub on the third diamond to leave himself with one heart and two clubs.

South didn't have to worry about a club finesse. He simply led dummy's last heart to throw West in and West had to lead a club right up to the ace-queen.

Could the defense have done any better? West could have tried. He could have discarded two clubs on South's spades. Then when the three-card ending was reached, South would have had to decide about location of the club king. He probably would have guessed right and made an overtrick, but he might well have gone wrong and lost the slam.

Poly grad is awarded science prize

Thomas A. Skokut of Hacienda Heights, currently a graduate student in biological sciences at Cal Poly, has been awarded first prize in the Southern California Academy of Sciences' contest for outstanding student papers.

Skokut took first place for his report, "Fine Structure Changes Associated with Ultraviolet Accelerated Leaf Senescence," based on research with Cal Poly faculty member, Dr. Jia Hsi Wu. He received his $150 first place award at the Academy's May 5 meeting at Cal State Long Beach.

Two other Cal Poly students in biological sciences presented papers at the academy meeting. Marc S. Taylor of Fontana reported on "Fine Structure of Wound Peridern Formation in Tobacco Leaves," based on reserch done with Dr. Wu and Cal Poly faculty member Dr. Ronald S. Daniel.

Robert L. Cowan of Pomona delivered a paper, "The Influence of Microhabitat on Small Mammal Distribution in Chaparral," the report of his research done in conjunction with Dr. Ronald D. Quinn of the Cal Poly biological sciences faculty.

Fatal knife fight erupts at reception

BURBANK (UPI) — A fatal knife fight erupted among the guests at a wedding reception Sunday.

Police said Euginio Heredia, 21, and several other guests began arguing as the reception was breaking up. Witnesses said Heredia ran to his car, grabbed a knife and "began stabbing people."

Ronald R. McCarter, 19, was stabbed to death in the incident. His brother, Robert, was treated and released for superficial wounds. Richard and Rudolph Cruz, both 21, suffered knife wounds.

Heredia who was cut with a broken bottle, fled and later surrendered to police.

More firms under price check list

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Every company in the nation that takes in at least $50 million a year now will have to file an extensive price and profit report with the government every three months.

The new bookkeeping requirement, announced recently by the Cost of Living Council (COLC) is part of the administration's toughened price control. It affects about 3,100 firms.

Under the more relaxed Phase III economic stabilization rules that ended last week, quarterly reporting was limited to the 800 companies with revenues or sales of more than $250 million.

The increased coverage is designed, in part, to detect companies that have raised prices more than 1.5 per cent since Jan. 10, when Phase III began its five-month run.

Price hikes beyond the 1.5 per cent level are supposed to be justified by higher costs. "Rollbacks will be ordered in all cases where cost justification is found inadequate," COLC director John T. Dunlop said.

"In addition, the data generated by these reports will be used in the formulation of Phase IV policy," Dunlop added.

Phase IV is what the administration calls the economic stabilization program that will follow the current 60-day price freeze.

War widows' mortgage aid fails in vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposed constitutional amendment designed to provide state aid for five war widows to buy homes has failed in the Senate.

The proposal (SCA17) by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D - Gardena, was rejected Monday on a 21-17 vote, with 27 needed for approval. However, Dills was granted permission to have the vote reconsidered.

Opponents argued that the measure, which would have to be submitted to voters, did not have a great enough effect to merit adding it to the usually long line of measures on the ballot.

The measure was limited to widows whose husbands were killed in action and whose only son also was killed in action to receive the veterans home - buying benefits they would have received if they had lived.

Dills said the measure only would affect five women and that he knew of only one woman who would apply for the benefits if the proposal passed.

Assembly approves nursing home bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $40 million bill aimed at upgrading the quality of care in California nursing homes by increasing state payments for welfare patients has won overwhelming approval from the Assembly.

The bill (AB1602) by Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, was sent to the Senate this week on a 65-2 vote.

It would increase, for example, the state's payment to a nursing home with a bed capacity of 50 patients from the current $16.37 average per patient to $18.01 for every Medi-Cal patient.

MARIA METLOVA

Princess to address Soroptimists

A princess of Russian birth and French origin will be the speaker when Soroptimist Club of Pomona meets at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at Buffums'.

"Black Bread and Caviar" will be Maria Metlova's topic.

Miss Metlova was brought to the United tSates at the age of 2 to escape the revolution. During the 1930s she returned to Russia with her mother to visit relatives and it was during this period that she gathered material for her top-selling book, "Black Bread and Caviar."

While in Russia she lived as a typical Russian teen-ager, participating in youth groups and attending Russian schools. When she returned to America, she brought with her the voluminous notes she had made on Russian life, smuggling them out of the country.

The speaker recently received the Daughters of the American Revolution Americanism award and medal for her work. She is sponsored by Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association's Free Enterprise Speakers Bureau.

Protect child

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't reach into a cage while visiting the zoo. Don't let a child do that either. Where feeding of animals is okayed, only dole out vituals permitted for that animal. Following the rules keeps you and children from being harmed. Abiding by the feeding suggestions for the animals is an act of kindness to them.

Camping-Shaw rites said in Chino church

In a candlelight ceremony at the Calvary Christian Reformed Church in Chino, Miss Jonnie Shaw became the bride of Rodger Camping.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Shaw of Chino and the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Camping of Chino recited their vows before the Rev. Arthur J. Schoonveld.

Miss Cristi Shaw was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Jan Thorley of New Harmony, Utah, Mona Johnson of Orange and Denise Fritz of La Verne.

Twins Jennifer and Joelle King of West Covina were flower girls while Toni Horney and Marlene Webb were candlelighters. Serving as ring bearers were Ricky King and Jimmy Lowell.

Larry Camping served as best man for his brothers. Other brothers, Bob, Carl and Daryl Camping, were groomsmen. Ushers were Scott Shaw, brother of the bride, Melvin Rapp and Melvin Rollema of Ontario.

Three hundred guests atended the reception at the church.

The couple honeymooned in northern California. They plan to reside in Chino.

Mrs. Camping is a midterm graduate of Chino High School. She is employed at Sunshine Christian Nursery School.

The groom is in the cattle business.

Hale, hearty for the party

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

"A gracious hostess" is a term used in the newspapers with the frequency of the weather report — and about as accurate.

It, or she, is a contradiction in terms. The woman at a dinner party who is charming, at easy, and relaxed as a sprung girdle, is a guest, never the hostess.

The hostess, by definition, is hurried, harried and harrassed, worrying about a thousand details, scurrying hither and yon, talking with bright urgency to everyone at once, shooting warning glances at her husband over everything from his ribald stories to the shortage of ice. While ceaselessly wondering if "everyone is having a good time," she herself is absolutely miserable.

Planning a dinner party, like the invasion of Normandy, starts long in advance — and the results are frequently the same. The soon-to-be-hostess sends off witty little invitations to people she "owes" urging them to "come take potluck with us." She feels gay and hums to herself as she drops the notes in the mailbox. It's her last cheerful moment for two weeks. From then on it's doom gathering steam for disaster.

First comes the List Period — list of groceries, of liquor, of chores and things to get, and to ask Jim to be sure to pick up, and arrangements for the children, and waxing the floor, and could Matilda come an extra afternoon that week, and do the Forsythes eat meat, etc.

Somehow, on the evening of the party, the house is shining and lovely. The potluck (pressed duck, pommes de terre Anatole, crepe Suzette) shapes up well. Now for the gracious hostess bit.

But every ring of the doorbell goes through her like a knife; every clatter from the kitchen brings her head up like a startled fawn. She notices a corner the dust rag missed; the little spot on the rug grows larger in her imagination with each passing moment.

She talks and laughs and laughs and talks, with her mind in the kitchen and her nerves as taut as a tennis racket. She hears a child's voice and has palpitations. The maid hisses at her from the kitchen and she leaps like a gaffed salmon.

It may be the best party of the season, but to the hostess it is a debacle from start to finish. The guests are enjoying themselves (She thinks they don't seem to be mixing well); her husband is a jovial host (Has he had too much to drink?); the food is exquisite (I wonder if there's going to be enough, if it's cooked properly, if people will like it).

With dinner out of the way (they SAID they enjoyed it, but DID they?) and the roof not yet fallen, there is, for the hostess, a reprise of the pre-prandial agony. Will the evening never end: she wonders. Will people never leave? And when they finnaly do, she's heartbroken. They didn't have a good time. "It was a wonderful party," everyone says, but she knows they're lying, knows they're talking about her on the wey home.

In bed that night, she goes over the party from start to finish a thousand times. Should she have done this, did that go well? And always, "I wonder if They had a good time."

Show me a woman who is relaxed and happy, and I'll show you one who isn't giving a dinner party tonight.

Report from America

Elks Lodge admits blacks, hits racism

KENOSHA, Wis. (UPI) — The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has troubles in Wisconsin. Lodge No. 750 of Kenosha could lose its charter because it has two members who are not white.

Since Jan. 27, 1971, the lodge here has been on record in opposition to the national Elks' rule admitting only whites as members.

That stand put the club at the forefront of a fight to allow non-white members. It was the first such statement by a Wisconsin Elks club and perhaps the first in the nation.

Since that call for elimination of the all-white rules, the issue has grown more volatile. Last July, at a national convention, the Elks voted to crack down on local lodges that didn't accept the rule.

This spring, the national group revoked the Kenosha club's membership and sent a representative to bring back the charter and the other Elks' property.

The club went to court to keep its charter. It won a temporary injunction and is after a permanent injunction.

"We took our stand in 1971, and we still feel the restriction is long outdated and conflicts with accepted moral and legal principles of the year 1973," says John Malloy, spokesman for the Kenosha Elks.

The lodge will seek to continue a court order which prohibits the national organization from any interference with continued operations of the lodge.

When the lodge took the decision to oppose the exclusionary rule in 1971, Malloy said the membership was "virtually unanimous" in agreeing to it.

The lodge now has some 900 members and Malloy said there "are four or five non-whites in the club."

"I took some courage, sure," he said. "Look at the trouble we're facing now.

He added, "In Kenosha more than two years ago the Elks determined that racial discrimination was wrong. Further, they determined that such a practice was a violation of the letter and spirit of the Constitution."

He also noted that if the club had kept up the policy of restricting its membership, its liquor license would have been endangered.

Recent court decisions have given the states the right to take away licenses and tax exemptions from private clubs if they practice discrimination in their membership.

Report at mayors' conference

Revenue sharing funds long-needed city programs

By STEVEN CARTER

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — City, county and state governments, which have seen the federal money spigot turned off before, are pouring revenue sharing funds into buildings, sewers, fire trucks and other projects.

One reason is their concern over the future of the program, according to the first government-sponsored study of general revenue sharing since the program began last October.

The report, issued Tuesday at the 41st Conference of U.S. Mayors, indicated 72 per cent of the 770 jurisdictions surveyed planned to use at least some of the $6.2 billion distributed thus far for construction, improvements and much-needed purchases.

The study covered tiny Alaskan villages as well as giant central cities. It was released by Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans and Director Graham W. Watt of the Office of Revenue Sharing.

Landrieu said a number of cities were "starved" for funds and had no choice but to plow the money into long-delayed improvement projects.

But others were fearful of using the money for service projects because of their recurring nature and the possibility they might not receive funds at the same level in future years. Another apparent motive, Landrieu said, was concern about inflation—that projects not bought and paid for today would cost more in the future.

Watt said the rush to construct roads, buildings, sewage lines or buy various kinds of equipment was due at least in part to backlogs built up by a simple lack of money.

He also noted there were fewer federal restrictions on using money for equipment or building projects than there were on social services, such as health care.

A number of the 38,000 recipients plan to use the funds to reduce local taxes or stave off tax hikes. Other uses that ranked high in local plans included transportation, environmental protection, and police and fire services, Watt said.

The 800 mayors and municipal officials attending the three-day conference, which concludes today, gave a standing ovation Tuesday to longshoreman-philosopher Eric Hoffer, who denounced the "silence of the majority of Americans" about violence.

"If you park your car for 24 hours or if you take your dog into Golden Gate Park without a leash, the police will be on your neck right away," the 72-year-old author said. "But if you are mugged or murdered or robbed, there is nobody."

Hitchhiker finds home roadblock

Dear Walt: I want to go hitchhiking across the country this summer. My cousin did it last year and my parents thought it was very adventuresome and self-reliant of him. But now that I've brought up the idea myself, they have a dozen reasons why I shouldn't do it. The prime argument is that I might get picked up by some psychopath or pervert and then what would I do? How do I answer this? — Ben

Dear Ben: I wouldn't be very enthusiastic about a friend or loved one of mine hitchhiking alone cross-country. For reasons of safety and health, I'd much rather see two friends journey together on the road.

I'd also want to know that they had bus tickets or travelers checks available to use if the situation were desperate (i.e. if illness dictated speeding up their journey, or if the local laws banned hitchhiking). Could you meditate on these thoughts and develop some proposals to reassure your parents? — Walt

Dear Ele: I make my own clothes and enjoy doing it. I have thought of earning money this summer by sewing for other people, but I don't know what to charge them. Do you have any suggestions say for a dress that would take me four hours to complete? — Tina

Dear Tina: If the customer brings the material, pattern and necessary supplies, and you provide the machine and actual labor, I'd say you should receive a minimum of $2 per hour for your work.

But realize that adds $8 to the cost of the supplies. Can you compete with ready-made dresses in this price range? If not, either decide to do the work you like at less than minimum wage or use your sewing strictly as a barter skill that enables you to trade your seamstress ability for another person's expertise with car tools, macrame twines, etc. Personally I think barter exchange is the wave of the future. — Ele

Dear Ele and Walt: Barbara and I have been living together for four months. We are very close but not exclusive. She is free to date other guys and I am free to see other women. So far this has worked out fine.

Now I see a potential problem. Barbara has just started to go out with Nick who I know is a very possessive person. (He used to go with my sister.) I am afraid that he will start making trouble about me. Do you think I should tell Barbara how things were with my sister and Nick, or just let her find out for herself. — Frank

Dear Frank: You are trying to live a life of great openness. That being so, we can't see you trying to camouflage your concern over Nick. However, wait to discuss it until you have a peaceful day together.

Ratify first how happy you are in your relationship, and then offer your historical perspective on Nick. But keep an open head. He may have changed his ways a lot since trying to corral sis. — Ele and Walt

Erma Bombeck

Every once in awhile, my flip approach to motherhood arouses the wrath of a few readers.

"Why did you have children?". . ."You're a terrible mother!". . ."I feel sorry for your family!" filter across my desk.

When I was born I was 40 years old with a cup of cold coffee in one and, a sponge in the other and the original Excedrin headache. My parents exclaimed, "Good grief! We've given birth to a 130-pound parent!" Or so it seemed.

As I sat in the middle of three children overnight, chipping the enamel off my teeth by biting a knot out of a shoestring that a child had been getting wet all day long, I began to think about motherhood.

There seemed to be several avenues open to me: (a) take myself seriously and end up drinking gin just after the school bus left; (b) take the children seriously and end up drinking gin before the school bus left; (c) admit to the fear and frustration and have a good time with it.

It hasn't been easy. Everyone loves a child. Face it. They're young, adorable and innocent. The world is on their side. My three-year-old once sunk her entire set of teeth into my shoulder, causing me to go to the doctor for possible stitiches. He gave the child a tetanus shot and barked at me, "What did you do to provoke the child?"

In a restaurant one night, I rapped one kid for loosening the tops on salt shakers, another for making rivers out of the gravy and socked one in a chair hard for rearranging the furniture (with diners still in them) only to have a couple stop by the table and cluck, "Some poeple don't deserve children."

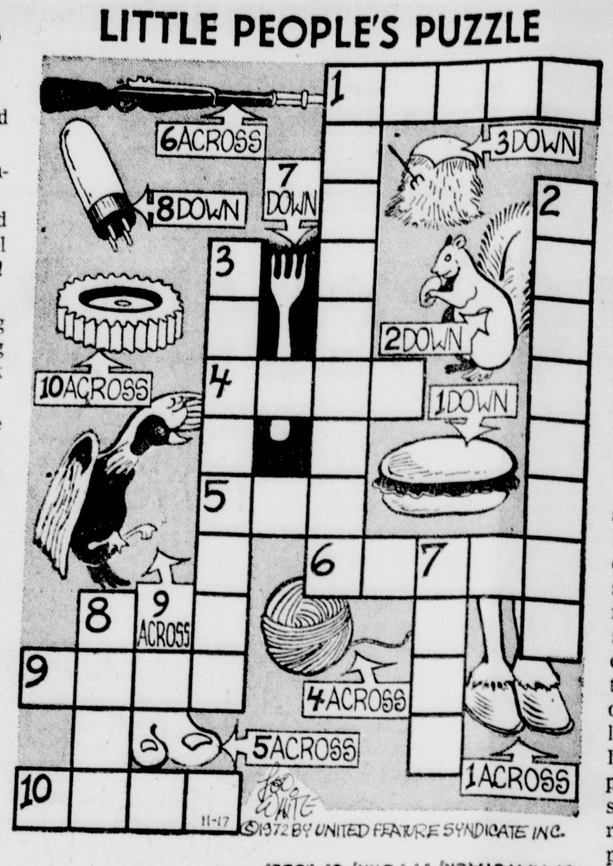

I defy any parent who has been on a trip with a child who kicked the seat for 50 miles, thrown his shoes out of the window, lost his pet snake in Cleveland during the five o'clock traffic and spilled his slush down your back to tell me she has never considered abandoning him at the next Shell station.

What mother has never fallen on her knees when she has gone into her son's bedroom and prayed, "Please, God. No more. You were only supposed to give me what I could handle"?

And while we're being honest, what grandmother has never heard her small grandson beat on the piano with his fists for three hours and not looked apprehensively at the clock? (TV blames it on irregularity, but the truth is they're going bananas.)

To my critics I can only assure you there is love in every line. And remind you that he who laughs. . .lasts!.

Cold sores, cancer have no connection

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read the enclosed article which states that the virus that causes cold sores may also cause cancer. I realize the word "may" means that it hasn't been proved, but do you realize how many individuals will be adding this juicy tidbit to their medical files and beware of the fellow with cold scores.

I get cold sores on the average of once a year and I know other adults and children who have those huge, scabby, unsightly sores. From reading the article would you say that I am a suspected cancer carrier? I would hate to be shunned simply because of a lousy cold sore that I dislike and have no control over. I realize the article in the paper was done for medical reasons, but can you imagine the reactions of people who are plagued with cold sores.

I wish you would help me and my fellow cold sore sufferers out with a comment on this news article.

Dear Reader-You really are an optmist if you think it's possible to keep people from being alarmists. Regardless of how carefully and plainly facts are expressed, individuals who want to be alarmists will be anyway-once a worrier, always a worrier.

Much experimental evidence implicates viruses in the development of cancer. However, viruses are all around us . . . on our skin, clothes, in the air we breathe. Why is it that one person develops an illness from a virus and another one does not? The difference is in the susceptibility of the individuals or their levels of resistance.

The cancer victim may have lost his resistance mechanisms in the body causing him to be susceptible to substances, including viruses, which may cause cancer.

In plain language, even if the cold sore virus were proved to cause cancer which has not been proved-this alone would not mean that the person who has a cold sore is particularly likely to develop cancer. If so, there would be an awful lot more people with cancer than occurs. Nor does the presence of a cold sore mean that such individuals will transmit cancer to another person.

I may have merely confused you, but the point I am trying to make is that there apparently are two factors related to developing any cancer, 1) the susceptibility or tendency of the person to develop one and 2) the causative factor, virus, chemical or whatever it may be.

In the hopes of establishing one clear statement on this fairly complex subject, let me say again that there is no evidence that individuals who have cold sores are unusually likely to develop cancer.

Nursing a sick cat is a slow process

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm trying to follow the doctor's orders and force food down my sick cat. It's a terrible fight for both of us. After it is all over, she lies there with her tongue hanging out almost too weak to move. Half the time she throws up her food in a little while and I think maybe the fight is the reason. Is there a quicker way to get the food down so I don't have to fight her so long? If there is, I am sure it would be better for her.

—N.B.

Dear N.B.: Yes, there's a better way: Slow down! Hopefully by now your cat has recovered because of, or in spite of, your efforts. For future referrence, better results for the cat, at least, are achieved by taking it easy. When you fight a cat, it will fight back, rapidly using up what strength it has in the process. Many sick cats collapse and die during such a bout. Others at the very least nullify any beneficial effects from force-feeding; the exhaustion and nervous upset of such battles can cause vomiting and impaired digestion if the food does stay down.

Force-feeding is an unfortunate choice of terms. Persuasive feeding would be more indicative of the proper process. Go about it very, very slowly, meanwhile talking soothingly to convince your cat that the whole process is indeed all right. Start with a drop or two of food at a time. Dab it on her nose or on her tongue. Allow plenty of time for her to taste it and, hopefully, to swallow. If she spits it out, repeat the process even more slowly. Most cats will eventually respond to your patient persistent persuasion, your gentleness and kindly tone of voice, and go along with the feeding. They may tire quickly, however, so it's often necessary to settle for a small amount — perhaps even an ounce or so at one feeding. Continue after the cat has had time to rest. It is seldom advisable to give more than two ounces at one time even if the cat will accept it.

Don't allow yourself a schedule of merely five minutes three times a day to nurse a really sick cat. You are deluding yourself to call it nursing at all. Good results take a good deal of time and this the key to success.

BING CHERRY-PEACH PARFAIT PUFF

Heat oven to 400. In a saucepan, bring ½ cup water and ½ cup shortening to rolling boil. Stir in all at once ⅛ teaspoon salt and ½ cup flour. Stir vigorously over low heat until mixture leaves the pan. Remove from heat, cool slightly and stir in two eggs, beating until smooth. Spread in the bottom of a greased 9-inch heat resistant pie pan. Do not spread on the sides. Bake for 50 minutes until golden. Remove from pan and place on a rack. Cool slowly away from drafts. To serve, spade alternating slices from 1 quart each of bing cherry sherbet and peach ice cream into the shell. Cut into wedges and serve at once. Also, this may be made in advance and frozen, but before serving, allow to soften 10 minutes in refrigerator. Good topped with sliced, sweetened peaches. Serves 8.

Easy-to-fix relish mold

Here is a recipe for a delicious, tangy relish mold that can be prepared in a matter of minutes. It's made with convenience products you most likely have on your cupboard shelf and in your refrigerator right now. Creamy Cranberry Relish Mold makes a pleasant accompaniment to poultry. And you might even like to serve it for a different dessert.

Unflavored gelatine is the reliable stand-by which gels so many good main dishes, salads and desserts. If you keep a box on hand you'll always be ready to make a dish early in the afternoon to delight your family or guests that evening.

In this molded side dish, the refreshing tart-sweet taste of prepared cranberry-orange relish, available in most supermarkets, combines with crushed pineapple, cream cheese and frozen whipped topping. Chopped almonds give a pleasant cruncy texture to the creamy gel. The only step you need do ahead is thaw the topping — 2 to 3 hours at room temperature.

Cooking with unflavored gelatine involves no more than sprinkling the gelatine over liquid in a saucepan and stirring over low heat until the granules dissolve, about 5 minutes.

Combine the ingredients in the order given in the recipe directions, and chill until firm. That's all there is to it; everything is done at one time.

No matter what foods unflavored gelatine is combined with, because it has no color or flavor of its own and contains no sugar or preservatives, it lets all the good taste and color in a gelled dish come shining through.

CREAMY CRANBERRY RELISH MOLD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1 cup cold water
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened and cut into chunks
2 cups frozen whipped topping, thawed
1 jar (14 ounces) cranberry-orange relish
1 can (8¼ ounces) crushed pineapple, drained
½ cup chopped almonds

In small saucepan, sprinkle unflavored gelatine over water; let stand until gelatine is moistened. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatine dissolves, about 5 minutes.

In large bowl, thoroughly blend cheese and topping; fold in relish, pineapple and almonds, then fold in gelatine. Turn into 5-cup mold; chill until firm. Unmold and garnish, if desired, with salad greens. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Papayas give tropical touch all through the day

The sunny gold papaya (pronounced pah-pie-yah), is now helping mainlanders all across the country create exciting, exotic, exuberant desserts.

Tropical? Paradisiacal? Unquestionably. But good for you, too! Hawaiian papayas are loaded with vitamins C and A. They are a good source of potassium, yet low in sodium for those on salt-free diets.

Really exciting news, too, is the papaya's low calorie count: one half of a plump, naturally sweet papaya contains only 78 calories.

Papayas are so versatile you can serve them from breakfast Hawaiian-style, halved with a slice of lime, through lunch on the half shell mounded with scoops of chicken, ham or fruit salad, all the way through dinner in fabulous tropical finales like this Papaya Dessert Salad and luscious Papaya Snowfruit Freeze.

The salad can double as a luncheon entree for it is an inviting combination of golden papaya quarters, cherry tomatoes, pineapple chunks, avocado slices, mandarin orange sections and bananas, served with its own very special dressing.

You've probably found dozens of recipes for fruit salads with poppy seed dressings. But this Papaya Dessert Salad has its own papaya seed dressing. That's right. Islanders know the pungent papaya seeds are a superb complement to the natural sweetness of the fruit, especially when whirred in a blender with oil and vinegar, sugar, dry mustard and green onion.

For a tasty variation, serve Papaya Dessert Salad with scoops of luscious Papaya Snowfruit Freeze. The smooth, melon-like papaya pulp is easily pureed and combined with orange or clover honey and yogurt, then frozen for a cold and creamy tropical finale.

Papaya Snowfruit Freeze is as flexible as the salad. Serve a scoop of the fruit ice by itself or use the softened freeze as a delightful topping for pudding or other fresh fruit.

Any way you scoop it, freeze it or slice it. . . from breakfast to dessert, the Hawaiian papaya is pure paradise.

PAPAYA DESSERT SALAD
PAPAYA SEED DRESSING
- ½ cup white wine vinegar
- 1 green onion
- ½ cup sugar
- 1½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ cup vegetable oil
- Seeds from one-half papaya
- 1 box cherry tomatoes
- 2 cups fresh or canned pineapple chunks
- 2 Hawaiian papayas, quartered
- 2 bananas, sliced
- 2 cans (8 ounces each) mandarin orange sections, drained
- 1 avocado, cut in eighths

Pour vinegar into electric blender. Add onion, sugar, salt and mustard. Cover. Blend 30 seconds at high speed. Slowly add oil, with blender on low speed. Add papaya seeds and blend until they resemble coarse pepper. Pour into pint jar or covered container. Refrigerate. Makes 1½ cups.

To serve, arrange tomatoes and fruits in a large bowl, surrounding with papaya quarters. Drizzle dressing over all. Serve plain, or with Snowfruit Freeze Balls. Makes 8 dessert servings or 4 luncheon servings.

PAPAYA SNOWFRUIT FREEZE
- 1 cup papaya pulp (from 1 large Hawaiian papaya)
- ¼ cup orange or clover honey, warmed
- 1 container (8 ounces) plain yogurt
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 can (3½ ounces) flaked coconut (or 1½ cups flaked coconut)

Mix together papaya pulp and honey. Stir in yogurt and salt. Blend thoroughly. Pour into a deep plastic container and set in freezer or refrigerator freezer compartment. Stir occasionally.

When almost firm, shape freeze into balls, using an ice cream scoop. Then roll in coconut and return to freezer until completely hardened, about 1 to 2 hours.

Serve as a dessert itself in a papaya half or with salad, as suggested.

To prepare papaya pulp — cut off a thin slice from stem end. Stand it up on this flat end and halve lengthwise.

Using a grapefruit spoon or the handle of a teaspoon, scrape seeds and membrane out of each channel, and downward.

Here are 2 ways to remove pulp for pureeing:

1. Rest a sieve on a bowl and press each quarter into the wire, using your hand or a rubber spatula. (The wire acts as a grater.)
2. Peel each half with a potato peeler. Chop coarsely into electric blender. Puree at lowest speed.

The honey blends into the pulp more easily if it is warmed. Measure honey in heat resistant cup and set it into a pan of simmering water.

The Snowfruit Freeze can also be used as a topping. Remove from freezer 30 minutes before serving, and thaw enough to whip

Having party? serve them sole food

Sole is probably the most popular fish nationwide, thanks to its delicate texture, mild flavor and its versatility. There are countless ways to prepare it.

Here's an elegant, simple treatment that is company-worthy. You can easily double the recipe if you wish, or serve half portions in scallop shells as a fish course. Grated Parmesan cheese and crunchy roasted slivered almonds make this a most unusual and delicious fish presentation.

Round out the main course with simple foods such as boiled, partially peeled new potatoes and a fresh green vegetable.

ALMOND PARMESAN SOLE
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- Salt
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire
- 2-3rds cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 4 fillets of sole
- Lemon juice
- Pepper
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 1-3rd cup slivered almonds, roasted

Melt margarine in small saucepan; blend in flour and ½ teaspoon salt. Gradually stir in milk; cook, stirring, until mixture is thickened and comes to a boil. Blend in Worcestershire and 2 tablespoons cheese. Reduce heat but keep sauce hot. Sprinkle sole with lemon juice, salt and pepper. Dip in remaining cheese. Heat oil in skillet; add fish and brown slowly. Place fish on warm serving platter; top with sauce and sprinkle with almonds.

Makes 4 servings.

WANT TO KNOW THE HONEST TRUTH ABOUT GROUND BEEF?

IT'S THIS:
Nobody can guarantee its exact fat content.

There's been lots of talk lately about the fat lean ratio in ground beef. So why not label each package: Contains X% of fat? Let us tell you why.

We've been making ground beef just about as long as anyone and we know there's no way to make two batches that are exactly alike. Two samples taken from the same batch (or even the same package) can differ in ratio of fat to lean. Even with meticulous care in selecting ingredients, there are variations in fat lean ratio. Even with our most modern grinding and mixing equipment. Even with use of the best available fat-measuring devices.

Yet we know our customers want and expect us to provide them with a choice of ground beef products to meet their varying preferences, tastes and budgets. After long and careful consideration, we have concluded that we can best meet our customers' need for variety by offering just two ground beef products—REGULAR and PREMIUM. We make both kinds from fresh chunks of beef. We prepare both kinds with equal care to maintain the top quality which has helped earn our fine meat reputation.

Our REGULAR is made the way we believe most families prefer their ground beef. It contains enough fat to assure full juiciness in the cooked meat. It makes marvelous hamburgers, meat loaves, meat balls, spaghetti sauce, Salisbury steak and other delicious dishes.

Our PREMIUM is made to please families that want a leaner ground beef. It shrinks less in cooking and makes wonderful ground beef dishes of all kinds—plain and fancy.

Why not try both kinds and see which is prefered by the folks at your house? (You might even want to make a mix with some of each.) The famous Safeway money-back guarantee applies, of course, to our ground beef as to all of our other products.

Jams and jellies covered by laws

With so much emphasis on consumerism, quality and labeling, we sometimes overlook the fact that many of our everyday foods are processed according to rigid government specifications known as the Standards of Identity. These laws, with strict enforcement by government inspection, are designed to define products and ensure product integrity.

Take jams, jellies and preserves, for example. Under the FDA's Standards of Identity of these products, only certain ingredients can be used and they do not have to be listed on the label. Specific optional ingredients also may be used, but they must be listed on the label. Beyond this, if any other ingredients are used, such as artificial flavoring, or, if the amount of fruit is reduced below the required limits, the product has to be clearly labeled "imitation."

For jams, jellies and preserves, the six ingredients that do not have to be listed are the label are: 1) fruit or fruit juice, 2) sugar or dextrose, 3) corn syrup, 4) fruit acid (usually citric), 5) pectin, 6) small amounts of antifoaming agents such as butter, margarine, corn oil or coconut oil.

Commercial products are practically the same as homemade except for the use of corn syrup and antifoaming agents. Corn syrup prevents the crystallization of sugar and brings out the natural fruit flavor. Antifoaming agents inhibit foaming and air bubbles. If the fruit doesn't have enough natural acid or pectin to enable the product to "set up" or "jell," additional amounts are added. Fruit acid, in most cases citric, comes directly from citrus fruits or is produced in a natural process in food laboratories. Either way, it is a natural product. Pectin used extracted from citrus fruits or in commercial preserving is apples since both contain extremely high amounts.

The law permits the use of certain optional ingredients for specialty items. They are the natural flavorings of pure spices and herbs such as cinnamon and mint. Harmless artificial red and geren food coloring is allowed for mint jelly and jellies with cinnamon flavoring; however, the fruit or juice has to be apple, crab apple or pineapple. No other jam, jelly or preserve contains artificial color. All of these optional ingredients must appear on the label.

Sodium benzoate is another optional ingredient, but its use as an additional preserving agent is seldom necessary now that the commercial products are pasteurized and hermetically sealed. In the rare instances when it is used, it must be shown on the label.

By law, the label on every jar of commercially prepared jams, jelly or preserves must show: 1) whether the product is a jelly, jam or preserve, 2) the fruit flavor, 3) the producer's name and address, 4) the weight. It also can have other descriptive information on it. Some preserves recently have begun to list all ingredients on their labels even though the FDA's Standards of Identity exempts them from this practice. They have taken this approach simply because many consumers have indicated an interest in knowing the ingredients.

Additional information about jams, jellies and preserves is contained in the new fact sheet published by the Advisory Council for Jams, Jellies and Preserves. For a free copy, send your request to: Room 815, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York 10017. Also from the council is the following recipe for Peach Melba, a quick and easy adaptatiion of a dessert classic which takes full advantage of the concentrated pure fruit flavor and rich natural color of raspberry preserves.

PEACH MELBA

1/8 jar (10 ounces) raspberry preserves
1/4 cup dry white wine
3 fresh peaches, peeled and sliced—or
2 packages (12 ounces each) frozen sliced peaches, thawed and drained
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine raspberry preserves and wine. Cook over low heat, stirring until blended. Chill. To serve, spoon peach slices into 6 dessert dishes. Top each serving with a scoop of ice cream. Pass sauce separately for pouring over individual servings.

Makes 6 servings.

New recipes for frugal, fussless meal

The all-in-one casserole is probably the simplest and most satisfying of budget-wise dishes. And this Cheese and Sausage Supper is so fast and fussless to put togehter, it's a worthy addition to your collection.

A well-seasoned combination of brown and serve sauages and packaged au gratin potatoes, with grated carrots adding a colorful note, the cassserole is both hearty and nutritious.

Meal-in-One-Meatloaf, another meat and vegetable mixture, stretches one pound of ground beef and a can of peas and carrots into a filling main dish for four. An envelope of brown gravy mix makes the loaf moist and flavorful.

Either dish, accompanied by a green salad, pickled red cabbage and topped off with ambrosia — orange slices sprinkled with coconut — is a balanced meal providing servings from each of the basic four food groups.

CHEESE AND SAUSAGE SUPPER

1 package (5¼-oz.) potatoes au gratin
2¼ cups boiling water
2-3rds cup evaporated milk
1 package (8-ounces) brown-and-serve sausage links, sliced
2 carrots, shredded
1 tomato, cut in slices

Empty potato slices and contents of seasoning mix envelope from au gratin package into two-quart casserole. Stir in water, evaporated milk, sausage, and carrots. Bake, uncovered, at 400 degrees for 35 minutes. Top with tomato slices and bake 5 to 10 minutes longer. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

MEAL-IN-ONE-MEATLOAF

1 can (1-pound) peas and carrots
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
¼ cup catchup
1 envelope (¾-ounce) brown gravy mix
1 pound ground beef

Drain liquid from peas and carrots, saving ¼ cup. Combine the ¼ cup liquid with egg, bread crumbs, catchup, and contents of gravy mix envelope. Add beef and vegetables; mix lightly. Spoon into greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Heart hints

Eating out difficult for those on diets

Among many telephone inquiries received by the Los Angeles County Heart Association concerning dietary matters is a repeated plea for information about restaurants conducive to pleasant dining which also make possible the maintenance of special diet restrictions.

Eating in restaurants is not only difficult for anyone who has severe diet restrictions, but may pose problems in proper food selection for healthy individuals who want to control their intake of fats, calories and cholesterol.

Here are some suggestions from the Los Angeles County Heart Association that can be helpful for those who enjoy eating out occasionally but want to maintain healthful habits.

With reasonable care in the selection of a restaurant and a menu, eating meals away from home can be a safe and sane as well as interesting dietary experience.

Whenever possible avoid places that specialize in fried foods. It is now believed that fats which have been repeatedly heated to high temperatures become increasingly saturated. The frying method may be used at home, however, cooking with oil requires special care. Bring up the heat slowly and watch carefully to avoid overheating. If the oil smokes it is too hot.

Near Eastern and Far Eastern restaurants offer menus that are low in calories and saturated fats, while supplying a welcome change of pace. Most Chinese, Fai, Japanese, East Indian, Greek and Armenian cuisines do not feature rich breads or desserts. They include many vegetarian dishes as well as entrees consisting of lean meats, fish and poultry. Try to forego the fried egg roll, shrimp or tempura. In July the Heart Association will offer a Near Eastern and a Far Eastern menu to the readers of this paper.

If it is hard to leave some of the large portions sometimes served in restaurants, the help-yourself style of cafeterias, smorgasbords and buffets allows everyone to take an individually tailored serving. These places can be a boon if you enjoy a salad or vegetable meal. Fish or poultry entrees are usually available, which helps keep fat and calorie intake to a minimum.

When dining out in the average restaurant avoid the ever popular baked potato with sour cream and salad with sour cream or blue cheese dressing. These items are high in calories and saturated fat. Many eateries use a sour cream substitute which contains coconut oil, a substance as high in saturated fat as natural sour cream. Select instead a rice dish or a baked potato with margarine. Most places offer a choice of sugar or a substitute; why not make this the time to make restaurant owners aware that the public wants a choice of butter or margarine?

When choosing the first course select fruit or juice. Avoid cream soups in preference to clear broths or bean and vegetable mixtures.

Fish and poultry are good choices for the entree being lower in satruated fat and cholesterol than meat. Veal is the exception to this rule being somewhere in the middle. Don't order organ meats, sweetbreads, brains or shellfish; they are high in cholesterol. Select the lower-calorie broiled or roasted meats and request that they be served without gravy. Be sure to trim away all of the visible fat, and peel away the skin on poultry. Avoid breaded entrees.

In general, ask for cooked foods to be broiled or baked or boiled and served without added fat. Avoid stews, pizza, cheese dishes and other casserole-type mixtures.

For dessert choose angel food cake (unfrosted), fruit, gelatin, fruit ices or sherbet, and avoid ice cream, whipped cream, all baked goods, and puddings.

When you're faced with a banquet or other meal that is all wrong or you eat more than you should, there's a way out. Ideally, eat only a small part of the food served or cut down on the quantity of food you eat the next day. The occasional day when you can't stay on your diet is not as important as careful adherence to it the rest of the week.

It should be said that if one follows a sensible eating plan most of the time, there is no harm in eating special foods occasionally. However, for the individual who is following a strict diet to reduce an elevated cholesterol or who needs to reduce his weight considerably, it may be necessary to maintain a disciplined eating pattern.

For anyone who is not overweight or dealing with any other medical problems that must be solved by changes in the way he eats, a serving of a favorite dish, such as veal parmigiana or lobster newberg should not be harmful. The important thing to be done is to establish good food habits, and to know the food facts necessary to do this.

Marinade is answer to speedy barbecue

From coast to coast memorable summer moments include delicious food and smoke rising from barbecues. With fun in the sun time, food preparation grows to a minimum and this entree is a great solution. Apricot-Pineapple Flavored Steak En Brochette is made with flank steak and 15-minute meat marinade, available in foil packages in the meat section of your supermarket.

A 1½ pound flank steak marinates 15 minutes in the pre-blended all-purpose marinade mix combined with apricot-pineapple nectar and gingerale. You'll be amazed at the deep-down flavor, juiciness and tenderness the marinade imparts to the meat.

Now it's just a matter of cutting the steak into six lengthwise strips and skewering with an assortment of your favorite vegetables or fruits. We used cherry tomatoes, onions and zucchini slices, but you might consider pineapple chunks, mushrooms, apricot halves or the like.

What product could be more in demand for barbecue cooking than the one described as "adding gourmet flavor and juicy tenderness in only 15 minutes"? Many homemakers know that 15-minute meat marinade is the wonderful marinade mix which is designed to make marinating quick, convenient and choreless, putting deep-down flavor into all meats and insuring juicy tenderness time after time.

APRICOT-PINEAPPLE FLAVORED STEAK ENBROCHETTE

1 package 15-minute meat marinade
1-3rd cup apricot-pineapple nectar
1-3rd cup gingerale
1 flank steak, about 1½ pounds
6 zucchini slices, about ¼-inch thick
6 parboiled small white onions
6 cherry tomatoes

In shallow dish combine 15-minute meat marinade, nectar and gingerale; blend thoroughly. Trim fat from steak; place meat in marinade. Pierce all surfaces of meat deeply and thoroughly with fork. Marinate only 15 minutes, turning several times. Remove meat from marinade; drain.

Cut steak lengthwise with grain into 6 strips each about 1-inch wide. On skewers, lace each steak strip with a zucchini slice, onion and cherry tomato. Place skewers 5 to 6 inches above glowing coals and grill 10 to 12 minutes, turning every few minutes to cook evenly; baste frequently with remaining marinade.

Makes 6 servings.

As Selma sees it

A hot buttered rum recipe for dieters

DEAR SELMA:

I agree with your theory that variety enhances any diet or eating program. And that leads to one of my problems. I enjoy camping out and skiing. Consequently, I often find myself on a cold night before a warm fire in a cold place whishing I had something nonfattening, warm and tasty. Can you help?

Mrs. J. Q.

Dear Mr. J. Q.:

Try the following recipe for hot buttered rum:

1-3rd cup powdered nonfat dry milk
1 tsp. instant freeze dried coffee.
½ tsp. butter extract
½ tsp. rum extract
Artificial sweetener to equal 4 teaspoons sugar or to taste
1 cup hot water

Mix ingredients in approximately ¼ cup hot water. Add remaining hot water (amount of hot water may be increased if you prefer) and blend. Drink and enjoy. It's delicious.

DEAR SELMA:

I really don't think I'm fat — except for my stomach. I have a terrible pot belly. Can a nutritionally sound diet take care of such a specific problem?

Mr. J. F.

Dear Mr. J. F.:

A sound weight reduction program will take care of excess pounds. If you feel you have an additional problem, please consult your physician.

This salad hints of San Francisco

San Francisco, so often compared to Paris at the peak of perfection, has a heritage of first families and high fashion, stemming from the days of the rail and mining barons who clustered their mansions on the brow of the hill now known as Nob Hill.

These wealthy men imported elegant crystal, china and linens, stocked their cellars with the finest wines, and hired chefs from Paris to put the whole picture together.

Naturally, the competition among the chefs was legendary, and each created new masterpieces for every meal. Among the favorites were molds which towered high, glistening and gleaming in their haughty beauty.

A new recipe recreates one such delight in Nob Hill Salad, a sophisticated combination of cherry-flavored gelatin molded with creamy cottage cheese, a hint of almond and the tang of blue cheese.

For absolute perfection, put your salad together the day before you plan to serve it. Select a large mold and measure into it one cup of cherry-flavored gelatin, dissolved, with lemon juice, salt and maraschino cherry juice and a dash of almond flavoring.

While that sets, mix the balance of the gelatin, smooth, small-curd cottage cheese and add blue cheese, Tabasco sauce and mustard. Chill the salad for at least four hours — preferably overnight — so that it will hold its shape when it is unmolded and set on a bed of salad greens.

Sure to be the star of the buffet, Nob Hill Salad is filled with protein goodness, proving in this case that beauty is more than skin deep.

NOB HILL SALAD

1 (6-ounce) package cherry flavor gelatin
2½ cups boiling water
1 tablespoons lemon juice
Dash salt
2 tablespoons maraschino cherry syrup
¼ teaspoon almond extract
2 cups (1 pint) small-curd cottage cheese
¼ cup crumbled blue cheese
3 drops Tabasco sauce
½ teaspoon dry mustard
13½ teaspoon onion powder
Salad greens

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add lemon juice and salt. Measure out 1 cup and stir in cherry syrup and almond extract. Turn into bottom of a 5½-cup oilded mold. Chill until almost set.

Meanwhile, chill remaining gelatin until it begins to jell. Beat cottage cheese, blue cheese, Tabasco, mustard and onion power together. Fold into thickened gelatin and carefully spoon into mold over clear layer. Chill 4 to 5 hours or overnight. Unmold and garnish with salad greens. Makes 6 servings.

Dairy foods codes easily understood

Coding dates on perishable foods can be confusing — but not with dairy products.

On most milk or cream cartons found in grocery stores, for example, the month and date restricting sale is printed numerically on the top edge of the container. Cottage cheese, yogurt or dairy sour cream have codes imprinted on the bottoms of their containers.

The dairy industry codes its foods with understandable figures to assure the consumer that the food being purchased is fresh. If numbers such as 6-15 appear on the dairy carton, that food cannot be sold after June (6th month) — 15 (date). This does not mean that the food is not fresh after that date. It is simply the dairyman's way of saying that you can expect about one additional week of freshness, after the date on the container — if the food is properly handled at home.

The key to freshness is proper care, according to a nutrition consultant with the Dairy Council of California.

Dairy foods should be kept cold, covered and clean to protect that freshness. Make milk your last purchase before returning home from shopping and wrap it well to keep it as cool as possible. And, refrigerate it in the coldest part of your refrigerator as soon as you get home.

After a carton of milk has been unrefrigerated, it takes several hours to re-cool. In the meantime, bacteria, the cause of spoilage and off-taste, can develop. Table cream is a good example.

To keep cream fresh, don't return unused cream to the original container. Instead, cover the pitcher well and wrap separately for future use.

Strict quality control for dairy foods with the added surveillance of the Department of Agriculture, Dairy Service Division, gives double assurance that these foods are of top quality when they leave the dairy plant. The date indicates the food will be fresh for a period of time. How long really depends on you.

Handle with care

Re-refrigeration eventually affects cheese flavor, so leave at room temperature only as much of it as you expect to eat on any single occasion.

3 cookies with bananas stretch nutrition dollar

There are cookies and cookies, not all of them as nourishing as they might be. But the ones offered here are the kind of cookies loved by the "health food" crowd, rich with natural cereals and mellow with nutritious banana. Two are great keepers, and one is so delicate and different, it's designed to eat the same day it is made.

As experienced bakers know, bananas are superb ingredients in cookies that count for nutrition. And what a help they are in keeping the cost of homemade cookies at minimum. The Banana Bunch, industry-sponsored center for consumer information, has kept tabs on the cost of bananas for more than twenty years. Astonishingly enough, the price is about the same today as it was in the 1950s. That has just got to be a record in these inflated times.

Cookies with a southern accent are called Corn Pone Cookies. They are unusual but simply great-tasting. The unusual ingredient is yellow cornmeal perked with spice and mellowed with fresh banana, a different, interesting cookie you wouldn't find at the store, and it's wholesome and nourishing.

A fine snack for keeping in the cookie jar is Banana Oatmeal Cookies, rich with nourishing oats and walnuts, raisins and mashed banana. As they are made with oil instead of shortening, these cookies are fine for people on cholesterol-lowered diets. Kids will love them for their old-fashioned goodness, pleasant texture and satisfying taste.

Banana Turnover Cookies are cookies to eat the same day. They are delicate and different, with a pastry made with cottage cheese, and a fabulous filling made with sliced bananas, raisins and sunflower seeds. This is a cookie important enough to star as dessert as well as snack. Great rainy-day baking to surprise the family.

For those who want to make snacks count in these times when every penny should be made to yield nutrition, this selection of recipes will lend a helping hand.

CORN PONE COOKIES

- 1½ cups yellow cornmeal
- 1 and 1-3rd cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¾ cup shortening
- 1 egg
- 1 cup mashed ripe bananas (3 medium)
- ½ cup chopped nuts

Mix dry ingredients in large bowl. Cut in shortening with a pastry blender. In a small bowl beat egg and stir in bananas; blend into cornmeal mixture. Stir in nuts. Drop by rounded tablespoons 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes. Makes approximately 40 cookies.

BANANA TURNOVER COOKIES

- 1 and 1-3rd cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ cup salad oil
- ½ cup creamed cottage cheese
- 1½ tablespoons honey
- 2 bananas
- ¼ cup raisins
- 2 tablespoons sunflower seeds

In large bowl, mix together flour, salt and cinnamon. Add oil and stir until mixture resembles coarse meal. Mix together cottage cheese and honey; stir into flour mixture and form into a ball. Roll out ¼ of dough at a time on a board (it is not necessary to sprinkle flour over the board); cut into 4-inch rounds.

Peel bananas, cut into slices and place 3 slices on half of each dough round. Add 1 teaspoon raisins and ½ teaspoon sunflower seeds to banana slices. Fold far end of dough over filling, to form a turnover. Seal edges.

Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees 10 minutes. Remove and coool. Sprinkle top with confectioners' sugar before serving. Makes 12 turnovers.

BANANA OATMEAL COOKIES

- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- ¾ cup salad oil
- 1¼ cups mashed ripe bananas (3 to 4 medium)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4 cups uncooked regular oats
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- ½ cup raisins

Beat brown sugar and oil together until well blended. Stir in bananas and salt. Gradually beat in oats. Stir in walnuts and raisins. Drop by teaspoons onto greased aking sheet. Bake 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Cool on baking sheet for 10 minutes; remove and cool completely. Makes 4 dozen.

Fishermen get a whopping pig

MIAMI (UPI) — Five fishermen caught a pig in the ocean.

Mike Leadley, of Hialeah, and his friends say they hooked a badly sunburned, salt-encrusted pig who was tired but apparently as happy as a porker can be to see the fishermen.

No one knows how the pig reached Leadley's boat which was 15 miles northeast of Miami Beach, but the pig started swimming towards the boat, he said.

Aboard the boat the pig drank plenty of water and ate a bit of food and fell off into a restful sleep.

Make-ahead supper good on hot days

Celebrate the first hot summery days with a cool, make-ahead supper. A molded main dish salad is the star attraction. Simple to serve with few last minute preparations, this meal leaves you time to relax before dinner.

Your family will love the refreshing change-of-pace this kind of meal offers. Salads are also a great budget aid, transforming left-overs into an exciting new dish. For a real treat, nothing beats a molded salad for tempting eye appeal. Flavor and texture contrasts are especially important in a molded salad, so be sure to include a variety of ingredients and plenty of crisp vegetables.

Ham and Pineapple Mold Almondine is one main dish salad you will want to try very soon. Ham, pineapple and blue cheese dressing mix create a delicious blend of flavors with a Polynesian flair. Pineapple Gelatin doubles the fruity taste, and helps make this dish a breeze to prepare. Chopped almonds add a delightful, nutty crunch.

Serve this pretty molded supper on a bed of lettuce with deviled eggs, rolls, and iced tea.

Ham and Pineapple Mold Almondine

- 2 packages (3 ounces each) pineapple gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 can (8-ounce) crushed pineapple
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 package (0.7-ounce) bleu cheese salad dressing mix
- 1½ cups (8-ounces) coarsely chopped cooked ham
- ½ cup coarsely chopped celery
- ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped, toasted slivered almonds
- 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
- Salad greens

Dissolve pineapple gelatin in boiling water. Add undrained pineapple, mayonnaise and salad dressing mix. Beat with rotary beater until thoroughly blended. Chill until slightly thickened.

Fold in ham, celery, green pepper, chopped almonds and pimiento. Turn into a six-cup mold and chill until firm.

Unmold on greens. Makes 6 servings.

The Austrians fritter the time away

Say Austria to anyone who's ever been there and you'll evoke fond memories of exceedingly friendly people, unbelievably clean air, rushing mountain streams, flowers cascading from window boxes, music everywhere, and above all marvelous food.

Among the wonderful things the Austrians do with food are their scrumptious fritters made with a beer and cheese batter. This golden coating deliciously encases shrimp, and all sorts of vegetables, such ac cauliflowets, cubed eggplant, zucchini slices or green pepper strips.

The beer insures a fabulously light batter and the grated Austrian Swiss cheese imparts its special flavor. The results are mouthwatering.

You might wish to bring Austria to your table with Salzburg Kraut and Wurst, a hearty combination of sauerkraut, knockwurst, apple and Austrian Swiss cheese, laced with beer. For a truly American touch, serve this satisfying skillet dish with dark bread and cold beer.

AUSTRIAN CHEESE FRITTERS

- 3 eggs, separated
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- 1 can (12 ounces) beer
- 2 cups flour
- 1 package (6 ounces) Austrian Swiss cheese, finely grated
- Fat for deep frying
- 2 pounds fresh shrimp, shelled and deveined

Beat egg yolks. Mix in salt, oil, beer, flour and cheese. Let stand one-half hour. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into batter. Coat shrimp with batter. Fry a few at a time in deep fat (350 degrees on deep-fat thermometer). When shrimp are golden, remove and keep warm until all are fried. Then serve immediately with your favorite sauce. Makes 8 servings.

Vegetables can also be dipped into batter for deep frying (cauliflowerets, green pepper strips, cubed eggplant, sliced zucchini).

SALZBURG KRAUT AND WURST

- 6 knockwurst
- 1 can (1 pound, 11 ounces) sauerkraut, drained
- 1 cup beer
- 1 onion, sliced
- 1 red apple, cored and chopped
- 1 teaspoon caraway seeds
- 1 package (6 ounces) Austrian Swiss cheese, finely diced

In a large skillet, combine knockwurst, sauerkraut, beer, onion, apple and caraway seeds. Cover tightly and simmer over low heat for 15 to 20 minutes or until piping hot. Remove from heat and stir in cheese. Makes 6 servings.

Require smog devices, air board urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has called on the state Air Resources Board to proceed with its original plan to require installation of smog control devices on 1966-70 cars which are sold or transferred.

On a split voice vote Monday, the Assembly passed a house resolution (HR51) by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland.

The measure, which has no legal effect, asked the board to begin the program July 1 for cars which are sold or transferred and Oct. 1 for all other cars.

The board has planned to begin its new antipollution program July 1 on all 1966-1970 vintage cars. But it delayed the entire protram until Oct. 1 at the urging of the Senate.

11 urging grape strike arrested

COACHELLA (UPI) — Eleven United Farm Workers Union demonstrators were arrested Saturday as they entered Coachella Valley vineyards and encouraged grape harvesters to go on strike.

Eight of the arrests occurred at the Mel-Pak Ranch near Thermal, when about two dozen pickets entered the vineyards.

This Baked Alaska easy and elegant

Baked Alaska—who ever thought it would be possible to cook ice cream?

Benjamin Thompson, an American-born scientist who later became Count Rumford in England, laid claim to this creation of a meringue-topped ice cream. It was actually the byproduct of investigations into the resistance of stiffly beaten egg whites to the induction of heat. As the unique idea of combining ice cream with a meringue topping spread, it became known first as Alaska Florida and later as Baked Alaska, as it is so popularly known today.

One may think Baked Alaska such an elegant dessert that you may not realize just how simple and uninvolved it is to prepare, especially with today's packaged cake mixes. The result will be one of the most impressive and delicious desserts you're ever put on your table.

This recipe is a luscious combination of cake, strawberries, ice cream and meringue.

When making your cake, substitute beer for the water. It adds a lightness and buoyancy to the cake that is unsurpassed by any other liquid. The cake should be chilled and then topped with partially frozen strawberries and strawberry ice cream. Chill a couple of hours before serving, top with meringue, then chill again. Right before serving, pop in the oven until the meringue is golden brown. Remove from oven and you will have one of the most taste-tempting desserts you have ever seen or tasted.

BAKED ALASKA: 1 package white cake mix; beer (substituting for the amount of water called for in cake mix); one 1-pound package frozen whole strawberries; 1 quart strawberry ice cream, softened; 6 egg whites; ¾ cup sugar. Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Grease and lightly flour two 9-inch round layer pans. (You will only use one of the cakes in this recipe.) Prepare cake mix as directed on package, substituting beer for water. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes or until cake tester comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Turn out on rack and cool thoroughly. Chill. Barely thaw strawberries and drain if necessary. Arrange berries on cake to within ½ inch of edges. Spoon ice cream over berries. Freeze until very firm. (Freeze on small cookie sheet or in ovenproof dish if possible so that it can simply be transferred to oven).

Beat egg whites until frothy. Add sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addtion. Continue beating until meringue is glossy and stiff peaks form. A couple of hours before serving, remove cake from freezer. Quickly spread meringue over entire cake. Return to freezer.

Just before serving, bake at 500 degrees for 4 or 5 minutes or until meringue is golden brown. Serve at once or return to freezer until ready to use. When serving, place the Baked Alaska next to serving plate, then slip two pancake turners between Alaska and plate and transfer to serving plate.

Are directors next in line?

BY DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (NEA)-Even if the writers' strike gets settled, there may be more and bigger troubles ahead for the TV and movie industries. The directors' contract is up and it's been years since they've had a raise. The Directors Guild wants a lot more money for its members and another strike is quite possible.

Rock Hudson is busily working on his stage debut—he'll appear at the Huntington Hartford Theater here, opposite Carol Burnett, in "I Do! I Do!" This is the musical version of "The Fourposter." Mary Martin and Robert Preston created the Broadway roles of a man and wife at various stages in their long marriage.

Director Gower Champion has been working diligently with Rock on his singing and dancing. They go every day from 10 in the morning until 11 at night.

Speaking about movie stars on the stage, Debbie Reynolds is a huge hit in New York in "Irene." The reason she decided to do the musical, according to rumors, is because of that old debbil, financial need. Reports are that Harry Karl, her husband, has, like most businessmen, been suffering reverses with his shoe business lately. So Debbie tucked her dancing shoes under her arm and went back to work.

When Richard Roundtree did "Shaft In Africa" in Ethiopia he was granted an audience with Emperor Haile Selassie. It was all conducted through an interpreter and Roundtree got the impression that his host spoke no English.

But, just as he was leaving, Roundtree heard the Emperor ask him, in perfect English, "Mr. Roundtree, how old are you?"

A new Warwicke in town. Dionne's kid sister, Dede, has recorded the title song for the "A Touch of Class," and she has a touch of class herself.

Fredd Wayne, famous for his Benjamin Franklin one-man presentation, has collaborated with Los Angeles Times' entertainment editor, Charles Champlin, on a new musical, "The Apple of His Eye," which is headed for Broadway. Ray Stevens wrote the words and music.

Want to know what Hollywood people talk about at parties? Pretty much the same nutty things everybody does. Exhibit A: at a recent affair, I was chatting with Cissy and Bob Donner. Bob is a fine character actor, and Cissy, his wife, is the daughter of the great director, William Wellman.

The coversation was about peanut butter and how many ways it can be used. I told them how Doris Day had said she uses it when she cooks rack of lamb, but they had a better tip. Cissy says Fred MacMurray told them to spread it on corn-on-the-cob. They do, and it's great.

Mitzi Gaynor is doing many shows, these days, in small theaters-in-the-round in local shopping centers. She says they are the coming thing.

"The big downtown theaters are dying," Mitzi says. "Its a sociological thing people are scared to go downtown. But these little spots are booming. I love playing them. It's such fun to be right among the people."

Lily Tomlin may be heading for the big screen. She's bought a book called "Maiden," about a 30-year-old virgin who comes to Los Angeles and rents an apartment in a singles-only spot. Lily's getting a screenplay written now and hopes to shoot it this spring or summer.

Tourism and the dollar ---the Yanks keep coming

BONN (UPI) — Neither devaluation nor the dismal drop of the dollar nor the bloom of rising travel costs have stopped the American tourist from swarming to Europe.

But economic necessity is forcing the American traveler into a new breed of American tourist indeed: a crafty pennypincher who looks hard for the humble bargain hotel, skips the fancy souvenirs and doles out his tips carefully—in short, the sort of tourist Europeans have always been.

Reports from the major European capitals show the old free spender is groping grimly toward the old five-dollar a day strategy without a prayer of making it and the five-dollar man is straining to hold it at ten.

In The Hague, Peter Newell, 33, a physician from Bass Harbor, Maine, looked at the reduced fistfull of Dutch guilders his dollars had just bought and summed up a travel philosophy heard from Paris to Vienna: "As a tourist here, I will do what apparently more and more American tourists do: economize."

"We are learning that by looking for cheaper places and being a bit more careful, we can live on our dollars for as long as we had planned to live on them," Newell said.

"We Americans now have to learn what the British had to learn long ago: to get by."

What is strapping Newell and thousands of other pay-as-you-go American travelers (prepaid package tours beat the daily dollar sag) is a foreign loss of faith in the dollar that began with President Nixon's 10 per cent devaluation in February and has deteriorated since. The free-floating dollar now dips up and down like a yo-yo from day to day on such impulses as bad economic news and Watergate reports.

UPI correspondents report a 23 per cent drop in the dollar's exchange value in Switzerland since the Feb. 9 devaluation. In West Germany, it is about 17 per cent, in France 14 per cent, in Austria 18 per cent, in Sweden nine, Lebanon 17, Belgium 13 and even in exchange-controlled Spain, rising prices have pushed vacation costs up about 17 per cent since last year.

England is a bright spot at about three per cent less pound for the dollar and Italy still is a financial oasis with the dollar roughly holding its own against the weak lira.

To Anne Kupper, a Beverly Hills, Calif., visitor in Paris, it meant a 50-franc meal at the left bank Chez Marius cost her $12.50 Friday where it would have cost $11 only three weeks ago. The same plate of crudities (vegetable platter), agneau de lait, baked potatoes, chocolate mousse, coffee and half-bottle of 1972 beaujolais went for $9.98 in February.

(But, ah Rome, the exception: You can have your spaghetti carbonara, veal, salad, desert, coffee and jug of red wine at La Carbonara restaurant today for 17 cents less—$13.33—than it cost Feb. 9. The dollar gained a hair against the lire).

In Frankfurt, those who budgeted $31.30 in February for a 100-mark-a night double room at the Intercontinental will pay $38.80 for those 100 marks today. In Vienna, a double with bath and breakfast at the Bristol takes $45.43 against $34.39 at February exchange rates. In Brussels the jump at centrally situated hotels has been from about $16.50 to $19.

In Stockholm, UPI's Bjoern Hoeijer reports devaluation has raised the price of a three-day cruise along the lovely inland Goeta Canal—Sweden's most popular tour—from $165 in February to $180 this weekend.

And yet, the Yanks keep coming.

Tourist officials in Spain and France reported some slight signs of a slackening in individual tourism, with a flutter of cancellations on the opulent Riviera, but so far not much.

England, Switzerland, Austria, Sweden and Belgium reported solid business, with confident comments like this one from Elizabeth Puttaert of the Belgian tourist information service:

"The dollar problems might make a difference to businessmen, but to tourists certainly not."

What stratagems are Americans of moderate means using to shave the financial odds and stay on tour?

Mary Mathews of Chicago hunted bargain lodgings in London she might have ignored before. "I took one look at the rate of the dollar when Dollar's drop no bar to Yank's tourists . . .

I arrived (about $2.57 per pound sterling) and went straight into the bed-and-breakfast houses," she told UPI's Anthony Nicholas. "And I've really got a better deal than I used to at the big hotels."

May Fran Riley, 23, a Chicago art student passing through the Hague with two women companions from Indiana is reckoning on a shorter stay than planned, but better than none: "We had hoped to remain in Europe all summer, but it seems now we'll have to check by the week or even by the day to see how our money lasts," she said.

Many Americans are buying low-cost travel passes in place of plane travel or rental cars. Youngsters at the Heidelberg youth hostel say they are moving on unscheduled to the sunnier and cheaper climes of Italy or Greece.

And many U.S. tourists are catching on to the smart money move used by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wilson of Richmond, Va., and Patricia Bussey of Santa Rosa, Calif., all passing through Bonn.

They changed their money into German marks at their home banks, taking some in German travelers's checks and transferring some to the mark bank accounts of friends abroad. The dividends: Last February's much healthier exchange rate, no service charges for individual money changes and no daily nail-biting over dollar fluctuations.

In Paris Mrs. Kupper told UPI's Aline Mosby what that nail-biting can be like: "When you ask the shopkeepers the price of some item in dollars in order to pay with travelers checks, they get flustered. They have to call the bank.

"Nobody"—said Mrs. Kuppers in an epitaph to the whole situation—"knows from one minute to the next what the dollar is worth."

Panel resets hearing on Claremont duplex project

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — The Planning Commission Tuesday night continued until July 3 a public hearing on a 39-unit duplex development proposed for 8.74 acres west of Indian Hill Boulevard and south of the Foothill Freeway right-of-way.

Robert Armstrong, project developer, had told city Planning Director Sharon Hightower before the meeting and he had revised his plan and would like the hearing continued.

Twenty-three residents attended the hearing, and probably will be back in the City Council chambers the night before the Fourth.

Armstrong said that he has changed the layout of the plan "considerably," but must present it first to other city agencies.

Walter Mastin, 468 Bowling Green Drive, said that he is "extremely pleased" that Armstrong is responding to the concern expressed by neighboring residents.

Mastin asked if it would be possible for the commissioners to state how they feel about the area being developed as single-family residential as against being developed under the city's residential unit ordinance.

Under the ordinance the developer by giving up so much acreage as open space may get more units per acre.

Chairman James C. Norris Jr. noted that the commission held an informal hearing two weeks ago, and said that he didn't see that a great deal more could be contributed until the revised plan is presented.

City Attorney William Bergman added "to pre-judge the development would not be fair."

Norris said that the commission is not in a position of expressing likes and dislikes.

Commissioner Eleanor Cohen asked if Armstrong was ready to reveal his plans last night, but Armstrong replied that he has developed a "completely different" layout which covers all the objections of the residents.

Mrs. Peter Drucker, 636 Wellesley Drive, called the matter "discretionary" and said that the commission ought to decide whether RUD is applicable to the area under discussion.

A resident who caused some raised eyebrows to was Michael Catrambone, 521 Occidental Drive, who complained there is a water shortage in his area, and that "as soon as we get over 90 degrees we have no water."

Catrambone said that he had to keep calling the water department. "What's going to happen when they put in 39 units and a swimming pool?" he inquired. "This is ridiculous. Who do we see?"

City Engineer Jim Hudak explained that the area is served by the Southern California Water Company, a private company.

"I pay enough for water. Where do we get it?" Catrambone asked.

Catrambone also explained that when he moved into his home eight years ago there was a plan to connect Occidental Drive with another street to wake it through. Catrambone said that Occidental is a dead-end street, not a cul-de-sac. He said both fire trucks and big delivery trucks have difficulty turning around on the street.

Airport head taxes stopped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation that eliminates airport head taxes at more than 40 airports around the nation has been signed into law by President Nixon.

The bill signed Monday also will provide $310 million in grants over a three-year period for airport and airways development.

The head taxes range from 50 cents to $3 per airline passenger and are eliminated immediately at most of the airports where such levies have been enacted.

However, the legislation carries a provision that airports in New Hampshire and Sarasota, Fla., may keep their taxes until Dec. 31. They enacted the taxes prior to May 21, 1970, and have no sources of alternative income to meet financial obligations they have made.

An earlier version of the bill was vetoed by Nixon because he said it authorized too much money. After that veto, dozens of additional cities either enacted head taxes or began making preparations to enact them.

Back from the brink, U.S.-Soviet summits tend to be less dramatic

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Summit conferences have tended to lose their dramatic impact as the two nuclear superpowers pulled back from the brink.

The atmospherics sometimes are affected by the personalities but in general the spectacular aspects diminish with progress towards peace.

This is my fifth Soviet-American summit and the difference between the first one —between President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khruschev in 1959—the current sessions between President Nixon and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev is considerable. Bombast and propaganda has given way to businesslike sessions and the change obviously is for the better.

This one is rather dull and likely to continue that way. Watergate may have taken some of the edge off the Brezhnev-Nixon conclave. But the basic fact is that successive summit sessions have reduced the peril of nuclear holocaust and permitted the two nations to get on with the very important job of finding a way for competing ideologies to coexist to the advantage of both.

Khrushchev came here 14 years ago in a bubbling mood after the first successful launchings of earth-oribting Sputniks.

He wanted to crow a bit, see if American industry was as tremendous as he had been told and also to persuade Eisenhower to give ground on Berlin and Germany—a futile hope.

Khrushchev proclaimed the "Spirit of Camp David," a term which American officials never really bought. Any hope Khrushchev may have had blew up the following year when Eisenhower's planned visit to Moscow became a casualty of the U-2 spy plane incident.

Khrushchev turned the Cold War back on and it stayed that way. In 1961, when Khrushchev met President Kennedy in Vienna, the Soviet premier tried to terrorize the young President into giving ground on Berlin and Germany. Kennedy refused. He increased U.S. troops in Europe by 75,000 men and, in the view of some, attempted to compensate for the Bay of Pigs disaster and shaky Laos compromise by putting U.S. military forces into the field in Vietnam.

President Johnson held summit meetings with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin in Glassboro, N.J., in June, 1967, in the aftermath of the Middle East war. They agreed to back the United Nations' peace efforts on that once. Then Johnson brought in Defense Secretary Robert McNamara to try to persuade Kosygin to begin nuclear arms reduction talks because neither could win a third world war. It became clear Kosygin could not act on his own. He had to request a three-day recess to cable Moscow for further instructions and, when these came, they were inconclusive.

Johnson's plan to visit Moscow in September, 1968, to begin arms talks was abandoned before it was announced when, in August, Russia invaded Czechoslovakia to repress heretical political factions there.

Nixon, skillfully exploiting the Russian-Chinese Communist split, made great headway with both the Soviet Union and the Peoples' Republic. After the dramatic breakthrough in Peking in February, Nixon flew into Moscow in May on the crest of a wave of popularity to sign the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty and to open the door for major progress in trade and financial relations and exchanges in the scientific field.

Now Brezhnev, under pressure to improve living standards and justify his position within the Politburo, is here attempting to get help in the form of Western financing, technological know how and capital equipment.

Nixon hopes to take advantage of this by extracting significant further concessions from Russia in the field of nuclear armaments.

Nobody knows whether the White House has any "gimmick" up its sleeve to try to spice up the final communique. However, all in all, it's going to be rather a dull week but one which shtuld calm the nerves of a war-weary world.

China keeping wary eye on summit talks

HONG KONG (UPI) — China is keeping a nervous watch on talks between President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev even though the Peking government has had nothing to say so far about the summit talks in Washington.

Similarly, nothing has been mentioned yet in the Chinese press or radio broadcasts heard in Hong kong about the summit. But this does not obscure Peking's deep concern about the meeting and what it might mean for the future.

Chinese leaders have expressed this concern, particularly the military ramifications, to Western visitors.

The Chinese, who once denounced the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and U.S. military presence in Europe, now want a strong NATO and a continued American military presence on the continent.

The Chinese strategic concept is simple: any Soviet-American detente that might lead a significant U. S. military cutback in Europe is dangerous to China. It would enable the Soviet Union to concentrate its attention militarily on the Asian front.

Chinese leaders claim that the Soviet Union at present maintains more than a million troops along the disputed Sino-Soviet border and in Outer Mongolia. They also claim the number is growing.

China's fear is that the number will grow epen more rapidly with any detente in Europe that would permit a reduction of Soviet military forces there. The Chinese leaders know that Soviet-American relations are the key to any such detente.

While China's leaders have not expressed such fears explicitly in public, they have done so in talks with many high-level visitors to Peking.

The Chinese attitude in these private talks was typified in remarks made by Premier Chou En-lai and Chi Pen-fei, China's Foreign Minister, to British Foreign Secretary Alec Douglas-Home. Essentially, the Chinese said that detente was desirable but only if it was achieved on the "basis of strength."

This theme has been repeated many times since to other visitors.

Editorials and articles published in the Chinese Communist party newspaper and other journals have hammered away at one key point when talking about an East-West accommodation in Europe—that American and Western European leaders should not be taken in by Soviet sweet talk. The point has been made even more forcefully by China's representatives at the United Nations.

"The Soviet social-imperialists, with honey on lips and dagger in heart, have always been saying something while doing something else, harboring murderous intent behind their smiles," said China's chief U.N. delegate, Huang Hua.

Russian grain sale is record

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) — Last summer's sale of 400 million bushels of wheat, 275 milion bushels of feed grains and more than 35 million bushels of soybeans to the Soviet Union was the largest sale of grain to a foreign country in U. S. hisotry.

Willie Davis' 2,000 hit no fluke

Home run sparks Dodgers' 3-0 victory

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Willie Davis wanted to make sure his 2,000th major league career hit wasn't any fluke.

With the Los Angeles Dodgers nursing a 1-0 lead in the sixth inning Tuesday night, Bill Buckner singled and Davis tagged a Phil Niekro knuckleball deep into the Atlanta Braves' bullpen in right field for the coveted 2,000th hit and a 3-0 Dodger victory.

"I was kind of planning on a home run," Davis grinned. "I didn't want it to be a fluke."

The 33-year-old captain of the Dodgers, who admits he is having the most fun of his life, now will go after the magic 3,000 figure.

"I think I'm going to get 3,000," Davis says. "I'll continue to play ball only as long as baseball remains fun for me."

Willie D. is having a great time being the veteran on Dodgers. The young kids have helped L.A. increase its National League West lead to two full games over the San Francisco Giants.

"This is the first time in my life that I'm having fun," Davis admitted. "It's really meant a lot this year because of my frame of mind. I don't let things bother me. Whatever you do, you've got to have fun."

Being a member of the Buddhist sect has relaxed Davis and the difference has been noticeable.

"Willie not only has improved as a hitter but also in the outfield," manager Walt Alston explained. "He's playing better than he ever has."

Davis' homer gave the Dodgers some cushion against Niekro, the ace of Atlanta's pitching staff.

Tommy John was able to protect the shutout with some relief help from Pete Richert in the eighth inning.

Richert came on to retire Darrell Evans on a pop-up and get Dusty Baker to line into a double play on a sensational play by shortstop Bill Russell.

"If Baker's ball goes through," Alston remarked, "it's a different ball game."

The Dodgers got on the scoreboard in the quick 1:48 game in the fourth inning when Ron Cey drove in his 41st run of the season with a two-out single to drive in catcher Joe Ferguson.

DODGER NOTES — It's doubtful if slugger Henry Aaron will play in the series. Besides a sore back, Bad Henry is also suffering from a painful boil on his stomach. . .

Al Downing (5-3) will face Atlanta's Roric Harrison (2-2) in tonight's third game of the four-game series. It will be Claude Osteen against Carl Morton Thursday night in the finale . . .

The last time the Dodgers enjoyed as much as a two-game lead in the National League West standings was back on Sept. 10, 1966 . . .

Davis has hit in five consecutive games and 12 of his past 14. The homer was Willie's 10th of the season. His career high in one season was 21 in 1962. . .

Willie is second to San Francisco's Bobby Bonds in runs scored with 47 . . .

Russell's 11-game hitting streak was stopped. It was the longest of the season for the Dodgers . . .

Los Angeles has stolen 53 bases, just 29 short of its 1972 season total.

ALL SMILES FOR WILLIE

Willie Davis is all smiles after he became the third Dodger to get 2,000 hits. He hit two-run home run off of Atlanta's Phil Niekro to spark Dodgers' 3-0 victory.

Shoemaker not ready for pastures

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bill Shoemaker isn't ready to be put out to pasture.

Apparently lacking confidence in thoroughbred racing's all-time winning jockey, owner Mary F. Jones decided to replace Shoemaker aboard Cougar II with Laffit Pincay, Jr., for Sunday's $150,000 Hollywood Gold Cup.

Included in Shoemaker's world record career total of some 6,500 victories and nearly 600 stakes triumphs are 10 first place rides in 24 trips aboard Cougar. He's been in the money in 22 of those 24 outings.

Despite that mark, Mrs. Jones, will have Pincay, the No. 1 rider at the current Hollywood Park meeting, in the saddle while Shoemaker hops aboard Kennedy Road, owned by Burt Bacharach.

Shoemaker had Bacharach worried this week when he hurt his back bending over to adjust his boot.

But not wanting to miss the Gold Cup for anything, Shoemaker said he's feeling "real good" and will be "back in action" for the big race.

Understandably, "the Shoe" isn't feeling too kindly toward Mrs. Jones, having learned secondhand of his being replaced aboard Cougar.

"I first heard about it from a friend in New York," Shoemaker said.

"The next morning Charlie Whittingham (trainer of Cougar and Kennedy Road) said she wanted to do it. So I said Charlie, I won't put pressure on you, I'll take myself off."

Admittedly upset with Mrs. Jones when he first found out about his being cast aside in favor of Pincay, Shoemaker said he should have expected it.

"I was a little angry in the beginning," he said. "But I know Mary Jones is subject to doing these kind of things."

One thing Shoemaker knows he won't do is ride again for Mrs. Jones. He said she "would have to look elsewhere" for a jockey in the future as a result of her decision to separate him from Cougar.

Shoemaker harbors no grudge against Pincay who he calls "a great rider and a friend of mine."

He said Pincay "had to take the mount if it's offered" and said he "would do the same " if the roles were reversed.

Sunday's meeting between Cougar and Kennedy Road is the second battle this year between them at the same 1 ¼ mile distance. Cougar won by a nose in two minutes flat in the Santa Anita Handicap in March.

Shoemaker says Kennedy Road is a speed horse and he'll have him "in front or laying second" in an attempt to avenge the earlier loss.

In any meeting with Shoemaker, who at 4-11 and 98 pounds is inch for inch and pound for pound the richest athlete in the United States with estimated career earnings around the $10 million mark, the conversation naturally gets around to the horse experts label the greatest of all-time, 1973 Triple Crown winner Secretariat.

The word "great" obviously is used, but Shoemaker feels the racing world will never know how great because Secretariat is being syndicated and put to stud, thereby passing up racing as a 4-year-old.

"The real test is the 4-year-old year when he starts putting on weight," Shoemaker said.

"The true test is if he can carry weight and spot other horses 15-20 pounds and beat them. He hasn't had to do that yet."

In his 24-year racing career, Bill Shoemaker has passed several "true tests" and now at 41 and with the silver hair beginning to dominate and the injuries of the past five years perhaps starting to take their tool, he faces still another.

Angels win with big inning baseball

CHICAGO (UPI) — Last season, the California Angels lacked hitting and couldn't come up with the "big" inning when they needed it.

But all that seems to have changed, particularly in the last few games.

The Angels used a pair of four-run innings to knock off the Yankees in the first game of their doubleheader last Sunday in Anaheim and Monday night parlayed two big innings into a 9-2 verdict over the White Sox in Chicago.

Tuesday night, Bobby Winkles' Wonders were held scoreless through six innings and managed only four hits off Wilbur Wood's dancing knuckler.

But the seventh inning was to be the inning for the Angels. Down 1-0 as a result of Al Gallagher's fifth inning error on a grounder by Luis Alvarado, Dirty Al, who went 3-for-3, made amends by beating out an infield grounder with one out.

Bill Grabarkewitz, pinchhitting for catcher Jeff Torborg, doubled, with Gallagher stopping at third. Winkles next sent up Winston Llenas to bat for shortstop Rudy Meoli and he responded by ripping a Wood knuckler into the lower deck seats in leftfield for his first major league homer and all the Angels' runs in a 3-1 victory.

Wood (14-8) was tagged with his fifth defeat in his last six decisions while Bill Singer (11-3) went the distance, scattering six hits for the Angels who are but one game out of first place, now occupied by the Minnesota Twins.

The Angels completed the Richie Scheinblum trade with Cincinnati Tuesday, shipping 24-year-old righthanded pitchers Terry Wilshusen and Thor Skogan to the Reds' American Association farm club in Indianapolis.

Hard-throwing Nolan Ryan (8-7) gets the call for the Angels Wednesday afternoon as they try to sweep the three-game series. Ex-San Francisco Giant Steve Stone (2-2) will hurl for the White Sox.

Top tennis stars to boycott Wimbledon

LONDON (UPI) — The world's top tennis stars voted today to boycott the Wimbledon tennis tournament in protest against the suspension of Yugoslavia's Nikki Pilic. Confused tournament officials postponed the draw for the order of play for two days.

Pilic was barred from playing at Wimbledon —the world's premier tennis tournament and a major British social event — and other tournaments until June 30 by the International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) for declining to play for the Yugoslav Davis cup team.

Pilic sought an injunction against the ILTF action Tuesday, but was turned down by a British high court, which ruled the suspension was not a breach of justice.

Wimbledon total prize money is $132,000, with the men's winner getting $12,500 and women's champion $7,500. Runner-up in the men's division receives $7,500 and the losing semifinalists $2,500 each.

A three-hour meeting by the 10-man executive committee of the 97-member Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP) decided early today to boycott Wimbledon, which starts Monday.

They voted 7-1 with two abstentions to ask all ATP members to pull out of Wimbledon because of the Pilic incident.

Committee members included Jack Kramer, Jim McManus, Ismael El Shafei, Arthur Ashe, Mark Cox, John Barrett, Stan Smith, Jaime Fillol and Pilic. Ken Rosewall, John Newcombe, Cliff Richey and Terry Ryan attended as guests.

Tennis sources said up to 70 of the world's top men players, including 15 of the 16 seeded at the top of the men's simgles championship at Wimbledon, would join the boycott.

British tennis official Basil Reay said earlier today the tournament draw would go ahead "with names available."

But at the same time ATP members met to hear the decision of their committee, officials of the All-England Lawn Tennis Club, which stages Wimbledon, decided to postpone action until Friday.

Herman David, chairman of the club's championship committee, said, "I am very sorry it has happened, but I am sure we shall get along."

But with an unknown number of players pulling out, including perhaps 15 of the 16 seeded men's singles players, club officials were in confusion. David said a revised seeding list would be necessary, but might not be made before Thursday.

Major David Mills, the club secretary, said the action was taken "to allow all concerned time to consider the situation."

About 40 members of the ATP attended a morning meeting at which the boycott decision was explained to them.

Jack Kramer, the ATP's chief executive, said afterward the players were "100 percent" for the boycott.

From the management side, the players' decision was a classic case of biting the hand that fed them—both on expense accounts in their amateur days and by using the Wimbledon championships as a stepping stone to the big money.

Wimbledon officials were confident the decision which would have wrecked any other tournament would not diminish the Wimbledon gate, though it may lessen the quality of the competition.

They noted they had near-record gate receipts last year, when Lamar Hunt's 32 professionals did not play.

Wimbledon is unique among tennis tournaments in that it is much more than simply a sporting event for the British. It is part of the social calendar and a "day out" for many Britons.

Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, the ATP president, said 70 of his 97 members had said they would not play. He and others said the players wanted a voice in the timing and running of tournaments, and in discplinary cases like Pilic's. One professional source said Davis Cup scheduling should be looked into since it clashed with earning their livelihoods.

Mike Gibson, referee of the tournament, took a hard line. He said any empty places in the men's events would be filled from qualifying tournaments now under way. He said he would not accept a blanket withdrawal from the professionals.

"Make no mistake," he said. "Each one must pull out on his own."

Johnny Miller over $100,000 in winnings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Miller's remarkable victory in the U.S. Open also moved him over the $100,000 mark in tour earnings, the PGA has reported.

Miller, getting a check for $35,000 after his record smashing performance at Oakmont, now has won $114,739. In 1972, his season total was $99,348.

Jack Nicklaus continued at the head of the top ten, his $9,000 for his tie for fourth in the Open giving him $190,266 thus far this year.

Miller's win moved him ahead of Dave Hill, Miller taking over sixth place when Hill declined to play in the Open.

Will protect sons

Howe issues warning to opposing players

HOUSTON (UPI) — Gordie Howe signed a $1 million contract Tuesday to join his sons on the Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Association and immediately issued a warning to any opposing player who might have ideas of making it rough on one of his boys.

"If he gets a Howe, then he's going to hear from me," Howe said after signing a four-year pact with the Aeros, ending a two-year retirement from active playing.

"I won't go after them, but if I get a shot at him, I'll take it," he said. "I'll make sure the Howes will be even. Actually I hate to be even. I'd rather be one up."

Howe's signing came exactly two weeks after his sons, Mark, 18, and Marty, 19, signed four-year contracts with the Aeros. Howe's contract was the third highest in WHA history, behind Bobby Hull's $2.5 million and Derek Sanderson's $1.5 million.

"My only regret, and I have only one, is that I'm sorry I'm not the Gordie Howe I was 10 years ago so I could go out and fulfill what the Aeros want of me and repay them for what they're doing for me," the 45-year-old Howe said.

The former right winger for the Detroit Red Wings is a member of the Hockey Hall of Fame and the game's most prolific scorer with 786 goals in his 25-year career. He was asked whether he would be able to keep up with the younger players.

"I hope they can keep up with me," Howe replied.

Howe said his weakened left wrist which bothered him the final season has healed. He said he had 1 ½ bones removed from it in 1971 and the doctor said it would be as strong as ever in three years.

"If my golf game is any indication, it has healed," Howe said. "There is no pain whatsoever. I imagine it will hurt on a few occasions, especially if it gets in the way of somebody's chest or something, but it's too late to change my habits now."

Howe said he hoped to play on the same line with Mark, a left winger, while Marty was on defense.

"Mark compares to (Alex) Delvecchio in his puck handling ability," he said. "I can foresee he'll be awful easy to play with. His only weakness is that he doesn't shoot enough."

Under the contract, Howe will play as many years as he desires and then join the team in a front office position.

Rams add back, sign Jaworski, second choice

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams said today they had signed their second round draft choice and acquired running back Joe Williams from the New Orleans Saints.

Signed was 21-year-old Ron Jaworski of Youngstown State at Youngstown, Ohio. The 6-2, 197-pound quarterback has been working out with Rams coaches for six weeks.

Williams, 26, a third-year professional, was acquired from the Saints on waivers.

Expo infielder faces leaving or suspension

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal Expos' shortstop Tim Foli has been granted a hearing by the National League on a fine and three-day suspension levied against him as a result of an altercation he had Monday with umpire Ken Burkhart in St. Louis.

An Expos' spokesman said the hearing will be held "as soon as possible" and Foli will be allowed to continue playing in the meantime. Foli was in the lineup for the Expos game at St. Louis Tuesday night.

Foli was fined $250 and suspended for three days by the league for "language and physical contact" with Burkhart in the fifth inning of the Expos game against the Cardinals in St. Louis Monday.

The Montreal shortstop exercised his legal right and appealed the penalty. The league agreed Tuesday to grant him a hearing.

Skater Janet Lynn turns pro, signs $1.45 million contract

CHICAGO (UPI) — Perky Janet Lynn, a blonde 20-year-old figure skater who has won the last five National women's championships and an Olympic bronze medal, today was set to become the highest paid woman athlete in the world.

The tiny star agreed to contracts to turn pro which Tom Scallen of the Ice Follies said would pay her "by all odds the largest amount any professional ice skater ever has received from any ice show in the world."

He said the three-year contract with Ice Follies would pay $1,455,000 and that with other agreements she would make more than $2.5 million from the initial series of contracts. Special TV programs as well as a movie were being planned.

"She will be the highest paid woman athlete in the world," Scallen said.

Miss Lynn, whose family name is Nowicki, signed the agreement in the office of Arthur M. Wirtz, owner of the Chicago Stadium and Chicago Black Hawks who devised the original ice show and convinced Sonja Henie, the 1936 Olympic gold medal winner, to turn pro and star in it.

"I think she's going to be a great star," Wirtz said. "She's the greatest I've seen since Sonja Henie."

Miss Lynn, silver medalist in the world championship this year, said she "never anticipated having that much money. I've skated because I've loved it, and as a professional I'll be freer to do what I want."

"Skating always has been fun for me," she added, "and I'll still have to work as hard as I always have. I only very recently decided to turn professional."

Miss Lynn's ice show engagements will begin in September in Los Angeles and later she will appear in major cities throughout the United States and Canada. She is scheduled to begin an unpaid speaking tour of Japan July 1.

Sports news in brief

BEN CRENSHAW of Texas, trying to win a third straight Collegiate Golf Title, warned the other collegians that he is hitting the ball better than he has in a long time.

Crenshaw paced the West team to a 12½ to 5½ victory over the East Tuesday at Stillwater, Oklahoma Country Club.

PELE AND his Santos of Brazil soccer team ended their American tour Tuesday night with a 4-0 victory over the Baltimore Bays before 12,582 in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium. Pele scored twice and assisted on another Santos goal.

STAN BAHNSEN of the Chicago White Sox, one of three players who refused to sign 1973 contracts, reached agreement with the club Tuesday. Bahnsen had been playing under the terms of a standard clause in his contract which was invoked by the Sox when he did not sign by March 10.

The other two players still unsigned by the Sox are outfielder Rick Reichardt and designated hitter Mike Andrews.

VIC STASIUK, recently fired by the St. Louis Blues of the Nationa Hockey League, has been named an assistant coach with the Vancouver Canucks.

A 12-YEAR-OLD GIRL on the Ypsilanti, Mich. Little League team filed suit Tuesday against the National Little League Office to challenge the constitutionality of its "no girls" rule.

Dodgers look at Bonita pitcher

ONTARIO — Bonita High righthander Ralph Beltran is one of about 30 southland athletes who have been invited to participate in a Dodger tryout camp today at John Galvin Park.

Beltran compiled a 6-5 won-loss record with a 1.89 earned run average this past season at Bonita. The 6-foot-1, 170 pound pitcher plans to attend Mt. San Antonio College this fall.

The Dodgers will conduct tryout camps Thursday and Friday in Fullerton and Encino with scouts Gus Traindos, George Noga and Greg Muleavy in charge.

San Dimas set volleyball loop

SAN DIMAS— The San Dimas Parks & Recreation Department has announced that it will conduct a Co-Ed Vollyeball League during the summer.

A coaches or managers meeting will be held in the crafts room, San Dimas City Hall, Thursday, June 28th, at 7 p.m. All teams interested should send a representative to the meeting. Rules, fees, and schedules will be discussed.

Golf's big 8 in American Golf Classic

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Eight of the top 10 money winners on the pro golf tour, including U.S. Open champ Johnny Miller, are entered for the $160,000 American Golf Classic which opens Thursday at Firestone Country Club.

Jack Nicklaus, with $190,266, and Bruce Crampton with $172,209, head the list. Others are Tom Weiskopf, Lanny Wadkins and Miller, all with over $100,000 in winnings, and John Schlee, Juan Rodriguez and Rod Funseth.

Fourth-ranked Lee Trevino ($155,578) and seventh-ranked Dave Hill ($95,219) are not entered.

Trevino feels he does not play the course well because it puts a premium on long iron shots. He uses a 6-wood for the World Series of Golf, which also is held here.

Miller, who picked up $35,000 for his victory in the Open with a record final round of 63 Sunday, already is beginning to feel the pressures of winning a major title. After the AGC, he plans to take a week or two vacation and then prepare for the July 11 British Open.

About half the field of 102 golfers — with five qualified from Tuesday's Little American Golf Classic—began practice Tuesday.

Crampton, who has won three tournaments this year, lost $10 to playing partner Leonard Thompson. Their scores were not divulged.

The players and course superintendent Pete Miller figured a score of 274 to 278 probably would win this year's tournament. Ray Floyd set the record of 268 in 1969.

Pre, Wottle aim at world mile record

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Olympian Dave Wottle wants to prove his mettle as a miler against versatile distance star Steve Prefontaine and track buffs are whispering about a world record tonight on the fast Hayward Field track.

Prefontaine, who competed here for the University of Oregon, has the best time in the world this season in the mile at 3:55, and also the three mile and six mile. Wottle, who tied the world record in the 800 meter here in 1:44.3 in making the U.S. Olympic team, has a best of 3:57.1 in the mile, compared to Jim Ryun's 3:51.1.

"If I'm going to go around saying that the mile is my best event," Wottle said, "I need a better time."

Wottle doesn't want to jinx his world record prospects.

"If you go into a race thinking about a world record," he explains, "it just doesn't happen."

But then he adds as a contradiction:

"If we come through the first three-quarters in 2:54 or 2:55, there is a chance we could break it. There's even a chance it could go if we go through the three quarters in 2:57.

"If Pre's tired from running the three-mile races (four in the past two weeks in under 13:20); and hangs back, we might go across the three quarters in as high 3:03. Then we'd have a chance at a record."

Wottle said he ran quarter miles on the track Monday and, when he thought he was running 58-or 59-second laps he was really running 57 seconds.

"This is just so much faster than any other track," he said.

Prefontaine said earlier after running his season best time on a cold night this spring that he thought the world record was within his grasp. He said he would go out in 2:52 for the first three laps and kick more from there.

If he does that, it would take only a 59-second last lap to set a world mark.

"Pre is a real tough Rube," said his Oregon coach, Bill Dellinger, a former world class miler. "Once he gets those guys in there, he's going to make them suffer.

"He's not afraid to get beat, and he's certainly not afraid to beat them. He's not afraid to shoot the works."

Mark Feig, an Oregon sophomore who also has run under four minutes and is entered in the race, predicts, "Pre will probably run 2:55 or 2:56 for three-quarters. I'll probably run with him, at least with Wottle.

Pomona Gems down Cards to increase record to 17-3

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The Pomona Post 30 American Legion summer baseball team got its revenge Tuesday afternoon at Ralph Welch Park.

The Gems, collecting their 17th victory of the season, against only three defeats, branded a 5-1 win over the Claremont Connie Mack Cardinals — the team which handed them a 2-1 loss earlier this summer.

While Post 30 pitcher Bob Chaulk kept the visitors off the scoreboard for the first six innings, the top Pomona's batting order provided the key blows to drive in three of the five runs.

Chaulk, who had allowed only two Claremont hits through the first five innings, finally wound up with a four-hitter and only came one out away from recording a shutout.

Meanwhile, the Post 30 bats put two runs in the scorebooks in the third inning when lead-off hitter Wil Lewallen doubled home Cande Rael and Cleve Porter with a shot to the alley in left-center.

Rael started the third-winning rally when he singled to right, and Porter immediately followed with a line drive single between third and short.

Chaulk successfully sacrificed the two runners up one base, and then Lewallen drove them home.

The story was in the top of the batting order again in the fifth when No. 2 batter Jon Freeman singled to drive in one run, with another right behind on a Claremont fielding error.

Chaulk sparked the two-run inning when he singled with one out. Lewallen, who finished the day going three-for-three at the plate, then promptly doubled to the alley in left-center again to put runners on second and third.

Freeman's single to left brought home Chaulk, and when Claremont leftfielder Kent Stalwick bobbled the ball, Lewallen raced to the plate to score Pomona's fourth run of the day.

Post 30 tallied its final run in the sixth frame when Bill Wilkinson walked, stole second and scored when Claremont centerfielder Mark Robertson couldn't find the handle on Eddie Carmean's fly ball.

Claremont couldn't penetrate home plate until the top of the seventh when Tony Janusz doubled and scored two outs later on Stalwick's single to left.

Pomona Post 30 will face Ontario Post 112 Thursday night at 8 p.m. on the John Galvin Park diamond in Ontario, while Claremont jumps back into San Gabriel Valley League play this afternoon by hosting Glendora Post 153 at 5:30 p.m. on the Pomona College diamond.

Tigers' Redfearn earns CIF honor

LOS ANGELES — Wayne Redfearn, Chaffey High's 5-11, 175 pound All-Citrus Belt League catcher, has been named to the third team of the All-CIF 4-A baseball selections, it was announced today by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation.

Redfearn, the senior catcher who was named to the All-Tournament team at the Pomona Elks Baseball Tourey this past season, batted a risp .421 for the 1973 season while leading the Tigers to a co-championship in the CBL.

Chaffey finished the recent campaign with a 15-10-1 record after going through Citrus Belt League play with a 10-4 mark. The Tigers entered the CIF 4-A baseball playoffs against Magnolia, but bowed out early with a 3-2 loss.

Anthony Williams, coach Don Sealy's junior right hander who brought the Santa Monica Vikings their first CIF baseball championship, survived a lengthy and spirited Most Valuable Player voting session by members of the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation's selection board to emerge as the southland's Baseball Player of the Year in 4-A division play for 1973.

At 6-2 and 185 pounds, Williams had a commendable 5-2 league mark with 45 strikeouts and a 1.40 earned run average. As Bay League runner-up, the Vikings got into the playoffs and Williams promptly hurled a no-hitter at Royal High, Marmonte League Champions.

Williams and the Vikings then hung on to edge Hawthorne, 5-4, Villa Park, 7-5, and Lakewood, 7-6, coming back to win the championship against Irvine League Champion Los Alamitos for a 1-0 shutout decision.

Reds sign Royal Oak's Underwood

COVINA — John Underwood, Royal Oak High's pitcher-third baseman, Tuesday signed to play professional baseball with the Cincinnati Reds.

Underwood, an All-Hacienda League selection as an infielder, hit .397 and posted a 7-3 won-loss record with the Romans.

"Pro ball has been my dream all along," he told the Progress-Bulletin. "I thought I'd be drafted with Montreal because they seemed more interested, but I just want to get a shot at playing pro ball."

The Cincinnati prospect was mainly an infielder until this year. "I told coach Doug Majors at the beginning of the year I didn't want to pitch unless I had to because I thought my best chance was as an infielder," Underwood related. "Minnesota also scouted me as an infielder as did Montreal."

Underwood will report Thursday to Bradenton in the Florida State League, the same initial assignment Claremont's Brad Kessler had.

Underwood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Underwood, 19835 Squire Dr., Covina.

Ortega's slam peps L.V. rout

Brian Ranney hurled a four-hitter and Richard Ortega blasted a grand slam home run in the fifth inning to pace La Verne American Legion Post 330 to an easy 16-1 victory over the visiting Charter Oak Connie Mack club Tuesday afternoon at La Verne College.

In local District 25 American Legion play, Montclair Post 616 exploded for six insurance runs in the top of the ninth inning to run away from Rialto Tuesday night, 13-5.

La Verne's Ranney, who pitched for Damien High during the spring season, went the distance against Charter Oak and struck out nine while walking six to record his fourth win of the season.

Charter Oak opened the game with its only run in the top of the first inning, but La Verne came right back and rallied for two runs in the bottom of the inning. The hosts eventually opened up a 6-1 advantage before going into their eight-run fifth inning.

Ortega, who finished the day going three-for-four at the plate while driving in five runs, provided for half of the fifth-inning rush for La Verne with his grand slam.

Al Acosta and Mark Bumstead recorded two hits each in Post 330's winning cause, Acosta going two-for-three with one RBI and Bumstead going two-for-four with one RBI.

La Verne is scheduled to face the Pomona Connie Mack Kings today at 5:30 p.m. on the La Verne College diamond, and will hope to improve its 12-7 seasonal record.

Montclair used three hits, three Rialto errors and two walks in the ninth inning to pull away from the hosts and collect its eighth district win against three losses.

The key blows in the ninth frame came from Dale Biggs (Double), Kevin McLean (Single) and Mike Wolters (double).

Pat Proulx, Wolters and Dave Ross recorded two hits apiece in Montclair's winning effort.

Post 616 starting pitcher Bruce Richardson picked up the victory after going eight of the nine innings.

Montclair is now 11-4 for the season.

Twins sign Greg Sinnard

AZUSA — Greg Sinnard, outfielder-pitcher for Azusa Pacific College the last two years, has signed to play professional baseball with the Minnesota Twins.

Sinnard batted .393 during the regular season with the Cougars and raised his average to .401 in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) playoffs.

The 6-1, 205 pounder struck out 83 batters in 69 two-thirds innings as a pitcher. He was not taken in the recent player draft and signed with Minnesota scout Walt Via as a free agent.

Sinnard left Tuesday morning for Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. of the Florida State League.

Rose joins Davis in exclusive 2,000 club

By United Press International

Willie Davis and Pete Rose joined baseball's 2,000-hit club Tuesday night, but Rose has a much more exclusive club in mind for the future.

Davis, a 33-year-old centerfielder for the Los Angeles Dodgers, made his 2,000th career hit a big one as he stroked a two-run homer in the sixth inning to help the Dodgers down the Atlanta Braves, 3-0.

"I was kind of planning on a homer," said Davis, now in his 14th season with the Dodgers. "People won't believe it, but I didn't want the 2,000th hit to be a fluke. A hit is a hit, but a hit like this leaves no doubt."

Rose, a 31-year-old outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds, joined the select circle with three singles and a double in five at bats as he helped the Reds to a 4-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants. Rose, who finished the night with 2,001 hits, has set 3,000 career hits as one of his goals—a plateau which has been reached by only 11 players in baseball history.

"When I came up I never even thought of getting 1,000 hits let alone 2,000," said Rose, now in his 11th season, "but now I'm thinking about 3,000. My goal now is to bat .300 for 10 years in a row and get 3,000 hits."

He's certainly in a good position to challenge for both goals. He has hit .300 for eight consecutive seasons and he has more hits at this stage of his career than any of the other player that reached the 3,000-hit mark, except for Paul Waner.

Rose's hot bat helped Fred Norman to his second straight shutout since coming over to the Reds from the San Diego Padres last week. Norman allowed only three hits posting his third victory in 10 decisions.

"My problem at San Diego was that it was a losing environment," said Norman, who tossed a five-hitter in his first start for the Reds last Friday night. "I was told when I went out that I shouldn't give up a run. I like Cincinnati because they have a winning attitude."

In other NL action, Houston whipped San Diego 7-3, Philadelphia downed New York 6-1, Montreal topped St. Louis 3-1 and Pittsburgh beat Chicago 4-3 after losing 6-3.

Lee May, extending his hitting streak to 18 games, drove in four runs and Doug Rader hit his seventh homer as the Astros handed the Padres their 10th straight loss. Jerry Reuss went eight innings to gain his eighth victory while Clay Kirby was tagged with his eighth loss.

Mike Schmidt hit his first major league grand slam to spark the Phillies over the Mets. Schmidt's third homer in the last four games came in the fourth inning and tagged Harry Parker with his first loss of the season after five victories. Jim Lonborg, making his first start since May 19, allowed only four hits in eight innings to pick up his fourth victory.

Mike Jorgensen drove in two runs with a pair of singles to help the Expos beat the Cardinals. Steve Renko allowed only three hits in seven innings to gain his sixth victory while Mike Marshall recorded his ninth save.

Milt May's homer with one out in the last of the ninth gave the Pirates a victory over the Cubs and salvaged a split of their doubleheader. Willie Stargell hit his 19th homer of the season for Pittsburgh in the nightcap while Rick Monday and Randy Hundley connected for Chicago.

Monday, who has 16 homers, also homered in the opener as the Cubs won behind Larry Gura. Gura also collected his first major league hit—an infield single—which drove in the final run of a four-run sixth inning. Richie Hebner homered for the Pirates in the first game.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every time he tries to get a little fresh air, everywhere he goes, Del Crandall gets hit with the same thing.

"Can you stay there?"

"Can you keep it up?"

"Did you ever dream in spring training that a thing like this could ever happen?"

Del Crandall smiles. It's very easy for him to do that now with his high-riding Milwaukee Brewers carrying on as if somebody should give them a saliva test.

"Why wouldn't I dream of something like this?" he says. "When I dream, I try to dream of good things, not bad ones."

Del Crandall has a good thing now and he knows it. He has a ball club which finished dead last three of the past four years and nobody in the world, with the possible exception of the stockholders, would've batted an eye had they finished last again this year.

It isn't likely they will.

On the contrary, the bewildering Brewers are beginning to revive World Series' memories in Milwaukee for the first time in 15 years. That was the last time the city had a winner.

The old Milwaukee Braves had some pretty gifted performers that year. Players like Lew Burdette, Eddie Mathews, Red Schoendienst, Bill Bruton, Joe Adcock and Crandall. They also had a pair of superstars like Hank Aaron and Warren Spahn.

The Brewers don't have any superstars though.

Mostly the Brewers are doing as well as they are with rookies and young fellows who aren't even hitting .250, players you've probably barely heard of like Gorman Thomas, Bob Coluccio, Darrell Porter and Tim Johnson.

Davey May, who couldn't even win a regular job with Baltimore, is Milwaukee's most consistent performer, and rookie Pedro Garcia and catcher Ellie Rodriguez come closest to being leaders.

The pitching has been something else, averaging less than three runs a game this month.

Jim Colborn, the 26-year-old righthander discarded by the Cubs, is the Brewers' Tom Seaver. He goes against anyone in the league and figures he can lick them. Jerry Bell, another righthander, feels pretty much the same way. Jim Slaton is forever challenging the hitters with his fast ball, and Bill Parsons is just beginning to make a contribution. In the bullpen, Frank Linzy has been reminiscent of what Sparky Lyle was for the Yankees last year.

Great fan reaction

So turned on by the Brewers have the fans become in Milwaukee lately, that 22,796 of them showed up the other evening for a Monday night contest with the Red Sox despite the fact a tornado alert had been up until two hours before game time.

Colborn pitched a six-hitter in that one for his ninth win and by the ninth inning, all the fans were yelling "We're no. 1! We're No. 1!"

This is third baseman Don Money's first year in Milwaukee. He came to the Brewers this past winter from Philadelphia and isn't too used to such a reaction from the fans.

Mary Decker eyes record in nationals

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — Midget-sized Mary Decker of the Blue Angels Track Club, Huntington Beach, coasted through an 880 semifinal of the National AAU women's track championships in 2:11.4 Tuesday.

The 14-year-old, 4-10, 86-pound star who clocked 2:03.6 in the recent Von's Classic, is conceded an excellent chance to break the national and meet record of 2:08.0 in the finals Wednesday.

Fran Larrieu of the San Jose Cindergals set the mark in 1970.

Miss Decker's chief competition is expected to come from Robin Campbell of Sports International, Washington, D.C., who won her semifinal in 2:11.2.

Eleven of the 19 qualifiers in the high jump cleared 5-5, just two inches shy of the national record.

La Vonne Neal of the Philadelphia Hawks raced the 100-meter hurdles in a fast, but wind-aided 13.9.

Other good marks were registered by Debbie Rivera, South Coast Track Club, San Clemente in the discus, 143-1; Kathy Weston, Will's Spikettes, Sacramento, in the 440, 54.8; and Maureen Abare, Mickey's Missles, San Diego, in the 100 in 10.8, and 220 in 24.2.

Gault joins New York Jets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Gault, former Cleveland Browns third-string quarterback out of Hofstra University, Tuesday signed as a free agent with the New York Jets of the National Football League.

Gault, 27, spent one year active (1970) and three years on the Browns taxi squad before being waived to the San Diego Chargers last year. He wound up the 1972 season with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League.

Olivares has his motivation

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ruben Olivares, the one-time bantamweight king from Mexico City, insists the motivation is still there.

"The goal now," the popular former world champion said through an interpreter, "is the featherweight title. If I win this fight, then I hope I get the opportunity for that title."

Olivares, the happy-go-lucky, ever-smiling playboy, must get past unbeaten Bobby Chacon of San Fernando, Calif., at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., Saturday night.

"I'm prepared to knock him out," said the 26-year-old ex-titleholder. "Of course, a decision would serve the purpose, too."

Olivares is ranked by many as the best bantamweight of all time. He won the 118-pound title by demolishing Australian Lionel Rose in five rounds here in 1969.

He lost his championship on an eighth round knockout at the fists of countryman Rafael Herrera at Mexico City last year.

In 73 fights, he has an incredible total of 64 knockouts.

Olivares refuses to make excuses for the Herrera title loss but it is apparent that he could not make 118 pounds any more.

"I think I'm a better fighter today than I ever was," he said. "I'm stronger at the new weight and I have the advantage of all the years of experience."

This will be his second start as a featherweight. On April 28, he bombed out Walter Seeley of New York in two rounds. The World Boxing Council rates him as the sixth featherweight contender and the World Boxing Association lists him as No. 9 in the 126-pound division.

Chacon, 21, is no Walter Seeley, though. He's a devastating puncher with 17 knockouts in 19 pro wins and right now rates as Los Angeles' hottest boxing attraction.

"He's a very good puncher," agreed Olivares, "but his style is just made for me. He doesn't run and that's the way I like it. I'm well aware that he's very strong but I'm strong, too, and I've trained hard for this fight.

"Were both after the same thing, the featherweight title. I don't think he wants it (the championship) any more than I do."

Olivares hopes to fight WBA featherweight champ Ernesto Marcel of Panama if he gets past Chacon. Eder Jofre of Brazil is the WBC 126-pound titleholder.

"Jofre is an old man," assessed Mexico's matinee idol. "Marcel is much better and that's why I want to fight him."

Mexican, Brazilian soccer champs clash

LOS ANGELES—A pair of national champions from Mexico and Brazil will tangle in an international soccer match at the Coliseum, Friday night at 8 p.m. Defending Mexican national champion Cruz Azul makes its first Los Angeles appearance against Cruzeiro, the club titlist from Brazil.

Cruz Azul has dominated Mexican soccer since 1968, the year it captured the first division title and the Mexican Cup Championship. The Mexican squad will feature 10 members of the Mexican National World Cup team, featuring Bustons, Sanchez, Galindo, Pulido and Salgado.

The team has compiled the finest playing record of any Mexican professional team against foreign opposition. It is coached by Raul Cardenas, Mexico's 1970 World Cup coach.

Last year, Cruz Azul smashed Club America, 4-1, to win the national crown before more than 112,000 fans at Mexico City's Azteca Stadium.

Cruzeiro made its Los Angeles debut last year, edging Guadalajara, 1-0, before 15,327 fans at the Coliseum on Super Bowl Sunday.

One of the world's premier soccer players, Roberto Perfumo, heads the Brazilian eleven which also includes Dirceu Lopes, Ze Carlos and Evaldo from the Brazil World Cup champs.

Advance tickets priced at $5 for men, $4 for ladies, may be purchased at the Coliseum Ticket Office, all Mutual Agencies, Ticketron outlets and any Liberty Ticket Agency in all Wallichs Music City stores.

Irwindale hosts World Championship

IRWINDALE — World Championship Series drag racing action comes to Southern California this Friday and Saturday, when Irwindale Raceway hosts the National Hot Rod Association's $1 million circuit for competitors in the five-state Southwest division.

The second of five divisional points races slated for this area, the $30,000 Irwindale meet has drawn an outstanding field of more than 400 top-rated veterans who are chasing divisional and Western Conference points leading toward the World Finals showdown at Amarillo, Tex., in October. Similar schedules are underway also in each NHRA's six other geographical divisions across the U.S. and Canada.

Heading the list of standouts entered at Irwindale is Butch Leal of Northridge, the current Western Conference leader in the rugged Pro Stock category.

Leal, who captured the divisional crown last year but missed out to Oklahoma driver Don Grotheer in the chase for Conferecne honors, will be at the helm of a Plymouth Duster when he takes on a strong lineup of challengers including 1970 champion Bill Bagshaw of Los Angeles in a Dodge and fast-rising Sonny Bryant of Orange in a Camero.

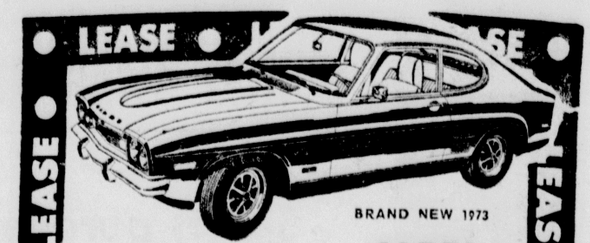

Pro Stock is one of seven Eliminator categories providing the action over the super-quick Irwindale quarter-mile. Top Fuel has drawn former champions James Warren of Bakersfield and Dennis Baca of Bakersfield, along with the sport's quickest driver ever, Don Moody of Santa Monica. More than 30 fuelers in all are entered.

In Funny Car competition, recently-crowned Springnationals champion Dave Beebe of Ananeim will be out to continue his winning streak and retain his 1972 divisional title against a host of challengers that includes Sush Matsubara, Dave Uyehara, Jim Dunn and Danny Ongais.

In addition to the professional categories of Top Fuel, Funny Car and Pro Stock, there will be action in all four sportsman brackets of Competition, Modified, Super Stock and Stock Eliminator.

Qualifying action to set the field for the Saturday night eliminations will be held Friday evening and all day Saturday.

Irwindale Raceway is located east of Los Angeles and is easily reached via the Foothill or San Bernardino Freeways.

Hang Ten Motocross grand Prix hits course Sunday

CARLSBAD — Sunday at Carlsbad raceway, the starters gate will release 40 of the world's top motocross riders from eleven nations for the first heat in America's first ever World Championship Motocross Grand Prix. The Hang Ten United states motocross Grand Prix.

Riders like World Champion Roger de Coster of Belgium and Ake Jonsson of Sweden will fight it out with 20 other Europeans and 20 top Americans for points in the World Championship. This is without a doubt, the strongest field of riders ever to compete in a motocross in the United States.

The Europeans have travelled thousands of miles to the United States following the World Championship trail because the Hang Ten United States Motocross Grand Prix marks the first time in the history of motorcycling that America has hosted a Grand Prix counting for points in the exclusive championship of the world.

All season they have battled up and down the Grand Prix circuit from France to Czechoslovakia and now they are preparing for round 6, the Hang Ten United States Motocross Grand Prix. With 5 rounds left to run, the points battle is extremely close and every point is valuable.

This Sunday's Grand Prix marks a significant step forward in the history of motorcycle sport in the United States as did Jim Pomeroy's achievement of being the first American to win a World Championship Grand Prix earlier this year.

Pomeroy's win at the Spanish Grand Prix indicated that American riders are really on their way to the top. This may sound strange, as American athletes continually dominate other sports. However, up to now America has had a wealth of talented, skillful riders, all lacking one thing — experience.

Now some of these riders are in Europe gaining experience from today's masters of the sport who have a 40 year heritage of motocross, and who really show it when they ride.

The Europeans have dominated the sport for years, but many people here are looking to the recent performance of American riders in Europe with great optimism and hopes are high that an American rider will pass yet another milestone in motorcycling history by winning America's first ever World Championship Motocross Grand Prix. However, most people's money is still on the Europeans to maintain the Status Quo.

Foyt's suit attributed to Stewart

HOUSTON (UPI — A controversial statement attributed to A. J. Foyt and the basis of his $1 million libel suit came from rival racer Jackie Stewart, a Sports Illustrated writer said Tuesday.

Gwilym Brown said Stewart called him after the Miller 500 Ontario, Calif., race in 1971 and told him of the Foyt statement and asked what he thought of it.

Stewart, a British driver, said in a deposition he only asked Brown what he thought Foyt was alleged to have said.

Foyt sued Time, Inc., publisher of Sports Illustrated, over the statement attributed to him in the April, 1971, issue: "Now that I've taken care of these hillbillies, I'm looking forward to beating those long-haired European fags."

Foyt, a three-time winner of the Indianapolis 500, allegedly made the remark after winning the Ontario race. He refuted the statement and said its publication damaged his future earning ability.

Southland racing

EL TORO — Over forty of the United States Racing Club midget racers are slated for action on Saturday night at El Toro's tricky quarter mile dirt layout and the drivers are still chasing La Hebra's Kenny Gidney in the point chase. Gidney divides his time between the two Len Faas Jr. Sesco's.

CORONA — Corona Raceway will play host to Modified Stock cars Sunday at 7 p.m.

The modified stocks, with enough power available to speed them up to and over 100 mph on Corona's half mile straights will be dicing with each other for their share of the purse.

The racing will begin with the popular trophy dash for the fastest five cars. This race decides who is the quickest driver on the track. To date, the fastest driver has been Jerry Jones, a couple driver, who has set and broken the track record a total of six times.

CORONA Once again, the CARA daredevil figure 8 drivers, ¼ mile oval drivers and powder puff drivers attach Corona Raceway's dirt track Saturday at 8 p.m.

On tap for the evenings entertainment will be the usual compliment of thrills and spills in the figure 8 show. Jack Twitchell from San Dimas will be leading off the action as he tries to pull himself out of reach of the other drivers in the point standings. Jack, driving a new car, will be really hustling around the track as the other contenders for the number one spot try every trick in the book to put him out of the action. Twitchell will have to contend with the likes of Don Compton (Riv), the father son team of Jim Jay and John Jay (Anaheim), and super crasher Roger Parsons (Riv).

GARDENA — Jimmy Oskie of Downey, who has had notable success in a borrowed car this month of June, will try to hold his California Racing Association sprint-car lead when regular CRA action resumes at Ascot this Saturday night.

The sprinters, who wound up their second home-and-home series in the Silver Cup competition with Arizona in Phoenix last Saturday, will also try to keep the turnstiles clicking.

IRWINDALE "Jolting" Jack Roberts of Rialto, the only man to crack the Bill Spencer, Ivan Baldwin hold on the winner's circle at San Gabriel Valley Speedway in Irwindale this season, will return to the speedway with a rejuvinated racing machine this Friday night.

Bill Spencer of Buena Park, driving a Chevelle, has five main event wins while Baldwin, in another Chevelle, has two wins to his credit for 1973.

IRWINDALE Whittier's Vince Giamformaggio has Topanga's Steve Parrish more than a little worried as the pair fight it out for the claimer stock car racing championship at San Gabriel Valley Speedway in Irwindale this Saturday evening.

Parrish, the defending champion and current point leader, still holds a solid lead in the 1973 title chase, but former champion, Giamformaggio, continues to chip away at it with two victories in recent weeks.

SAUGUS — Promoter Marshall Wilkings has scheduled a full Sportsman Show plus a double point, $750.00 to win 25-lap Fig 8 Main this Saturday night at the Super Track Saugus Speedway.

SAN BERNARDINO — Sonny Harms of Yucaipa will be back in the thick of NASCAR stock car racing competition at the Orange Show Speedway in San Bernardino this Saturday night after some hair-raising experiences two weeks ago.

There were some terrifying moments at the speedway that night for Harms as he was competing in the "B" main event for six cylinder hobby machines.

Milton Richman's column

"It gets you goose pimply out there with all those fans yelling like that," he says.

All the excitement is getting a little to Del Crandall also.

"I can hardly wait to go out and see the club play," he says. He means it, too.

All the excitement is getting a little to Del Crandall also.

"I don't think I've ever been associated with a club that has shown more raw, sincere enthusiasm," he says.

Can he be a little more specific?

"Well, yes," says the Brewers' manager. "The man's name is Joe Lahoud. Here's a guy 26 years old who believes he can play regularly and wants to play regularly. He has come to me and said 'if I can't play regularly, please try to make a deal for me.' It is not an unreasonable request, and he made it a couple of times to me, but never in a malicious, nasty way.

"Okay, in Monday night's game with the Red Sox, they bring in a lefthander (Rogelio Moret) in the third inning, and I make a change, putting Thomas in right field in place of Lahoud. Lahoud goes up to the clubhouse, changes his sweat shirt, comes back down to the bench and roots louder than anybody else. To me, that is significant. Here's a fellow who'll give anything to play regularly, but you can see how he feels about the ball club."

How about Del Crandall?

When his manager would take him out of a ball game, and he went back into the clubhouse to change his sweatshirt, would he come back to the bench?

"Not always," he confesses. "Sometimes I'd just wait in the clubhouse."

Indians' Hendrick silent about HR feat

By United Press International

George Hendrick was unimpressed during the 1972 World Series when told that Manager Sparky Anderson of the Cincinnati Reds said he resembled Bobby Thomson.

"Who," asked the Oakland A's centerfielder, "is Bobby Thomson?"

The 23-year old Hendrick, who was traded to Cleveland last March, is unlikely ever to achieve the fame of the man who hit the most dramatic home run in baseball history but Tuesday night he joined a rather select group of about 100 players when he hit three homers in leading the Indians to an 8-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Hendrick had two chances to become the 10th player to hit four homers in one game but had to settle for a walk and a game-winning, ninth-inning single.

Then it developed that Hendrick was even less impressed and communicative with his performance than when Anderson compared him to Thomson.

"I don't have anything to say to you guys," he snapped when reporters gathered around him in the Cleveland clubhouse. Then he turned, dressed and left the clubhouse without another word.

The Boston Red Sox defeated the Milwaukee Brewers, 8-4 and 4-1 in 11 innings, the A's beat the Kansas City Royals, 11-6, the New York Yankees shaded the Baltimore Orioles, 5-4, the California Angels topped the Chicago White Sox, 3-1, and the Minnesota Twins whipped the Texas Rangers, 7-3, in other American League games.

Hendrick, who'll probably find himself being called the "Duane Thomas of baseball," hit solo homers in the first, fourth and sixth innings. He walked in the eighth and then delivered his game-winning single with two out in the ninth. A single by John Brohamer, a sacrifice, a walk and an outfield fly set the stage for Hendrick's single which enabled the Indians to break a six-game losing streak.

The Indians had tied the score on John Ellis' two-run eighth inning homer following the walk to Hendrick. The three hom

JIM BREWER
. . . not worrying

Jim Brewer fatalistic about future

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jim Brewer, the patriarch of the Los Angeles Dodgers, is fatalistic about the future.

"When you have your arm cut on twice and you're my age," the soft-spoken relief specialist from Broken Arrow, Okla., said, "you never know what to expect.

"One day I may be out there and it may just all end just like that. I know that day is coming and I can't sit around and worry about it."

Brewer, a Dodger since 1963, sat on a trunk outside his club's dressing room and watched the young faces pass by.

"You know," he sighed, "time sure goes so quick. It seems like it was just yesterday that I was one of the youngest guys around. Now I'm the oldest."

On a team noted for its youth, the 35-year-old screwball artist is in his 14th big league season. The years have taken a toll of his talented left arm.

He had bone chips removed from his elbow late in the 1965 season and had to have a bone spur removed from the elbow last winter.

"If my arm goes," Brewer said philosophically, "it will be all over for me as a player but it won't be a big disappointment like it would have been if I was 22 or 23.

"I've had a great career and I've enjoyed every bit of the seasons."

The No. 1 member of the Dodger bull pen for the past five years has come back strong from his offseason operation. Going into this week's seven-game homestand, he had six saves and a 1.39 ERA with a 3-1 record.

During the past four years, he has averaged 20.8 saves per season. He has been the club leader in saves for five straight years.

The easy-going veteran wasn't sure he was going to make it through spring training. In his first outing, he pitched against the Minnesota Twins in an exhibition at Orlando, Fla., March 21.

"The pain gradually worked itself out in two weeks, though," Brewer said. I haven't had any real problems since although I don't bounce back like I did last year.

"But I don't know if that's because of the operation or because of the fact that I'm a year older."

Being the oldest member of the Dodgers doesn't bother Brewer.

"You're only as old as you feel, I guess," he said sagely, "and I don't feel that old."

Brewer played on the last of Los Angeles' three world championship clubs in 1965. The Dodgers of 1973 could be the fourth but there are no prognostications from the man from Oklahoma.

"I've never made predictions," he explained, "but I'd say we have a darn good chance. I'm surprised with the way we've played. I really couldn't see this good a team in spring training.

"Of the young guys, I'd only seen Buck (Bill Buckner) and (Bill) Russell. But the other young players like (Dave) Lopes, (Ron) Cey and (Joe) Ferguson have really come on, too. It looks to me like this club has quite a future."

Of the Dodger relief corps, Brewer said:

"In the 10 years I've been with the Dodgers, this is the strongest the bullpen has ever been. I mean from a depth standpoint. There's not anyone I wouldn't put in any situation."

Time to put racing in proper perspective

Deke Houlgate

Motor sport today

There comes a time in the day-to-day existence of a newspaper columnist when you sit down to a typewriter with nothing in your mind and a panic sweeps over you. That must have been the case when Virginia Payette confronted her typewriter last week.

Ms. Payette, a charming and articulate commentator on our times through her nationally syndicated column, took what is known in the trade as a "cheap shot" at auto racing.

She's not a sportswriter. She is entitled to her opinion, but here we are with Watergate, smog, the confusing mores of our times, meat prices, the struggle between consumerism and the ethics of American business, and Ms. Payette chooses to write about the Indianapolis 500.

Her expertise? "Automobile racing is not my bag," she writes. "Any speed over 70 makes my conscience squirm and my backside buzz . . . . So it follows that the last place you'd ever find me would be at the Indianapolis 500 on Memorial Day."

If she were alone in her effort to create widespread animosity toward the sport, she could be ignored, but the spectacle of scores, possibly hundreds of self-styled critics who are not bashful about stating they wouldn't be caught dead watching an auto race is getting downright repetitious.

We have never hesitated to leap on auto racing for political shenanigans, stupid management, lax safety supervision, racial bigotry and a host of other problems self-created by the Establishment. But it is time, we feel, to put the so-called carnage of motor sport in its proper perspective.

Football kills many more players annually in this country alone than auto racing kills worldwide. Ditto football injuries. Little League baseball has done more damage to the psyche of its young players than auto racing could ever inflict on its adult participants.

There are more punch drunk prize fighters shining shoes and selling newspapers on corners than there are crippled racing crash victims. The fever of gambling, fanned white-hot by the multiple infections of horse racing, football, baseball, basketball and ice hockey, is virtually unknown in motor sports.

Football had its dark days of cribbing, basketball its point-shaving era, baseball its Black Sox, but there has never been a major scandal in the more than 70 years of auto racing.

Professional football and basketball are on the verge of being thrust into the self-torture of confession over a major drug abuse scandal, but the only thing injected in auto racing is fuel into an engine.

In other words, there are few if any sports which can point to the quality of wholesomeness with the conviction of auto racing.

There is no excuse for the flaming deaths and injuries — including injuries to spectators—last month at Indianapolis. The technology to avoid those horrible fires has been available to the sanction body (USAC) for at least nine years and is just as available today. The start of the race could easily be cleaned up by firing the incompetent officials who have let it get out of hand.

But God save us from these bleeding hearts who wring their hands and call for an end to the bloodshed. Their type of tyranny is much worse than the status quo they protest.

Auto racing means too much to too many people, participants and spectators alike, to have to suffer ignorant and arrogant attacks by such casual observers as Ms. Payette.

The United States Automobile Club, which has been embroiled in controversy over safety since the savage racing crashes at Indianapolis last month, is probably going to adopt a shatter-proof fuel tank—at long last.

The sad irony is that the particular fuel tank it may adopt has been in production since 1969. It's not experimental. It needs no development. It has been saving lives in Vietnam on a daily basis for four years.

Another irony is that the tank and its equally important safety cutoff valves, which prevent fuel spillage when fuel lines are severed, was pioneered by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. It is currently made for the U.S. Army by Goodyear, Firestone and Uniroyal under a government contract that is well known in the aerospace industry.

Why ironic? Because the fuel cells which have been splitting and spilling under the horrendous crash conditions that USAC championship car speeds havs subjected them to are also made by Goodyear and Firestone.

Presumably, if USAC had wanted a better, safer fuel cell to protect the lives of drivers and spectators at its championship races, all it would have had to do was ask the tire companies it was already dealing with to provide one.

A Goodyear spokesman called the safety tank a "crash resistant fuel system." It consists of a fuel cell made of rubber, fabrics and metal fittings that is about twice as heavy compared to the ordinary racing fuel cell.

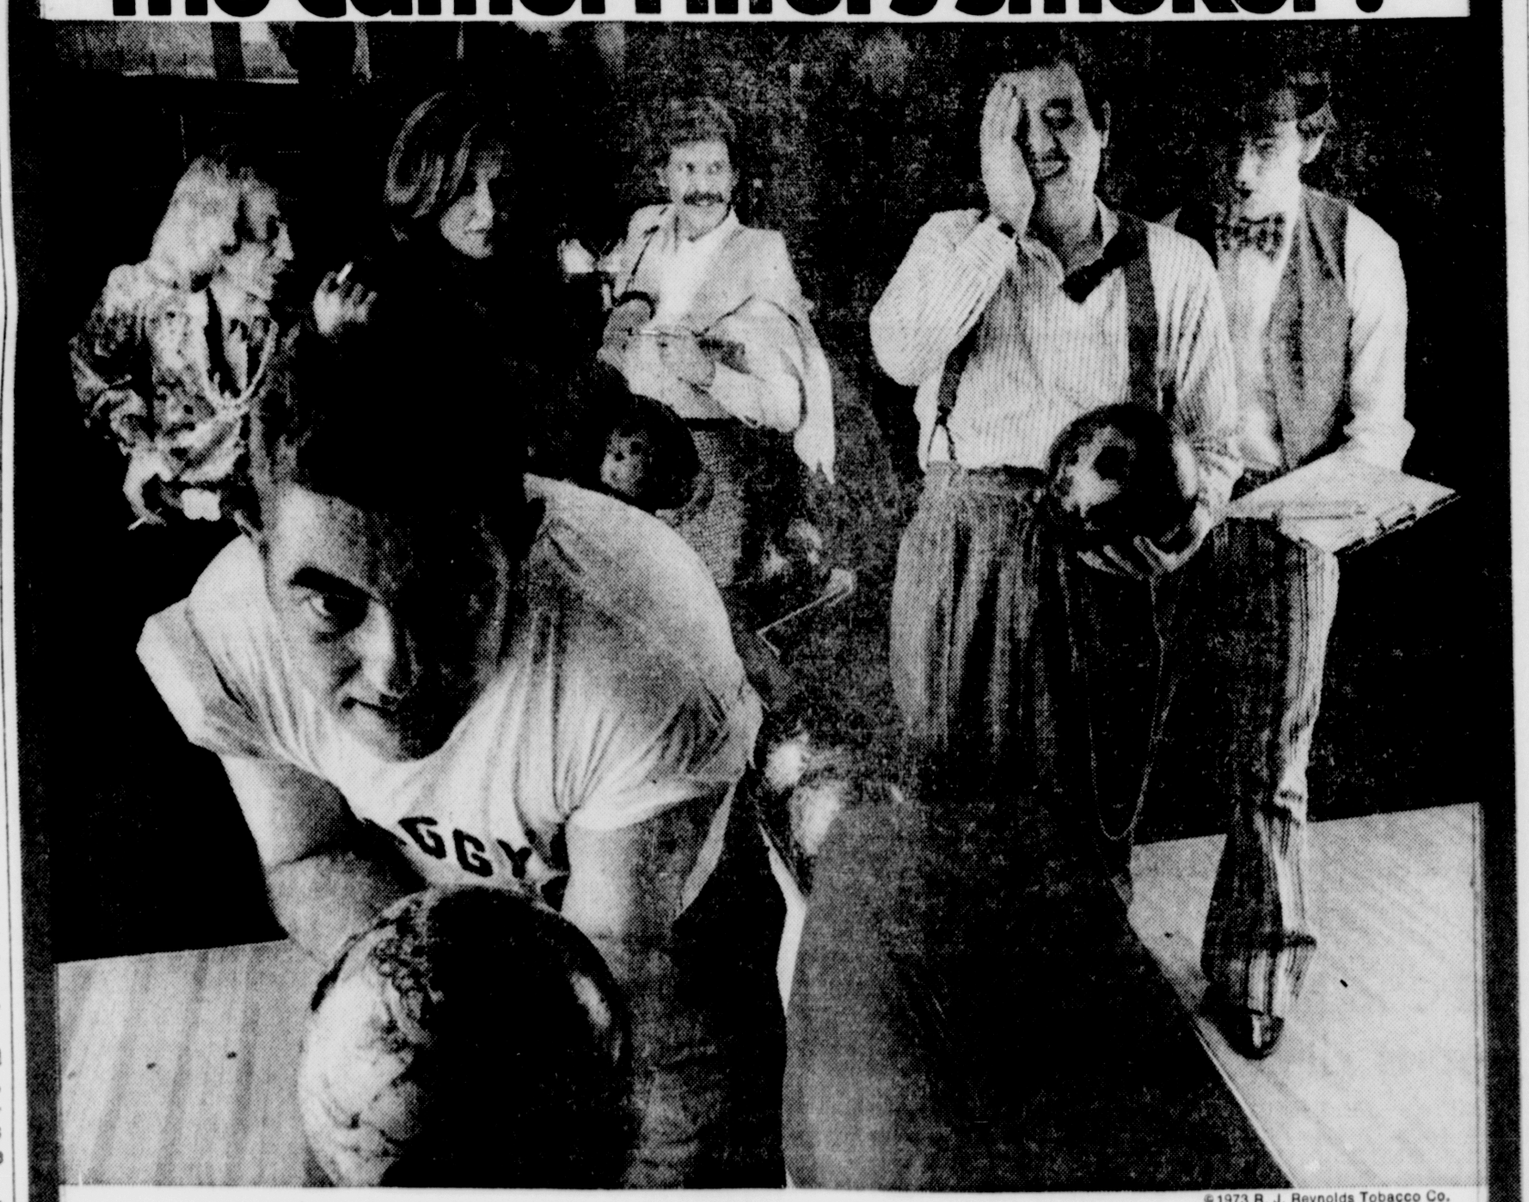

It was tested by dropping the prototypes, loaded with 290 gallons of high test aviation gasoline (a lot more volitile than methanol) from a 70-foot height to simulate a crash of roughly 35 Gs.

The idea, he said, is to prevent post-crash fires in impacts that a human being can reasonably be expected to survive. The limit of endurance is theoretically less than 35 Gs.

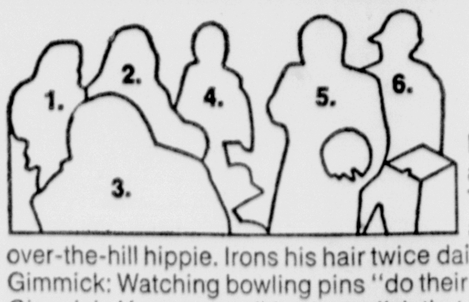

The crash resistant fuel system was developed by Goodyear for the Army to use in its personnel carrying and other helicopters in Southeast Asia. What had been happening when the choppers were shot down was that the personnel aboard had been suffering minor injuries like broken legs only to be incinerated by fuel explosions.

Since the new safety fuel system was developed, according to the spokesman, the Army has recorded 530 crashes. In those crashes there has not been a single death or even an injury caused by "post-crash fires."

Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?

©1973 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

In this picture, everybody has a gimmick... almost everybody. Try picking the one who doesn't go along. 1. No way. He's Gerry Atric, over-the-hill hippie. Irons his hair twice daily. Cigarettes taste just as flat. Gimmick: Watching bowling pins "do their own thing, man." 2. Naomi Glowsoul. Gimmick: Uses so much body english that police have raided the place four times. 3. Nope. It's Angie "The Arm" Kugelman. Throws so hard three automatic pinsetting machines have quit. Smokes cigarettes so heavily filtered, he's like a man giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to a rock. 4. Right. He just likes bowling, not gimmicks. Likes his cigarette honest and no-nonsense, too. Camel Filters. Easy and good tasting. 5. Zooty Smith. Gimmick: Has worn same good luck clothes since he broke 125 in 1942. Smokes war surplus cigarettes and saves the tinfoil. 6. Whiz Kid Pringle. Developed math formula to bowl a perfect strike. Unfortunately releases ball on backswing.

Camel Filters. They're not for everybody (but they could be for you).
